Personal disaster plans to be mailed to residents

Yvette Urrea Moe
San Diego County Communications Office

Do you have a plan if there's a wildfire? Or any emergency? San Diego County is mailing a Personal Disaster Plan to residents who live in the areas of highest fire danger in the community. Residents are encouraged to read it when it arrives, discuss it with the family, complete it and practice it.

Then when an emergency occurs, families will know what to do and can avoid delays in getting everyone to safety.

San Diego County officials, Friday, Oct. 18, asked residents to be on the lookout for an updated 16-page plan which serves as a template and guide for emergency planning for their home or business.

Nearly 200,000 homes and businesses in areas designated as high fire hazard severity zones will receive the guides in the mail. English and Spanish-language Personal Disaster Plans will be printed and available at the San Diego County Library's 33 branch locations in November. The guides are also online now in English and Spanish.

"This is the most dangerous time of the year. This is when some of our biggest wildfires have happened," Chairwoman Dianne Jacob, San Diego County Board of Supervisors, said. "While the County has done a lot to prepare for wildfire, and we're better prepared than we've ever been, the fact remains that our region is only one bad Santa Ana wind away from another disaster. Residents and businesses must do their part, too. Our bigger, better Personal Disaster Plan guide will help them do that."

In addition to disaster preparedness and immediate safety tips to be used during various emergencies, residents can note important information such as medical conditions or equipment and medications, phone numbers for police or fire, personal doctor, power or water company, emergency contacts including at least one out-of-state person and an evacuation plan for their home. A written plan is important if mobile phones don't work or the internet is down.

"Just two years ago, we conducted a county survey and found that only 50% of San Diego County residents felt they were prepared to evacuate within 15 minutes. And only 38% had an emergency plan," Holly Porter, director of San Diego County Office of Emergency Services, said. "Everyone needs to prepare for emergencies and have some basic plans in place to keep themselves and their families as safe as possible."

The disaster plans were last mailed out to residents in 2006,

Witch crashes in Fallbrook

Among the many scarecrows that arrived in Fallbrook at the beginning of the month is this witch who crashed near Village Copy Center on Main Avenue.

Winners of Scarecrow Contest named

FALLBROOK – While a witch in flight had a major run in with a light pole, many other scarecrows can be seen on the streets and at homes in Fallbrook. Close to 100 scarecrows were part of the Fallbrook Scarecrow committee's roster of locations, and many more residents added to the fun in their neighborhood.

Judging is done and the winners were on display at the Harvest Fair. See the list below for details.

For the second year, the Silent People are walking into town on South Mission Road. Bonsall businesses have joined in the event and scarecrows with pumpkin heads are on display in downtown Fallbrook. The Tinman on Joe's Hardware's roof has been upgraded greatly by Mike Guthrie and is now lit all night with solar power; battery power donated by Battery Pros.

Fallbrook Scarecrow Days, a committee of the Fallbrook Chamber of Commerce, works all year to make Fallbrook a special destination for tourists who roam California to find interesting places to visit.

The group provides workshops to help any who want some help to make their own scarecrow. This year the Angel Society gave their support for this effort to bring tourism to Fallbrook and San Diego Gas and Electric repeated their support of this project through its community outreach program.

With this support and the minimal fee charged for the workshops and basic supplies, advertising and press releases are sent to surrounding Southern California locales.

Fallbrook, a unique small town made up of people who really care about their hometown is an ideal location for the Scarecrow Days event. Shop owners, organizations and residents alike participate and make it fun for everyone, while hopefully boosting the economic stability of the downtown area. That was the original purpose of this yearlong work.

2 motorcyclists killed, pedestrian severely injured in three separate Route 76 crashes Oct. 19

Will Fritz
Associate Editor

Two motorcyclists were killed in two separate crashes on state Route 76 Saturday, Oct. 19, and a pedestrian was severely injured in a third crash on the same day.

The pedestrian – a 25-year-old Vista man – was struck just before 6 a.m. while walking along Route 76 near Via Monserate in the Fallbrook area.

He sustained major injuries and was taken to Palomar Medical Center in Escondido, where his condition was unknown. California Highway Patrol officers were working to track down the driver, who took off after the collision. The suspect vehicle was described as a maroon, early 1990s Toyota Corolla, and was believed to have sustained damage to its right front headlight assembly and right front bumper.

Later Saturday evening, the two motorcycle crashes occurred within minutes of each other.

The first one happened at 6:15 p.m. when a Chevrolet Silverado pulling a horse trailer attempted a left turn from Sweetgrass Lane onto Route 76 and struck a motorcyclist heading west on the highway.

The motorcyclist, a 43-year-old man from San Bernardino, died while being taken by medics to Palomar Medical Center in Escondido.

The Silverado was driven by a 24-year-old woman from Hemet. The pickup also had two passengers who were not injured.

The second crash happened six minutes later at 6:21 p.m. on Route 76 at Interstate 15 when a motorcyclist on a Harley Davidson crashed into a Honda Pilot. The driver of the Pilot, a juvenile who was carrying two passengers, told CHP officers that he didn't see the motorcycle when he tried to make a left turn onto I-15.

The motorcyclist was carrying a 43-year-old female passenger and both were thrown to the pavement. The rider was later pronounced dead and his passenger was taken to Palomar Medical Center.

The juvenile driver and his passengers were not injured.

Traffic lanes on Route 76 were shut down during the accident investigation and were re-opened at 8:40 p.m. Saturday.

Health district continues to make progress on Fallbrook Wellness Center

Will Fritz
Associate Editor

The Fallbrook Regional Health District anticipates soon clearing a hurdle to get the future Fallbrook Wellness Center up and running, though it's still unclear when it will actually be operational.

The Fallbrook Community Planning Group approved a plan to modify the future wellness center's major use permit back in September, and the health district anticipates the permit modification will end up in front of the San Diego County Board of Supervisors in December, health district executive director Rachel Mason said.

The property that is planned to be used for the wellness center has previously been used as a church, small school and parsonage.

They broke ground on the future wellness center site in September

Knights of Columbus to hold annual Ben and Lea Aloe Spaghetti Sunday

FALLBROOK - The Knights of Columbus invite everyone to their annual Ben and Lea Aloe Spaghetti Sunday Dinner, Sunday, Nov. 3, from 4-8 p.m. at St. Peter the Apostle Catholic Church parish hall, 450 S Stagecoach Lane, in Fallbrook.

Over 30 years ago, through the Knights of Columbus, Ben and Lea Aloe started the Spaghetti Sunday as a social gathering for fellowship and for all members of the parish to get to know one another. Since then, it has become a community event that stretches out to neighboring communities.

Everyone is invited to come and help the Knights of Columbus spread Ben and Lea’s love of community by attending the dinner which includes spaghetti with meat sauce, garlic bread, salad and an ice cream dessert.

An adult meal is $8 and children’s meals are $6.

Prescription Drug Take Back Day is Oct. 26

FALLBROOK – The San Diego County Sheriff’s Department will collect and dispose of unwanted and expired prescription drugs during the Drug Enforcement Administration’s National Prescription Drug Take Back Day, Saturday, Oct. 26, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Sheriff’s Deputies will be outside the Fallbrook Sheriff’s Substation, 388 East Alvarado St. to collect the medications from residents. This service is free and anonymous. No sharps or needles will be accepted. Unwanted or expired prescription drugs can be dangerous to the community by falling into the wrong hands.

Anyone who can’t participate in Prescription Drug Take Back Day, can always drop off unwanted prescriptions at any Sheriff’s Station or Substation during normal business hours. For more information, visit <https://bit.ly/2J9VdYT>.

All invited to Bonsall’s Fall Festival

BONSALL – The Bonsall Chamber of Commerce is holding its Fall Festival Saturday, Oct. 26, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in River Village, 5256 S. Mission Road in Bonsall. Activities for children include coloring and face painting.

There will also be a pumpkin-decorating contest; participants are to bring a decorated pumpkin to enter, as well as food and vendor booths.

Submitted by Bonsall Chamber of Commerce.

Residents advised to lock car doors

FALLBROOK – The Sheriff’s Department reminded the community to be in the habit of not keeping their valuables in their vehicles and to remember to lock the doors. There has been an increase of thefts from vehicles lately in the Fallbrook area.

Unfortunately, most of the thefts were cases where valuables were left in an unlocked car. Thieves interested in this type of crime will wander streets and parking lots checking door handles hoping to find one that is unlocked with a wallet, bag or anything valuable inside.

Deputies are asking residents to reduce their chances of becoming a victim by not giving thieves the opportunity, and talk to those anyone they know who is setting themselves up to possibly becoming a victim.

If anyone sees someone acting suspiciously around vehicles, they should report it to the Sheriff’s Department at (760) 728-1113 for non-emergencies or dial 911 for emergencies or crimes in progress.

Veterans Moving Forward

Jim Desmond
75th District

A few months ago, I toured the Vista Detention Facility and saw firsthand the incredible work being done by the Veterans Moving Forward Program. With over 241,000 veterans residing in the San Diego Region, some veterans have landed in our jails, many of consequences from post-traumatic stress disorder.

Last week, the San Diego Board of Supervisors voted to enhance the Veterans Moving Forward program, by expanding the community care coordination for veterans in the Vista jail. A problem we continue to run into in San Diego County is the support system crumbling once veterans are out of the program. At our last board meeting, we initiated action by putting a framework in place to continue that support system once veterans are released.

The Veterans Moving Forward program, started in 2013, is a veteran-only, incentive-based housing unit for male inmates who served in and branch of the United States military. The program provides a structured environment for veterans to draw on the positive aspects of their shared military cultures, creates a safe place for healing and rehabilitation and fosters positive peer connection. Peer connection privileges are rewarded through accountability and positive participation. Last year, the Veterans Moving Forward program served 258 veterans at the Vista jail.

A recent report showed that after six months, 23% of the participants reported they were living in their own residence; 24% with family, a friend or significant other; 44% in a group situation and only 8% were living on the street. While there is still work to be done, this is a step in the right direction.

Palomar College has been a tremendous partner who has offered to provide additional vocational opportunities to the Veterans Moving Forward program free of charge during incarceration. This will allow these veterans to engage in hands-on training program immediately upon release at any California Community College.

Many veterans in the Veterans Moving Forward program suffer from post-traumatic stress disorder acquired from their time in the service. They served to protect us; we must now step up and help them move forward.

Highways – a Priority?

Assemblymember Marie Waldron
75th District

In 2004, 67% of San Diego County voters approved a 40-year extension of TransNet, a half-cent sales tax for highway, road and transit projects. Recently, SANDAG proposed making changes to the 2004 ordinance by redirecting funds from several highway projects into mass transit.

Since 2004, only 6% of the funds generated by TransNet have been used to build highways, which are used by over 95% of the people, while 66% has been used to construct public transit projects, used by less than 5% of the people. The public transit projects identified for the voters in the 2004 ordinance were front-loaded, while 14 promised highway projects were never started.

North County’s economy and way of life depend on those congested, outdated highways. That’s why I introduced Assembly Bill 1398, which would require SANDAG to hold public meetings and gain approval from two-thirds of voters before making substantial changes to its spending plans. Fortunately, in a move spearheaded by North County mayors and Supervisors Desmond and Gaspar, SANDAG’s board has approved a compromise aimed at adding lanes to state Routes 67 and 78, along with improvements for SR 52. While 67% of funding over the next seven years will still be dedicated to mass transit, the timing for high priority road improvements was changed so they will be completed sooner. With the growth of our region impacting our roadways, it is essential that we get these road projects moving. My bill will still be ready if needed.

Mass transit systems should be expanded in high-density urban areas, but not at the expense of highways like SR 78 that serve the rest of us. Taxpayers must have confidence their tax dollars are being spent as promised by state and local governments. Since the 2004 TransNet extension included promises for specific road projects, only the voters should be empowered to divert those tax dollars someplace else.

Assembly Republican Leader Marie Waldron, R-Escondido, represents the 75th Assembly District in the California Legislature, which includes the communities of Bonsall, Escondido, Fallbrook, Hidden Meadows, Pala, Palomar Mountain, Pauma Valley, Rainbow, San Marcos, Temecula, Valley Center and Vista.

Dear Elected Officials: Do Your Job

Imagine that the allowance of a 13-year-old boy gets raised to $200 per week. At first the boy is thankful. After three months, however, he asks for a $25 raise because he wants to donate to Public Broadcasting Service as he truly loves the science program, “NOVA.” His parents think it is admirable so they give it to him. Two months later he asks for a $50 per week raise as he wishes to purchase a series of expensive science books. As an outsider, I say it would be wise for him to cut back on his $70 per week expenditure of Kit Kats and Jujubes so he could obtain the books.

The country boy that I am would think that just about all Californians want our fire department to be up to date. Let’s spur our elected officials to reduce funds in areas of less importance.

Remember when Californians voted overwhelmingly to keep Lotto out? Then on the next ballot we were told the money would fund education so “vote for the bill to support our children.” The portion of Lotto money that goes to education is basically nonexistent but Lotto is still here. Remember when a proposed gas tax was to be added on to an already exorbitant tax to improve our California roads, highways, bridges and potholes? The governor recently announced he would use the money for other projects. Huh, imagine that.

Sure we want our fire stations appropriately ready. Do you think our officials should check the budget for Jujubes?

Jerry Maurer

‘Let’s ask the hard questions’

I agree with you 100%. When Chicken Little said the sky is falling, we should take it with a grain of salt before running around screaming hysterically.

I don’t know if mankind has any effect on climate change or not, but I am sure if all the “greenhouse” gases emitted by wild land fires, volcanoes and other none human sources were still contaminating the atmosphere, there wouldn’t be any humans here or other animal life for that matter.

This planet is remarkably self-healing despite what humans, the dominant species, do to destroy it.

Richard Mills

Where are health district funds going?

In the postings from the North County Fire District, one of their comments was that there are not enough funds for them to provide an ambulance service, so they are going to have to bring in a private firm to provide that service.

We pay a lot of good money to the Fallbrook Hospital District each year. We don’t have a hospital, so where are those funds going? I am sure there are enough revenues taken in by the District to provide EMTs and the ambulances needed for an effective service.

I feel that providing a healthcare related service is more in line with a healthcare district than many of the programs that are given money by the district.

Wayne Taylor

The hand

There is an old saying that “the hand that rocks the cradle is the hand that rules the world.” P.S. For all mothers.

Ted Zimmerman

Vote “No” on A and the community benefit program

In the Oct. 10 issue of the Village News, it printed two articles why the taxpayers need to pay $120 more on their yearly taxes. To be quite honest, I can’t believe they are asking us to pay even more.

The economy is bad enough with everything going up and yet they come with their hands out asking for more. You have seniors on fixed incomes, families who are already struggling and military. Living in California is not easy, and this expense makes it even harder.

Do the math. Just for an example, let’s say there are 25,000 parcels or homes to be taxed, 25,000 times $60 for one year, then times that by 20 years. It’s quite a sum to have, till they come asking for more and more since there is “no cap” on the amount, and the length of time as we all know could change and the taxpayer would be stuck with it. What about a grant for it or at least part of it?

As for the CBP, it seems to be a “forever tax,” only over time that $5 would rise to $10 or more since there is “no cap” on this amount as well.

Then since Fallbrook Public Utilities District will be directing this fund, at some point they will raise their administrative fees. What is wrong with this is a little conflict of interest, like opening the door to the hen house for all the foxes to come in. Maybe it’s time to redirect some tax money for a portion of these taxes for 20 years.

Again vote “No” on both of these taxes.

D. L. McCain

Vote ‘No’ on A

There are many reasons to vote “No” on A.

The oversight committee people before and after the election are picked by the taxing agency.

The ballot changes which were made after questions were raised of the proposed ballots.

But the primary reason has to do with that evil thing, money. What are they going to do with the $20 million? They said they are going to build new buildings and buy equipment. How many? Where? What equipment?

In other words, no budget expenditure has been proposed, except in generalities, or in other words they said, “Give us the money and we will spend it.”

When they explain in detail what they want to do with the $20 million, it then could be evaluated as to which way to vote, until then, vote “No” on A.

Rene Cousteau

Dear Julie,

I like the way you think.

Celebrate veterans’ stories with Writers Read

“Away for the Holidays” by Veterans’ Writing Group of San Diego County will be available at Writers Read at the Fallbrook Library, Nov. 12.

FALLBROOK – Writers Read at Fallbrook Library, a free monthly author series, will feature members of the Veterans’ Writing Group of San Diego County Tuesday, Nov. 12. The reading is from 6-7:45 p.m., in the library’s community room.

The Veterans’ Writing Group encourages and supports creative writing by military veterans of all conflicts. They meet monthly in North County to share their lives and stories that are “sometimes funny, sometimes heartbreaking, always ringing true.”

Join the group for their annual Veteran’s Day visit to Writers Read, as they share excerpts from their new collection, “Stories that Need to be Told,” which will be release in December 2019. The reading will be followed by a panel discussion with the authors.

Veterans who will be reading include the following:

Joseph Ashby is a native Coloradoan. The military has been a part of his life since he enlisted

Charlie Wyatt served in the U.S. Navy from 1963 to 1967. He was deployed to Vietnam for a year as skipper of a swift boat. Copies of the group’s first two books, “Away for the Holidays” and “Listen Up! Things I Learned from the Military,” will be available for sale, and advance orders for “Stories That Need to Be Told” will be accepted. Fallbrook Library is located at 124 S. Mission Road, between Alvarado and Fig streets. Writers Read does not meet in December, but the 2020 season will launch Tuesday, Jan. 14, with poet and spoken word artist

Karla Cordero and her new poetry collection, “How to Pull Apart the Earth.” For more information, contact KB Gressitt at kbgressitt@gmail.com or (760) 522-1064. Submitted by Writers Read.

Here are some things you can do this season to save between 4 p.m. and 9 p.m. when energy prices are highest:

-  Caulk/weatherstrip doors and windows to save 10-20% on heating.
-  Do laundry before 4 p.m. or after 9 p.m. when energy prices are lower.
-  Let hot foods cool off (1hr max.) before placing them in the fridge.
-  Turn off computers, TV’s and other electronics when not in use.
-  Prepare meals in a slow cooker outside the hours of 4 p.m. and 9 p.m.

Grand Marshal selected for 38th annual event Fallbrook Christmas Parade

FALLBROOK – The Christmas parade committee announced that Jack Wood has been selected as the Grand Marshal of the 38th annual Fallbrook Christmas Parade. This honor is given to residents who have worked to contribute to the betterment of the community.

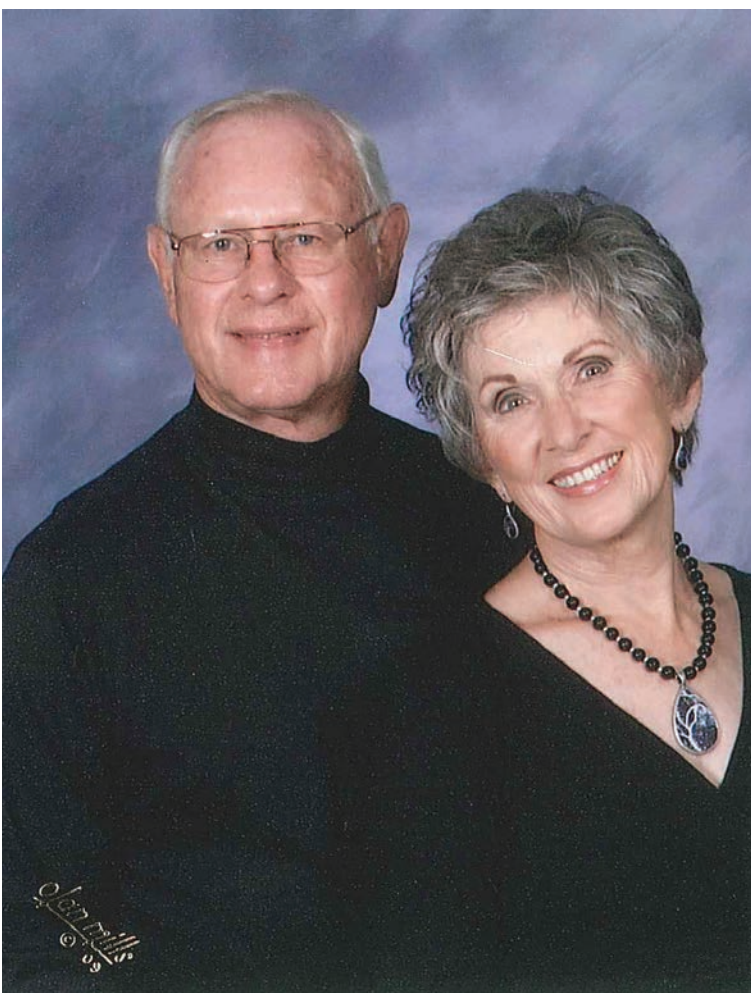

Wood was elected to the Fallbrook Community Planning Group in 2000 and has served nearly 19 years as chair of the land use committee and vice chair of the board.

A long-standing member of the Rotary Club of Fallbrook, Wood served as president in 2006-2007. He also served as president of the Rotary Club Foundation. He runs the Adopt-A-Highway program picking up trash on Interstate 15, one of the first such programs in the state of California.

In 2009, he attended the Volunteer Sheriff Academy and has served 10 years on the Sheriff’s Senior Volunteer Patrol contributing over 5,000 hours of service. He currently leads as co-administrator of that organization. Wood also served 16 years as treasurer for the Fallbrook Smiles Project, a nonprofit providing dental screening and services to disadvantaged children.

Raised in western Illinois, Wood and his wife of 64 years, Joyce, moved to California in 1979. He retired in 1992 as vice president of worldwide sales for Kwikset Lock, a division of Black and Decker.

residents of the “Friendly Village” since 1995.

“Fallbrook is my home and I have been privileged to serve its residents for the past 23 years,” Wood said.

The couple are also active members of Christ the King Lutheran Church in Fallbrook.

Supervisors approve donation for Fallbrook skate park

Joe Naiman
Village News Correspondent

If a donation to the San Diego County or to a county department exceeds $5,000 in value the donation must be approved by the San Diego County Board of Supervisors. The $20,000 donation for the Fallbrook skateboarding park thus went through the board of supervisors’ process but was approved on a 5-0 vote, Oct. 16.

Fallbrook Skatepark Inc. provided the money to the county’s Department of Parks and Recreation for the future skate park. The money can be used for construction of the skateboarding park or to enhance the amenities which will be included in the skate park.

“It’s always great to have the community having skin in the game,” Supervisor Jim Desmond said.

The board of supervisors approved the county’s 2019-2020 budget June 25, and that budget includes $582,000 for the construction of a skate park in Fallbrook. The county supervisors approved a five-year Capital Improvement Needs Assessment Program list March 27, and the skateboarding park ranked 10th on the list of unfunded projects.

The skateboarding park will be the first in Fallbrook. The Department of Parks and Recreation is pursuing land for a new Fallbrook park which will include the skateboarding park.

“We hope to have a site for the skate park,” Desmond said.

Supervisors authorize contract to repair McDonald Road and Rainbow culverts

Joe Naiman
Village News Correspondent

The San Diego County Board of Supervisors approved the replacement or rehabilitation of between 20 and 24 culverts including three on McDonald Road and three at a Rainbow intersection.

A 5-0 board of supervisors’ vote, Wednesday, Oct. 16, approved the authorization for bid and subsequent award of a construction contract for the culverts. The contract is structured to include a base bid of 20 culverts and an additive alternative, which can be added to the contract if funding permits, of four culverts. The base bid includes the McDonald Road and Rainbow culverts.

The county’s Department of Public Works maintains more than 18,000 drainage facilities including more than 14,000 culverts. Stormwater crews inspect all county-maintained culverts on a cyclical basis and prioritize them for rehabilitation or replacement. Field engineering staff members inspect the culverts nearing the end of their service life to determine whether replacing the culverts or rehabilitating them with new lining would be the more preferable option.

Lining a culvert involves the installation of an internal sleeve. Lining methods include cure-in-place pipe which utilizes resin-impregnated fabric inserted into the existing culvert, slip lining insertion of solid wall surface into the existing culvert and insertion of spiral-wound pipe which will expand and line the culvert. The internal sleeve restores the pipe’s structural integrity while reducing excavation and thus minimizing traffic impacts.

Repair of holes and the restoration of capacity without replacing the culvert can also be accomplished by invert paving which consists of preparing the invert surface area, or the bottom of the culvert, to receive concrete, installing bar reinforcement and anchorage devices and paving the inverted area with concrete on the bottom of the pipe to fill existing holes and restore it to a structurally-sound pipe floor. If the culvert is damaged beyond economical repair, a culvert replacement is more appropriate than rehabilitation in which case the existing culvert is removed and a new one is installed.

Three culverts at 799 McDonald Road and 830 McDonald Road will be replaced. The work will also replace three culverts at Fifth Street and Huffstatler Street in Rainbow.

The estimated cost for the culvert repair contract, including contingency, is $1,520,000. Highway User Tax Account revenue derived from the sales tax on gasoline will provide $1,350,000 while a previous-year balance for the San Diego County Flood Control District will be used for $170,000.

The culvert repair and replacement on a countywide basis is scheduled to begin in spring 2020 and be complete during summer 2020. Before the start of construction residents and businesses will receive mailers or notices on door knobs notifying them of the upcoming work. Traffic control measures will be implemented during the construction to limit impacts to community members and other travelers.

Daughters of the American Revolution passes 1 million members

Amy Dickinson is the one-millionth member of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

WASHINGTON, D.C. – The Daughters of the American Revolution Oct. 15, surpassed 1 million members since it’s organization in 1890. That special member was Amy Dickinson.

Dickinson is best known for her nationally syndicated advice column, “Ask Amy,” which succeeded the Ann Landers advice column that ran for almost 50 years. Her column is carried in more than 150 newspapers with an estimated 22 million readers daily. Dickinson is also a best-selling author, a featured panelist on a National Public Radio comedy quiz show and a sought-after public speaker.

“This milestone is a testament to the timeless relevancy of our mission,” President General of the DAR, Denise VanBuren said. “We celebrate all of our 1 million dedicated DAR members and their contributions. We also look very much forward to welcoming the next million women who will ensure that National Society’s mission endures into the future.”

The National Society Daughters of the American Revolution was founded to preserve the memory and spirit of those who contributed to securing American independence.

Any woman 18 years or older, regardless of race, religion or ethnic background, who can prove lineal descent from a patriot of the American Revolution is eligible for membership. DAR is one of the world’s largest and most active women’s service organizations with nearly 185,000 current members in approximately 3,000 chapters worldwide. These members passionately carry out the timeless mission of promoting historic preservation, education and patriotism.

Women who are interested in honoring their own Revolutionary War patriot ancestor and becoming involved in a network of community service oriented women of all ages and backgrounds can learn more about DAR membership at www.dar.org/membership, or by contacting the local chapter Regent Pat Hall at patsyhall852@yahoo.com.

Porter said the Office of Emergency Services has redesigned and updated the guides to include expanded hazard information; additional preparedness and response tips for wildfires, home fires, earthquakes and flooding; more emergency kit items; information about alert and warning systems such as the county’s AlertSanDiego and Wireless Emergency Alerts and defined important disaster terminology used in San Diego County such as: evacuation orders, warnings and shelter-in-place.

“Do not wait for a disaster to make a plan, because it will cost you and your family time that you may not have,” Deputy Chief Nick Schuler, Cal Fire/San Diego County Fire, said. “Preparing for any type of disaster includes creating a Personal Disaster Plan. The plan will help you address all the individual steps to take before, during and after an emergency.”

WELLNESS

2018. The decision was made to open the wellness center after the former Fallbrook Hospital closed in 2014 and was sold three years later.

There are no immediate plans to make major changes to the wellness center site, but once the permit change goes through, Mason said the health district plans to hire a consultant to “restart that conversation with the community to identify what makes the most sense for programming and staff.”

After that happens, some internal changes may be made to the existing church buildings on the site, Mason said.

“Most of it will probably be internal as far as being able to create smaller office space hubs or change the layout for community space,” she said. “The parsonage home will probably see the most internal changes because we want to make that kitchen area available for some cooking or health education classes.”

However, there’s no way to say definitively what changes will be made until the consultant is hired, Mason said.

“Without having a little more direction from consultants on how to better utilize that space, we just aren’t comfortable trying to do that ourselves,” she said. “We’re not space planners.”

The health district already surveyed some community members in May and June to get feedback on what sort of services are needed at the wellness center.

“There haven’t been a lot of obvious things you can see that have happened over there (at the wellness center), but there’s been a lot of infrastructure conversation at the district to make sure that we’re on the same mission and the same path,” Mason said.

As of yet, there is still no clear idea of when the wellness center may open, she said.

“We just don’t know until we identify the consultants, because they may be able to say, ‘Here are some very small tweaks to your existing internal tenant improvements of the property,’ or they may be able to say ‘Hey, we want to take a longer amount of time with the feasibility study,’” Mason said. “Our goal is that by the springtime we should be able to have a better idea and a more fleshed out plan for what that will look like.”

However, the health district did recently allow support groups to start using the property, Monday, Oct. 14.

“That doesn’t require fundamental changes to the property to accommodate that,” Mason said.

And the health district also plans to partner with the local Lions Club to do their large community vision screening program at the wellness center site in November, she said.

THE POWER OF SOLAR

Professionally & aesthetically installed solar systems by Mark Kirk

“We have recently purchased a house in Fallbrook, we could not deny the quality of the work in the house. During the transaction we learned this was owned by one of Mark’s companies. We grabbed the house and we counted ourselves lucky when we saw Mark had gutted and completely remodeled the home when he and his partners purchased the house. The workmanship is superb. So when we found out that Mark’s company did solar installations, we signed a contract, and we knew we were in great hands! Mark’s crew started the install on a Thursday and I was off on Friday. Mark was on the job and I asked him the schedule, he said I would be producing power by Monday, have final inspection by Wednesday and the PTO by Friday. I reacted asking if he meant next month and he replied ‘no, next week.’ We were shocked. I proceeded to tell Mark that we had solar installed on our previous house. It took the company 30 days from the time they began the install until they received the City sign off. It took them another 30 days to get us the Permission to Operate, so you can imagine my disbelief when Mark told me he would have everything completed in a total of 8 days. We both work and we wanted someone there while the install was taking place, because of our animals not being used to the new environment. This would have been extremely difficult for us to have a house sitter there for 60 days. We were pleasantly surprised that Mark did exactly what he said. He had completed the patches in the drywall (Mark wanted all the wiring inside the attic instead of on the roof), the roof redo, final inspection by the County and Permission to Operate from SDG&E. He installed a pest barrier around the entire perimeter and the meter has been running backwards every day since the install was completed. Mark also helped us with a Concrete person for a new patio, locating the Septic tank and digging it out so we could have it pumped, and a Landscape Contractor that helped us with several projects. I also took the day off for the final inspection and Mark clearly had a mutually respectful working relationship with the inspector. The inspector commented on the quality of the installation. His workmanship in the house is awesome, the solar install is great and we recommend this Company for any of your remodel or solar needs.” – Jeff & Susan Turner, Fallbrook

brings fun into fundraising

FALLBROOK – More than 200 community leaders and citizens from North San Diego and Southwest Riverside counties who are interested in the welfare of the area’s growing senior population attended an annual fundraising event at Pala Mesa Resort in support of programs developed and maintained by the Foundation for Senior Care.

According to Dr. Robert Pace, president of the Fallbrook-based organization, “through a combination of outright donations, ticket sales and proceeds from two separate auctions, we generated more than $135,000 to support several projects designed to make life better for the elderly in the region. In addition to participation by my fellow members of the board of directors and the hard-working staff led by Executive Director Keith Birkfeld, we were also joined by a notable number of community leaders from Fallbrook and Temecula, communities where we have two facilities serving seniors with a variety of services.”

He noted that the Foundation for Senior Care is funded through a combination of grants, donations and fees for program-services. Many of those programs, he said, provide transportation for seniors to and from medical facilities in San Diego and Riverside counties as well as in-home support and care for the elderly and counseling for those with special needs.

Pace singled out major donations from Temecula Valley Hospital, Graybill Medical Group, Fallbrook Skilled Nursing, Abbott Labs, Saint John’s Thrift Shop and Pacific Western Bank along with contributions from other local businesses.

More than 100 other individuals and businesses in the two-county area contributed cash or more than 40 prizes for the silent auction part of the “Not the Usual Suspects” mystery-themed fundraiser.

The annual fundraising event, coordinated by Outreach and Development Officer Theresa Geracitano, was held at Pala Mesa Resort, Oct. 19.

Wake up refreshed with simple ways to begin the morning

Family Features
Special to Village News

Ready, set, go. Just as a runner would set off at the starting line of a race, this hectic pace is how mornings begin for many men and women.

Instead of waking with dread to face another hectic morning, consider these tips for a healthier way to ease into daily rituals. While these activities may require an allowance for extra time, the productive results may be pleasing to those who try them.

Meditate. A practice that has been around for thousands of years may still be one of the best stress busters for hurried mornings. To start, find a place in the home that is free of noise and distraction. Practice sitting still, with eyes closed, and focus only on breathing. Using deep, controlled breaths, try to steer thoughts away from negative and stress-inducing thoughts.

Stretch. While the most health-conscious person may opt for a morning sweat-a-thon, working in some stretches can also be beneficial. Upon awaking, think about oft-used muscles and extend each one for 15-30 seconds. Activate. Give the brain some fuel in the morning while also doing something nice for the mind. For example, journaling is a gentle way to ease into the morning and get the brain firing. If thinking of a topic is difficult, simply write down a few affirmations for the day, revisit a pleasant memory from the past or scribble down a goal for the week. Journaling can be an uplifting way to engage the mind and express gratitude for the day ahead.

Don't let anger get the best of you

The American Counseling Association
Special to Village News

In today's world, high levels of stress and anxiety seem to be the norm. People face daily news reports of economic woes, political fights, weather disasters and international threats. And even if they choose to ignore this news, there are still many problems of daily life. Whether it's work pressures, financial worries or normal family and personal issues, it seems there's always something that adds anxiety to people's lives. One unfortunate side effect of all this stress is that sometimes people can reach a point where all it takes is a small incident to unleash an outpouring of rage and anger. This reaction is never a good thing. When someone isn't able to manage and control their anger, the outcome is usually negative for both professional and personal relationships. Experts said anger is the most poorly managed emotion in society. It's estimated that one in five Americans have an anger control problem. This out of control anger, the sudden explosion of emotion and possibly action, a problem many people face. It isn't difficult to judge if unchecked anger might be an issue. Does someone have frequent arguments with others? During an argument have they ever found themselves shouting? Have they broken something; pushed, slapped or physically hurt someone; embarrassed themselves or felt out of control? If any of these apply, consider some actions to better control that anger. First, start by accepting responsibility for the anger. Although someone or something else may have triggered the outburst, the angry person is the one who let it happen and grow out of control. Next, recognize the beginning signs of rage. Anger is easier to control while emotions are still low.

Try to identify the source of the anger. It usually isn't another person, but something inside, an emotional or psychological issue from the past that may be the real source of their becoming upset. Learn to focus on the situation or behavior sparking the anger and not the other person. Criticizing or name-calling only escalates the situation. Use "I" statements to talk about what is being felt and experienced. Lastly, take time to listen and communicate more effectively. Anger should never control a person. If their anger is sometimes out of control, consider an anger management course through the hospital or mental health agency or contact a professional counselor trained to help with anger management issues. *Counseling Corner is provided by the American Counseling Association. # County supervisors approve enhanced reentry program for incarcerated veterans

SAN DIEGO – The San Diego County Board of Supervisors voted to enhance the Veterans Moving Forward program to support incarcerated veterans as they transition out of jail and back into society Wednesday, Oct. 15. The expansion includes Community Care Coordination, C3 for Veterans, in order to reduce recidivism and strengthen reintegration. San Diego has the largest concentration of active duty military service members and veterans in the world. As a result of their experience in the military, many veterans face challenges when reintegrating back into civilian life. These issues can escalate and often lead to veterans entering the justice system or facing homelessness. In 2018, 687 veterans were booked into county jails. Veterans Moving Forward is a partnership between the San Diego County Sheriff's Department and the U.S. Department of Veteran Affairs to provide support services to incarcerated veterans. It promotes responsibility and accountability through participation in classes and training. "It is so important to ensure that those who bravely served our country have a system of support that will help them reintegrate into society in a safe environment that allows them to heal, rehabilitate and access resources that will make them whole and self-sufficient once again," Gaspar said. The C3 team model will include a case manager and peer support specialists who act as personal advocates to facilitate connections to services. This comprehensive system of support will increase access to affordable housing and help identify eligibility for Veterans Affairs and community support programs. Additionally, it will create a pre-apprenticeship program to help them transition into real world training and jobs. "Many veterans in the Veterans Moving Forward program suffer from post-traumatic stress disorder acquired from their time in the service. They served to protect us; we must now step up and help them move forward. They have the support of camaraderie in jail; this will continue that support when they get out of jail, which will make it more successful," Supervisor Jim Desmond said. Implementation of the program will begin immediately and require a continued partnership between San Diego County, Veterans Affairs and community providers.

Supervisors approve ambulance spare wheel exemption

Joe Naiman
Village News Correspondent

The exemption for the North County Fire Protection District to carry a spare wheel on district ambulances has been extended. A 5-0 San Diego County Board of Supervisors vote Tuesday, Oct. 15, provided a two-year extension for NCFPD, 11 other fire protection districts or city fire departments, and four ambulance companies. The exemptions are through Dec. 31, 2021. The California Code of Regulations requires ambulances to carry spare wheels with tires of appropriate load rating, along with tools for wheel changes, but that state code also includes a section which allows the California Highway Patrol to grant exemptions upon showing good cause and the California Vehicle Code mandates that the CHP grant exemptions in the interest of public health and safety if such exemptions are requested by the county Board of Supervisors. The exemptions allow ambulances to carry additional medical supplies and equipment, and if an ambulance has a flat tire the closest available ambulance is dispatched to minimize the delay to transport a patient. Exemptions must be granted every two years. The previous exemptions were granted in November 2017 and were scheduled to expire Dec. 31. The initial two-year exemptions were approved by the board of supervisors in January 2002 and exemptions were also approved in December 2003, December 2005, December 2007, October 2009, December 2011, December 2013 and November 2015.

San Diego County supervisors pass e-smoking products ban in unincorporated areas

City News Service
Special to Village News

The San Diego Board of Supervisors voted 3-2 Tuesday, Oct. 15, to impose a one-year ban on the sale and distribution of all electronic smoking devices in unincorporated areas of San Diego County. Along with the ban on devices, the county will also prohibit the sale and distribution of all flavored products for smoking, prohibit smoking in outdoor dining patio areas and establish a buffer zone outside of outdoor dining patio areas. The board's decision came after a lengthy and sometimes emotional public hearing. Supervisors Greg Cox, Nathan Fletcher and Dianne Jacob voted in favor of the ban, while their colleagues Jim Desmond and Kristin Gaspar were opposed. The new policy will not apply to the tobacco used in hookahs. County chief administrative officer Helen N. Robbins-Meyer will return to the board within 60 days with more specifics on enacting the ban, along with a tobacco retail licensing program and targeted vaping public health awareness campaign. Jacob said recent reports about vaping-related illnesses and deaths justified the new rules. Residents in favor of the ban cited the growing national health concerns over flavored vaping products. P. Kay Coleman, an Encinitas resident and cancer survivor, said she grew up in a home "filled with smoke" and hated it. Coleman said she started smoking at age 16 and was diagnosed with cancer at 44. "I have spent the last years of my life trying to be a citizen advocate," she told the board. "You all have the power to do something to stop this epidemic." According to the county, there have been 19 confirmed deaths and more than 1,080 confirmed and probable vaping-associated pulmonary injury cases nationally.

In San Diego County, there have been 22 confirmed and probable VAPI cases reported among county residents. Those opposed – many of them vaping or tobacco-shop owners – said it was black-market tetrahydrocannabinol products that were the biggest problem, and vaping has helped many people quit smoking regular tobacco cigarettes. Some opponents said their businesses would be seriously harmed by such a ban. Chris Hartjen, owner of the Vapor Trail store in Ramona, said he's always followed the law when it comes to selling smoking products. Hartjen added that as a single father, he educates his daughter about vaping and agrees that there needs to be better enforcement. However, the health crisis has been caused by the black market, which will only increase if county enacts a ban, Hartjen said. "This is my livelihood," Hartjen told the board. "I pay taxes, too." Fletcher said there "are clear dangers associated" with electronic cigarettes and vaping devices. "The simple reality is people are getting sick, and people are dying," Fletcher said. "We have an obligation to act in the interest of public health."

Both Desmond and Gaspar criticized the ban as government overreach. Gaspar said while she supports strong regulation when it comes to protecting children from smoking hazard, "This item misses the mark in favor of political grandstanding." The proposal, Gaspar said, also unfairly targets law-abiding business owners. Gaspar said young people today do everything on their phones, including buying e-cigarettes or marijuana products via apps like Snapchat. Desmond said that it's already against the law for those under 21 to use vaping products, and the county enforcing and tightening existing laws rather than creating new ones.

Silvergate Fallbrook celebrates Oktoberfest with stout ale, folk dancers

FALLBROOK – Good old-fashioned German-style festivities delighted residents and guests at an Oktoberfest event Oct. 10, at Silvergate Retirement Residence in Fallbrook.

The event was a nod to the worldwide phenomenon which celebrates Bavarian culture with flowing pints of hearty beer and traditional Eastern-European food.

Organizers fashioned the event after the activities and cuisine that were originally a part of the festival in Germany. Carrie Hensley, social activities director for the community of Silvergate, said that the history of Octoberfest dates back more than 200 years, when Bavaria’s Crown Prince Ludwig married Princess Therese of Saxony-Hildburghausen in October 1810.

“The wedding of the Crown Prince was celebrated with multiple days of drinking, feasting and horse races,” Hensley said. “We wanted to infuse some of the fun and food of the Oktoberfest celebration into our celebration right here in Fallbrook.”

The traditions of the festival were carried on at Silvergate as festival participants were treated to plenty of German-inspired appetizers and treats. The cuisine for the event was prepared by the

Pala Casino Spa and Resort presents Theresa Caputo Live! The Experience

PALA – Pala Casino Spa and Resort announced Theresa Caputo, from TLC’s hit show, “Long Island Medium,” will be appearing live at the Pala Events Center Friday, Jan. 24, 2020, at 8 p.m. Caputo will share personal stories about her life and explain how her gift works. She will deliver healing messages to audience members and give people comfort knowing that their loved ones who passed are still with them, just in a different way.

“The Experience” brings Caputo face-to-face with her fans, as she lets spirit guide her through the audience. A video display ensures everyone in the venue has an upclose-hands-on experience regardless of seat location. “The experience isn’t about believing in mediums. It’s about witnessing something life-changing,” Caputo said. “It’s like ‘Long Island Medium’ live, witnessing firsthand spirit communication.”

The highly-rated show “Long Island Medium” followed Caputo’s life as a typical Long Island mother with one very big difference: she can communicate with the dead. Since she cannot “turn off” this gift, messages from departed loved ones can come through at any time, which lead to spontaneous readings with those she encounters. In addition to her television show, Caputo has appeared on such programs as “Jay Leno,” “Jimmy Fallon,” “Steve Harvey,” “Live with Kelly and Michael,” “Dr. Oz” and “The Today Show.”

Her latest book, “Good Grief: Heal Your Soul, Honor Your Loved Ones and Learn to Live Again,” was released in 2017 and debuted on The New York Times Best Sellers List at No. 3. With her energetic, positive and encouraging tone, Caputo uses the lessons from spirit to guide the reader through grief toward a place of solace and healing. Her second book titled “You Can’t Make This Stuff Up” was released in September 2014 and debuted at No. 9 on The New York Times Best Sellers List. Her first book titled “There’s More to Life Than This” was released in fall 2013.

Theresa Caputo Live: the Experience comes to Pala Casino Spa and Resort Jan. 24.

Caputo has been a practicing medium for over 20 years. She helps individuals find closure by delivering healing messages. She said it is not just her job, it is her life. Learn more at www.theresacaputo.com.

Good actors can't save 'Ring Round the Moon'

Elizabeth Youngman-Westphal

Special to Village News

Is it any wonder when a play was written in 1947, adapted in 1950 and performed in 2019 that it comes across as stale? Playwright Jean Anouilh wrote “Invitation to the Castle” in 1947, and in 1950 Christopher Fry translated it for the London audience.

Of course, isn't everyone familiar with British humor? The Brits seem to thrive on slamming doors, misdirection and other wide bits of farcical humor. As an audience member, I find it such an exhaustive way to have to watch a play. Quite honestly, the script for "Ring Round the Moon" is exhausting.

While the cast is filled with San Diego's premier ensemble actors – who desperately try to work magic from the pages of a 60-year old script – it never happens.

Even with Brian Mackey's record for entrances and exits – he is the man of the hour – he cannot save the too often told tale. Mackey's performance is whimsical, deadly funny and filled with disparagement. He slips deftly between Hugo and Frederic. He is one of the best parts of this show.

Next up is local song and dance man Donny Gersonde as Patrice. As the shy secretary, he not only embodies his character, he also dances beautifully.

Playing industrialist Messerschmann is Manny Fernandes. Fernandes takes his small part and quietly makes every scene count with his powerful presence.

Adding to the shyness, Romainville, played by John Rosen, and Messerschmann frequently meet in the garden adding intrigue where none existed until they created it.

David McBean shines as Joshua, the stately butler, along with handsome footman Justin K. Lang, an actor and teacher; they are the eye candy.

Chanteuse, Angela Chatelain Avila, warms the air with her violin as she subtly meanders through the scenes adding dimension to the script.

Deborah Gilmour Smyth claims Madame Desmortes with her usual fervor. Co-directing and acting – it would have been a better use of her talent to find a stronger script.

That said, all of the ladies perform their roles to perfection.

Joy Yvonne Jones takes on Isabelle, the distracting ingenue who is hovered over by her manipulating mother played by Yolanda Marie Franklin.

Two other ladies include the married Lady India, played on point by Siri Hafso who is luring the bashful Patrice into an affair, and Capulet who is Madame's attendant and played stealthily by Cynthia Gerber.

And leading lady Rachael Van Wormer as Diana is a pleasant eye-ful.

Costumes were lavish – high praise going to Jeanne Reith. A spectacular set designed by Mike Buckley proves why he works all over Southern California. Lighting designer Nathan Pierson worked his magic by enhancing the castle grounds.

And still, with all of this great talent, even they couldn't pull off this old storyline. It's too bad, because the actors worked really hard to try to make this outdated script work and never has a cast performed better. They just couldn't save the show.

“Ring Round the Moon” will play at Lamb’s Players Theater, 1142 Orange Avenue, in Coronado until Nov. 17. There is plenty of free street parking available nearby.

Fortunately their next show brings up their traditional "Festival of Christmas," running Dec. 5-29. Their holiday shows are worth the drive.

For tickets, call the box office at (619) 437-6000 or visit www.lambplayers.org.

“Ring Round the Moon” is rated 8 out of 10.

Sons of Norway to visit Seaman's Church Christmas Bazaar

The Sons of Norway Scandinavian group from Temecula will visit the San Pedro Seaman's Church for a day of Scandinavian food and shopping, Friday, Nov. 22, in San Pedro.

Courtesy photo

TEMECULA – The Sons of Norway Scandinavian group from Temecula is planning a trip to the San Pedro Seaman's Church for a day of Scandinavian food and shopping. The community is invited to come learn more about Scandinavian culture and traditions.

Those who attend will be taking provided transportation in the morning of Friday, Nov. 22, to visit the church and do some Christmas shopping at their Christmas Bazaar before returning that late afternoon.

The Norwegian church was founded by Elbjørg Amundsen Baardsen and her husband Sig. It opened in 1946 and in 1951 the congregation moved to its present location at 1035 South Beacon Street in San Pedro. Since 1952, there has also been a Swedish staff at the church, and a Swedish service takes place once every month. Lutheran baptisms, confirmations, weddings and funerals are performed at the Norwegian Seamen's Church, but the church is open to everyone and not only to Lutherans.

NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property.

NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call (800) 280-2832 or visit this Internet Web site www.auction.com, using the file number assigned to this case 14-31042. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale.

T.S. No. 18-54708 APN: 174-122-12-00
NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE
YOU ARE IN DEFAULT UNDER A DEED OF TRUST DATED 11/2/2006. UNLESS YOU TAKE ACTION TO PROTECT YOUR PROPERTY, IT MAY BE SOLD AT A PUBLIC SALE. IF YOU NEED AN EXPLANATION OF THE NATURE OF THE PROCEEDING AGAINST YOU, YOU SHOULD CONTACT A LAWYER.
A public auction sale to the highest bidder for cash, cashier's check drawn on a state or national bank, check drawn by a state or federal credit union, or a check drawn by a state or federal savings and loan association, or savings association, or savings bank specified in Section 5102 of the Financial Code and authorized to do business in this state will be held by the duly appointed trustee as shown below, of all right, title, and interest conveyed to and now held by the trustee in the hereinafter described property under and pursuant to a Deed of Trust described below. The sale will be made, but without covenant or warranty, expressed or implied, regarding title, possession, or encumbrances, to pay the remaining principal sum of the note(s) secured by the Deed of Trust, with interest and late charges thereon, as provided in the note(s), advances, under the terms of the Deed of Trust, interest thereon, fees, charges and expenses of the Trustee for the total amount (at the time of the initial publication of the Notice of Sale) reasonably estimated to be set forth below. The amount may be greater on the day of sale.

Trustor: TERI L RIDER, AN UNMARRIED WOMAN
Duly Appointed Trustee: ZBS Law, LLP fka Zieve, Brodnax & Steele, LLP Deed of Trust recorded 11/8/2006, as Instrument No. 2006-0797589, The subject Deed of Trust was modified by Home Affordable Modification Agreement recorded as Instrument 2011-0700651 and recorded on 12/28/2011, of Official Records in the office of the Recorder of San Diego County, California, Date of Sale: 11/8/2019 at 9:00 AM
Place of Sale: Entrance of the East County Regional Center, East County Regional Center, 250 E. Main Street, El Cajon, CA 92020

Estimated amount of unpaid balance and other charges: $394,127.31
Note: Because the Beneficiary reserves the right to bid less than the total debt owed, it is possible that at the time of the sale the opening bid may be less than the total debt owed.

Street Address or other common designation of real property: 1810 Alessandro Trail Vista, California 92084
Described as follows:
As more fully described on said Deed of Trust.

A.P.N. #: 174-122-12-00
The undersigned Trustee disclaims any liability for any incorrectness of the street address or other common designation, if any, shown above. If no street address or other common designation is shown, directions to the location of the property may be obtained by sending a written request to the beneficiary within 10 days of the date of first publication of this Notice of Sale.

NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property.

NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call (800) 280-2832 or visit this Internet Web site www.auction.com, using the file number assigned to this case 18-54708. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale.

Study: Democrats’ plans total $40 trillion, proposed tax hikes $4 trillion

Mark Tapscott
The Epoch Times

Democratic presidential candidates’ spending programs such as Medicare for All and free college tuition would cost, on average, $40 trillion over 10 years, but their “tax the rich” plans will only raise about $4 trillion, according to a new study.

The list of new spending ideas put forth by the top Democratic presidential seekers runs the gamut from the Green New Deal and more generous Social Security benefits to universal child care and student debt cancellation.

Total cost estimates for the list from each candidate average $40 trillion, according to Manhattan Institute senior fellow Brian Reidl, with Sen. Bernie Sanders, Independent, Vermont, showing the highest, at $97 trillion.

“To put these figures in context entire gross domestic product over the next decade is projected by the Congressional Budget Office to be $262 trillion, and current federal spending is projected at $60 trillion,” Reidl said in the study published Oct. 17.

Reidl pointed to statements among the candidates claiming their proposals can be funded simply by raising federal taxes on the wealthiest taxpayers, while holding taxes on middle income families at current rates.

As an example, Reidl cited Sanders.

“I believe that we should be asking the very wealthiest people in this country to start paying their fair share of taxes,” Sanders said. “That way, we will not only lower the deficit, but we will bring in enough revenue to invest in our economy and create the millions of new jobs we desperately need.”

“My vision for Medicare for All does not include a middle-class tax hike. I’m not prepared to do that,” Sen. Kamala Harris, D. California, has said according to Reidl.

The issue of how to fund new spending proposals was on center stage during the Oct. 15 Democratic presidential debate.

When Sen. Elizabeth Warren (D-Mass.) was asked for a yes-or-no answer on whether her Medicare for All plan would require higher middle-class taxes, she said, “I will not sign a bill into law that does not lower costs for middle-class families.”

Warren’s evasive response drew a sharp rebuke from South Bend, Indiana, Mayor Pete Buttigieg, who said: “Well, we heard it tonight – a yes-or-no question that didn’t get a yes-or-no answer. This is why people here in the Midwest are so frustrated with Washington in general and Capitol Hill in particular.”

“No plan has been laid out to explain how a multi-trillion dollar hole in this Medicare for All plan that Sen. Warren is putting forward is supposed to get filled in,” Buttigieg said.

Looking directly at Warren, Buttigieg said, “Your signature, senator, is to have a plan for everything, except this.”

Reidl also found that:

- Government taking 100 percent of all income earned above a $1 million threshold would generate no more than $8.9 trillion in new revenues.
- Paying for $40 trillion in new spending would require raising the payroll tax by 38 percentage points or imposing an 88 percent national sales tax, even after imposing massive spending cuts on the Department of Defense.
- To make up the difference between total added spending and revenues generated by higher taxes on the wealthy, the federal government would have to double or triple the median household tax of $5,000.
- Even if these new programs were successfully financed, the federal budget’s annual baseline deficit over the next decade under current policies would still exceed $15.5 trillion.

Growing entitlement spending is the basic problem facing government officials and taxpayers, according to Reidl.

“The federal government is on an unsustainable fiscal path toward consistent $1 trillion budget deficits,” he said in the study, but “annual Social Security and Medicare shortfalls will rise from $440 billion to $1,656 trillion over the next decade, pushing annual budget deficits above $2 trillion under current policies.”

Without major benefit cuts for the 74 million retiring Baby Boomers beginning to enter the Social Security and Medicare programs, taxes on current workers will have to be raised, he said.

Facebook ramps up election security efforts ahead of 2020

Barbara Ortutay
Associated Press

With just over a year left until the 2020 U.S. presidential election, Facebook is stepping up its efforts to ensure it is not used as a tool to interfere in politics and democracies around the world.

The efforts outlined Monday include a special security tool for elected officials and candidates that monitors their accounts for hacking attempts such as login attempts from unusual locations or unverified devices. Facebook said Monday it will also label state-controlled media as such, label fact-checks more clearly and invest $2 million in media literacy projects.

The company also announced it has removed four networks of fake, state-backed misinformation-spreading accounts based in Russia and Iran. These networks sought to disrupt elections in the U.S., North Africa and Latin America, the company said. In the past year, Facebook said it has taken down 50 such clusters of accounts, a sign that efforts to use its services to disrupt elections are not letting up.

“Elections have changed significantly since 2016 and Facebook has too,” CEO Mark Zuckerberg said in a conference call Monday. The social network was caught embarrassingly off guard during the 2016 election, having let others use its platform to spread misinformation, manipulate voters and meddle with democracy.

Facebook is under fire from presidential candidates, lawmakers and regulators and privacy advocates around the world for problems ranging from election security to alleged anti-competitive behavior, privacy violations and what many see as its outsized, often negative influence on society. It’s under several antitrust investigations in the U.S.

The scrutiny from all sides has been ramping up since the 2016 elections. Getting it right in 2020 — or at least preventing a disaster — is crucial for the company. But even if nothing goes terribly wrong, Facebook’s efforts are unlikely to mollify politicians and regulators concerned about its clout.

As part of its efforts to clamp down on misinformation, Facebook said it will add more prominent labels on debunked posts on Facebook as well as on Instagram. It will put labels on top of what are deemed “false” and “partly false” photos and videos.

But Facebook will continue to allow politicians to run ads containing misinformation . And it hasn’t said much about how it handles misinformation spread on its private messaging services such as WhatsApp and Messenger, at least beyond simple measures such as limiting how many times messages can be forwarded.

Critics say Facebook’s measures don’t go far enough and argue that the main problem is its business model, which depends on targeted advertisements and making sure that users stay engaged and entertained. Sen. Elizabeth Warren, a leading Democratic presidential candidate and one of Facebook’s biggest critics , has proposed breaking it up.

Facebook also said it will add more information about the people or groups who establish or manage Facebook pages. The company said Monday it has noticed groups and people “failing” to disclose the organizations behind pages, which can mislead users into thinking those pages are independent. Starting with large pages in the U.S., Facebook said it is adding a new section about “organizations that manage this page.”

Facebook said it will require the page’s creators to add this information in order to run ads. The rule applies to pages that have gone through the company’s business verification process and to pages that run ads about social issues, elections or politics. If the page creators don’t post this information, they won’t be allowed to advertise.

Smoking, vaping banned in California State Parks and beaches starting January

Chris Karr
The Epoch Times

In a noteworthy break from his predecessors, Gov. Gavin Newsom has signed a new law that forbids smoking and vaping at state parks and beaches. The law applies equally to marijuana, tobacco, pipes and any form of e-cigarettes.

As of January, violators of the new law will be fined up to $25 for smoking or disposing of cigarette or cigar waste.

The law will apply to California’s 280 state parks and 300 miles of beaches. However, state park officials will be given the option to appoint specific areas for smoking at their discretion.

Existing law already establishes that anyone who smokes within 25 feet of playgrounds, “tot lot sandbox” areas, farmers’ markets, in government buildings or on public transportation, can be fined up to $250.

The initial bill was amended to permit smoking on paved roads and in parking lots. Another exception to the law is that film and television productions will be given clearance to smoke on state property if they secure the appropriate permits.

California’s Department of Parks and Recreation is tasked with posting approximately 5,600 signs to ensure that individuals are aware of the prohibition. The estimated cost of informing people of this restriction will be anywhere between $1.1 and $2 million.

“This bill will provide a cleaner, safer and healthier environment for people, fish and wildlife,” Sen. Steve Glazer, D-Orinda, the author of the SB-8, said after the law was signed. “Cigarettes are one of the biggest polluters on our beaches. It harms people through secondhand smoke and kills fish, which are affected by the tainted trash.”

Assemblyman Marc Levine, D-Greenbrae, said he was glad that California State Parks and beaches will now be tobacco free.

“In fact, I’m camping at China Camp State Park tonight,” Levine said. “As a park lover, I am glad I pushed this for three years.”

Other advocates for the bill have cited the connection between wildfires and jettisoned cigarette butts.

According to the California Department of Forestry and Fire Protection, careless smokers are responsible for about 44 wildfires every year for the past five years.

Nearly identical proposals have been vetoed by Governors Jerry Brown and Arnold Schwarzenegger seven times during the past decade.

After Brown vetoed the same bill for the third time in three years, he cited concerns in his veto comments about the “coercive power of government,” saying that the “third time is not always a charm.”

“My opinion on the matter has not changed,” he added. “We have many rules telling us what we can’t do and these are wide-open spaces.”

While the new law is supported by the cities of Huntington Beach and Santa Monica, as well as a number of environmental and medical groups, a number of Republicans in the legislature voted against the bill.

Some environmentalists have also expressed skepticism.

“The current language of these bills will only serve to create an entirely unenforceable law,” activist Scott St. Blaze told the Los Angeles Times. “A law which would be a complete waste of our state park rangers’ time and a total waste of our California taxpayer’s money.”

Other activists believe this issue is tethered directly to problems associated with climate change.

According to Glazer, cigarette butts contain over 69 toxic chemicals. Moreover, Levine warned that toxic chemicals in cigarette butts can bleed into groundwater and subsequently poison animals that confuse the litter for food.

Dan Jacobson, state director of Environment California, is appreciative of certain measures, but he still believes the state can reach for more emphatic improvements.

“The smoking ban is great,” Jacobson told The Epoch Times. But “in addition, we need to adopt SB-54 and AB 1080 – both of which help reduce single-use plastic pollution.”

Emily Parker, a coastal and marine scientist for the nonprofit Heal the Bay, has stated that cigarette butts are the No. 1 object volunteers find annually.

“Cigarette butts are filters, and a lot of people don’t know that they’re made of plastic,” Parker told CGTN America. “They contain a lot of hazardous chemicals, and even though it’s just one small piece of plastic, all of that plastic can really add up and all of those toxics can add up and cause a lot of damage to the environment.”

Over the course of the last two decades, volunteers have recovered almost 1 million cigarette butts in Los Angeles county.

REAL ESTATE AND HOME & GARDEN

Real Estate Round-up:
Housing bills to take effect in California

Kim Murphy
Murphy & Murphy Southern California Realty

I have written numerous articles about the housing shortage in California. Over the past four years, the California legislature has proposed bills meant to provide a “fix” to the shortage of housing. Many have gone down in defeat, either as a result of pressure from cities and counties or at the hands of the Appropriations Committee. Recently, five bills, when bundled together, have been passed and were signed by Gov. Gavin Newsom. These bills will dramatically change the landscape of housing in California. Assembly Bill 1482, the Tenant Protection Act of 2019, written by Assemblymember David Chiu, D-San Francisco, creates rent caps and allows evictions to occur only if “just cause” exists. An owner cannot decide to evict tenants if the owner wishes to move into the unit or if the owner wishes to sell the unit. I have read countless articles reporting that landlords are evicting tenants, now, before the Jan. 1, 2020, implementation or other landlords who are choosing to sell their buildings which can prompt a rent increase from the new owner. Senate Bill 330, the Housing Crisis Act of 2019, written by Sen. Nancy Skinner, D-Berkeley, prohibits a local agency from disapproving, or conditioning approval in a manner that renders infeasible, a housing development project for very low, low or moderate income households or an emergency shelter unless the local agency makes specified written findings based on a preponderance of the evidence in the record. A jurisdiction cannot down zone an area or raise fees on a project in an attempt to impede the development. Assembly Bill 68 by Assemblymember Phil Ting, D-San Francisco; Assembly Bill 881 by Assemblymember Richard Bloom, D-Santa Monica, and Senate Bill 13 by Sen. Bob Wieckowski, D-Fremont, work in tandem to open the flood gates to accessory dwelling units throughout the state. AB 68 eliminates single family zoning across the state. It permits “triplex” housing to be permitted on every parcel. With this bill, owners are permitted to build an ADU on their parcel as well as build a junior ADU on that same parcel. Imagine that the neighbor builds an ADU on their property and also decides to convert their garage to an ADU. AB 68 makes that legal, even in communities with covenants, conditions and restrictions that prohibit it. Shock and awe, right? With AB 881, Bloom forbids jurisdictions to impose excessive fees or additional red tape to build those ADUs. Wieckowski’s SB 13 is the cherry on top, if you’re in favor of all these additional dwelling units, because it exempts owners from being required to live-in one of the units of the potential triplex. Remember that imaginary neighbor, who decided to add an ADU and convert the garage to a junior ADU, they no longer must live on the property to build those additional units. Shock and awe, times two. Currently, owners can build a single additional unit on their property, subject to setbacks and zoning. The owner generally lives in one of the units. San Diego County recognized this idea as a valuable tool to help increase housing units. County supervisors voted to waive all permitting fees for ADUs, which will save owners an average of $14,000. In September, the supervisors added an additional incentive by offering two permit-ready, no-cost floor plans sized at 600 and 1,200 square feet. The floor plans are posted online for owners to access, free of charge. They plan on adding additional floor plans soon. The new laws exceed the current laws and processes and accelerate the pace and quantity of housing without allowing the current laws to work. In response to the original 2016 ADU legislation, permit applications increased nearly 50% to 7,000 units. It is expected to hit 10,000 units in 2020. The new laws can potentially open the floodgates for ADUs. So, residents are probably asking, why am I concerned? Any person who knows me or has read my column knows that I am in favor of sensible housing. What is sensible housing to me? Adding ADUs to parcels that are larger and can accommodate the extra unit, while not impacting the character of the neighborhood, that’s sensible. I also believe that it would have been wise to let the dust settle on the current laws before adding the big changes that the new bills bring. I cannot imagine what life would be like, if every parcel in Fallbrook decided to build an ADU – because now they can – and also decided to convert their garage to a junior ADU – because they can – and decided to move out – because they can – and let things play out. That is exactly what this combination of laws allows. Have California legislators lost complete touch with the people they are elected to serve? Voters voted down rent control in 2018 and yet the Legislature passed AB 1482, despite our votes. Now because the Legislature couldn’t find a way to incentivize new housing starts by decreasing fees and removing red tape for builders, they passed legislation that removes all restrictions, even within communities or homeowners’ associations that collectively decided against it. California needs housing. That is a fact. Cities and communities should be accountable to contributing to housing in an equitable manner to the regional needs, but those cities and counties should be able to formulate their own specific housing plan and not have it overridden by state legislators. The combination of these most current laws is contributing to a state of renters, not owners. Incentivizing a “renter state” will create a much larger crisis than the current shortage of housing. Supervisors’ support reduces Winter Haven Road speed limit

Village News Correspondent

The San Diego County Board of Supervisors provided support for the reduction of the speed limit on Winter Haven Road between South Mission Road and Brooke Road. A 5-0 vote Wednesday, Oct. 16, approved the introduction and first reading of the ordinance amendment to reduce the speed limit from 45 mph to 40 mph. The second reading and adoption is scheduled for Oct. 30, and that approval would make the new speed limit effective Nov. 29. In order for a speed limit to be enforceable by radar, a speed survey must show that the speed limit is within an adjacent 5 mph increment to the 85th percentile speed. Periodic recertification, including a supporting speed survey, is required for continued radar enforcement and the county’s Department of Public Works or a department contractor typically conducts speed surveys every seven years. The speed limit may be rounded either up or down from the 85th percentile speed. The speed limit may also be rounded down an additional 5 mph if findings are made that the road has conditions which would not be apparent to a motorist unfamiliar with the road. Winter Haven Road between South Mission Road and Brooke Road measures 0.70 miles. The travel width of that part of Winter Haven Road ranges from 20 to 24 feet while the road bed width ranges between 24 and 48 feet. The street is striped with a double yellow center line and white edge striping. Winter Haven Road is not classified on the mobility element of the county’s general plan. A traffic survey east of South Mission Road was taken May 15, 2019, to determine an average daily volume of 5,715 vehicles. That total consists of 2,898 eastbound and 2,817 westbound motorists. The highest hourly volumes of the traffic survey were 610 vehicles from 7-8 a.m., 482 motorists from 3-4 p.m. and 456 drivers from 2-3 p.m. The previous traffic survey for that portion of Winter Haven Road was taken in February 2012 and resulted in an average daily volume of 5,200 vehicles. During the 36-month period from Feb. 1, 2016, to Jan. 31, 2019, Winter Haven Road between South Mission Road and Brooke Road had six reported collisions. Two of those were at the intersection of Winter Haven Road and Clearcrest Lane and were within a 10-day period of each other; the June 23 collision was caused by unsafe speed and resulted in one injury, while two people were injured in a crash caused by a driver who was under the influence of alcohol or drugs on July 2. A February 2016 collision at the intersection of Winter Haven Road and Buena Flores was caused by improper turning and did not involve injury. Unsafe starting and backing caused the January 2017 non-injury collision east of South Mission Road. A June 2018 collision just west of Buena Rosa was caused by improper turning, did not involve injury and was the only night collision among the six. Improper passing was responsible for an August 2018 collision east of South Mission Road which caused one injury. The six collisions gave that part of Winter Haven Road a collision rate of 1.41 per million vehicle miles. The statewide average for similar suburban conventional two-lane roads with speed limits of 45 mph or less is 1.19 per million vehicle miles. The 45 mph speed limit was based on a 2012 speed survey 150 feet west of Clearcrest Lane which had an 85th percentile of 47.0 mph with 62.9% of the drivers within a 10 mph pace of 34-44 mph. A May 9, 2019, speed survey at that location was taken between noon and 2 p.m. and the 382 vehicles had an 85th percentile speed of 44.5 mph with 59% within a 37-46 mph pace. The fastest speeds were 60 mph, 56 mph and 55 mph with one motorist apiece while the slowest driver crossed the survey point at 22 mph and the next-slowest was traveling at 24 mph. The most frequent speeds were 41 mph with 32 vehicles, 38 mph with 31 drivers, 39 mph with 30 motorists, 37 mph with 26 drivers and 33 mph with 25 vehicles. The county’s Traffic Advisory Committee unanimously recommended the reduced speed limit during the TAC’s July 26 meeting.

SDG&E announces Fire Safe 3.0

SAN DIEGO – To adapt to the effects of the changing climate and threat of year-round wildfires, San Diego Gas & Electric is partnering with academia, government and public safety professionals to innovate and implement more advanced technologies designed to further improve wildfire safety in the region. Initial innovations include maximizing artificial intelligence and machine learning to improve situational awareness, a new Vegetation Risk Index and satellite enabled wildfire alerts.

SDG&E said the company plans to open a fire science and innovation lab next year to bring together leading thinkers and problem solvers in academia, government and the community to create forward-looking solutions to help prevent ignitions, mitigate the impacts of fires and help build a more resilient region. With this lab, SDG&E said the company aimed to lead the development of the next generation of fire science and wildfire innovation.

SDG&E’s deployment of the most highly concentrated network of weather stations and high definition cameras in the country, called Fire Safe 1.0, and the initial weather and fire models based on years of granular data, called Fire Safe 2.0, lay the foundation for the next generation of innovations, according to the energy company.

“SDG&E is proud to announce the new innovations associated with Fire Safe 3.0 and continue our collaboration with other regional leaders to improve community safety,” Scott Drury, president of San Diego Gas & Electric, said. “These advances, and the fire science and innovation lab opening next year reinforce our region’s leadership position in managing the risk of catastrophic wildfire. Most importantly, they make our communities safer.”

Additional advancements announced included artificial intelligence, satellite wildfire alerts, vegetation risk index and high-speed weather data.

AI-based predictive models will help increase accuracy of weather forecast, to help prevent power line caused wildfires and allow the company to further mitigate impacts to customers.

With the Vegetation Risk Index, SDG&E is analyzing data from hundreds of thousands of trees, historical power outages and historical weather data to help prevent tree-related outages and tree-related ignitions before they ever happen, reducing the risk of wildfires.

SDG&E is establishing the capability to identify and track wildfire activity from satellites in space, validating more precise wildfire location to help increase the safety of the electric infrastructure.

SDG&E’s weather stations network, the world’s first utility network of its kind, is being rebuilt, enabling the capability to provide reads on temperature, humidity and wind every 30 seconds, instead of every 10 minutes. This increase facilitates more precise, data-driven decision making to keep communities safe.

A new Wildfire Safety Community Advisory Council has been formed with a group of diverse local leaders from public safety, tribal government, business, nonprofit and academic organizations. The council will provide feedback and recommendations on how SDG&E can continue to help protect the region from wildfires.

Lower utility bills with these 10 tips

ROCHELLE PARK, N. J. – According to the U.S. Department of Energy, the typical U.S. family spends at least $2,200 per year on energy bills with nearly half of that paying for heating and cooling. To help lower utility bills this fall and winter, here are 10 tips from Rebecca Gramuglia, personal finance expert at TopCashback.com.

Bundle up on warm accessories. The cheapest, easiest and coziest way to stay warm this winter without a spike in the heating bill is to wear warm socks and sweaters while inside. Also, cuddle up in extra blankets while sleeping and lounging. If the floor feels cold, consider purchasing an area rug to insulate the floor.

Install blackout curtains. Keeping the electricity bill low can be tricky, but it is possible with the necessary items at hand. Save up to 25% off home heating and cooling this year by swapping out regular curtains with blackout energy-efficient curtains that blackout 99% of outside light and up to 40% of unwanted noise. Purchase blackout curtains and other winter essentials at a discounted price by shopping via a third-party rebates site such as TopCashback.com to shop favorite retailers including Target and Walmart to receive money back on qualifying purchases.

Adjust the thermostat. According to the U.S. Department of Energy, homeowners can save money when they are sleeping or not home. When asleep or out of the house, turn the thermostat back 10 to 15 degrees for eight hours and save around 10% a year on the heating and cooling bills. Install a programmable thermostat to make it easier to control the temperature while away from home or catching some zzz’s.

Perform regular maintenance on the furnace. Winterizing a home is a great way for homeowners to prepare for the cold months. Keep your furnace and vents properly maintained and cleaned to reduce energy consumption.

Take shorter showers. Don’t waste time in the shower. Focus on getting in and out. If people can take cold showers, that’s even better. It will ultimately reduce the expense of heating up water.

Don’t let the water run while doing dishes or brushing teeth. Letting the water run is a waste of time and money. Make it a habit of turning the sink off while brushing and washing dishes.

Turn down the water heater. There’s no point in heating the water if no one is home to use it. About 14-25% of the energy consumed in a home is due to running a water heater. Lower the temperature 10-20 degrees or turn the knob to “vacation mode” to save energy while away from home.

Switch to LED lights. ‘Tis the season for festive decorations and lights. Use LED holiday lights to reduce the cost of decorating inside and outside of the home. LED bulbs offer the brightest light for the least amount of money and are better perceived by consumers when compared to other energy-saving light bulbs such as halogen and compact fluorescent.

Consider eco-friendly options. Sustainable updates to an investment property not only are good for the environment, but they can also help cut costs on regular expenses in the long run. Look into eco-friendly landscaping, smart tech options such as smart lighting and thermostats and replacing old windows and siding.

Unplug to save on that electricity bill. Minimize a major bill at home by unplugging all unused electrical devices. Electronic devices have a tendency to continuously pull small amounts of electricity that can add up quickly. Eliminate that unnecessary usage by unplugging any items or power strips that are not in use.

Here’s why homebuyers and sellers need a home warranty

ESCONDIDO – Realtors generally offer a home warranty when their clients buy or sell a house. It can be overwhelming and confusing at first, but here is what homebuyers and sellers need to know about home warranties, what to know before getting one and how it can help sell the property.

According to the American Home Shield, a home warranty is “an annual service contract that covers the repair or replacement of important appliances and systems components that break down over time.”

Basically, it’s like health insurance for the property. The homeowner pays a monthly fee or it can be paid annually in case something goes wrong. And if something does go wrong, then they pay a “copay” to cover the unexpected expense. It is provided to an owner of a house by any of a number of different types of entities such as homebuilders, risk management groups or others such as home sellers to new buyer.

Not a home insurance policy

It may be confusing to understand the difference between home warranties and home insurance. Home insurance will fix the damage caused by a flood or fire. A home warranty is a contract between a homeowner and a home warranty company that provides for discounted repair and replacement service on a home’s major components, such as the furnace, air conditioning, plumbing and electrical systems. A home warranty may also cover major appliances, such as washers and dryers, refrigerators and swimming pools. Home warranties will fix the item that is broken, but they do not repair or replace collateral damage items. For example, if the hot water heater leaks, the home warranty will cover replacing or repairing it, but it won’t cover replacing the wood floors that were damaged from the leak.

Not a warranty

It may sound rather ridiculous but a home warranty is not a warranty at all. It is actually a home service contract that covers the repair and replacement costs of home appliances, major systems such as heating and cooling, and possibly other components of a home, structural or otherwise. The home service contract generally covers home systems such as the home’s plumbing or electrical, and appliances like when a stove dies, pipes burst, a toilet malfunctions, a sink gets clogged, a thermostat quits, refrigerator leaks and a faucet malfunctions. Home warranty contracts do not cover all home repairs. Each company offers tiered plans with varying coverage for one’s needs and budget.

Why homeowners get a home warranty

The purpose of a home warranty is to protect against expensive, unforeseen malfunctions and provide peace of mind. For a homeowner who doesn’t have an emergency fund, a home warranty can act as a buffer. Home warranties also make sense for those who aren’t handy or don’t want to worry about tracking down a contractor when problems arise. Home warranties are also good for people with expensive taste in appliances.

How much does it cost?

Just like health insurance, home warranty companies and plans vary. A home warranty typically costs around $500-$800 a year. If any service requests are filed, then the $100 or less “copay” is all that the homeowner pays out of pocket. The plan’s cost varies depending on the property type and whether the homeowner purchases a basic or an extended plan.

A home warranty can help a homeowner sell the home.

For home sellers with things like older pipes, or an aging hot water tank, it is recommended that they provide a home warranty. Buyers are rightfully concerned with seeing older items, and they fear the expense of those items not working not long after purchasing. Home warranties are good for one year, so buyers typically would have one year’s coverage paid by the seller, but they can renew at their own expense. Offering a home warranty is a good way to market an older property as well.

A home warranty is not a perfect solution to unexpected damage on one’s property. But it surely provides protection against sudden, unexpected home repairs and buyer complaints. Before getting one, read the fine print in the home warranty contract and carefully consider whether it fits your needs and budget.

Colburn, Hartshorn, Lopez, Marrs speak at CTFMA/CTBA Autumn Equine Fair

Joe Naiman
Village News Correspondent

The California Thoroughbred Farm Managers Association and the California Thoroughbred Breeders Association collaborated on an Autumn Equine Fair, Saturday, Oct. 12, at Milky Way Farm in Temecula, and four of the presentations were given by speakers from Fallbrook or Bonsall.

Fallbrook veterinarian Steve Colburn gave a presentation titled “What To Do in a Horse Emergency.” Fallbrook’s Steve Hartshorn was the speaker for the session “Handicapping 101.” Amanda Lopez of Fallbrook presented the workshop “Foal and Weanling Basic Training.” Bonsall resident Kimberly Marrs was the presenter at the “Equine Sports Therapy” workshop.

“It went really well,” Linda Madsen, Milky Way Farm owner and CTFMA vice president, said.

Madsen is the only CTFMA officer who does not live in Fallbrook. Lita Tabish is this year’s CTFMA president, Leigh Ann Howard is the secretary and Marianne Hebner is the treasurer. Hartshorn is on the CTFMA board but is not an officer.

The Autumn Equine Fair included workshop sessions as well as a tour of the stallions, and 148 people attended the event.

“I was real happy with the turnout,” Howard said.

Howard noted that a major wildfire in the San Fernando Valley hindered traffic from the north.

“I was happy that the weather was as good as it was,” she said.

The seminar portion included 17 presentations.

“There was a variety of speakers,” Madsen said.

“I think that it went really well. It was our first time putting on a seminar like this,” Tabish said.

The CTFMA had not previously had a business seminar.

“I think it went off really nicely,” Tabish said.

In the past, the CTFMA has had tours of stallion farms. “We decided to do something different this year,” Tabish said.

County approves Community Choice Energy ordinance

Tracy DeFore
San Diego County Communications Office

The San Diego County Board of Supervisors laid the groundwork Tuesday, Oct. 15, to get into the business of buying and selling electricity. The supervisors voted 3-2 to approve an ordinance establishing a community choice energy program. Supervisors Kristin Gaspar and Jim Desmond opposed the motion.

The board also directed staff to continue negotiations with potential partners for a Joint Powers Authority to govern the CCE program and return to the board on or before October 2020.

Community choice energy programs, also known as community choice aggregation, allow cities and counties to buy or generate renewable energy like solar and wind for residents and businesses.

A county CCE would offer customers in the county’s unincorporated areas an alternative to buying power from San Diego Gas and Electric. SDG&E would still provide transmission and delivery services.

A CCE feasibility report came before the supervisors Sept. 10. The report cited estimated startup and operation costs, a comparison of projected CCE and SDG&E rates, potential environmental benefits and options on how to govern the program.

The study found that a county CCE could provide 90% renewable energy by 2030 and save the average residential customer about 2% per year on their overall electricity bill. Several governance options were considered, including the County operating on its own or forming a Joint Powers Authority with other local cities.

Currently, the city of Solana Beach is the only operating CCE in the county, but it is working with the cities of Carlsbad, Del Mar and Santee to form a Joint Powers of Authority for a new CCE program. County staff has negotiated with those cities on joining the JPA and has the option to join before Oct. 1, 2020.

A second reading for the ordinance is scheduled for Oct. 29.

Live Oak students work to help others

FALLBROOK – With the arrival of fall, students at Live Oak Elementary are taking on an attitude of gratitude as they work to help others.

Third through sixth-grade students of the Passion Project Club have started a communitywide endeavor to support Rady Children's Hospital with a specific effort to supply the "Bedtime Carts" that travel the oncology floor hallways to provide a needed moment of comfort for the children and families seeking care.

"Families who need something comforting would pick it from the cart. This cart is full of blankets, socks, Chapstick, Band-Aids, new books and bedtime snacks like crackers for kids or teas for parents," Daylee Ramsay, student and member of the club, said.

Student clubs like the Passion Project are not uncommon in the Fallbrook Union Elementary School District as one of the district's main focuses is on developing student leaders that take the initiative to help others.

Live Oak assistant principal Erin Gates said she was proud to share about these student efforts.

"These young leaders are focusing their energies and talents on helping others," Gates said. "Being able to watch these young ladies gain a greater understanding of their ability to make a difference in our world has been extraordinary. I hope that they get to see the donations to support their work."

Anyone who would like to help can bring donations of new blankets, snacks, books, new socks, lip balms, lotions and Band-Aids to the front office of Live Oak Elementary School, 1978 Reche Road, in Fallbrook by Oct. 31.

Leadership is in focus for FUESD

Potter Jr. High School musicians play their brass instruments during their leadership rally.

FALLBROOK – Along with reading, writing and arithmetic, Fallbrook Union Elementary School District is bringing a new subject of study to the classroom: leadership.

Like many California classrooms, students are earning a strong foundation of reading, language and STEM, but in Fallbrook core subjects are now being taught through the lens of being a student leader.

Student leadership is not a new focus for FUESD. The district has been recognised nationally as one of the leading examples of creating student leaders. Partnering with publisher Franklin Covey, Fallbrook schools are teaching "The Seven Habits of Highly Effective People" to students through the "Leader in Me" program. These habits revolve around the ideas of personal responsibility, teamwork and having a "win-win" attitude.

To showcase this emphasis in creating student leaders, FUESD schools are having rallies and events where, instead of the center of attention being around a sports team, the focus is on celebrating student leaders and their accomplishments.

Two schools that have recently had their leadership rallies are Live Oak Elementary School and Potter Junior High School. Potter principal Edith Powers, Ph.D., described their rally as a "celebration to promote school pride, student connectedness and positive student culture."

When asked about the impact of having a leadership-focused school culture, Live Oak principal Patti Parsons said she was excited to share the changes she has seen.

"We have seen an increase in student ownership of learning and involvement within our school and a decrease in classroom management and discipline issues," Parsons said.

With leadership now being a cornerstone focus of study, the sky's the limit on what FUESD's student leaders will accomplish in the years to come.

Fallbrook frosh football pushing for undefeated season

Fallbrook High School freshman football player Thomas McSheehy battles through Ramona High School's defense, Oct. 17.

Jeff Pack
Staff Writer

The Fallbrook High School freshman football team continued their winning ways Thursday, Oct. 17, with a convincing 40-7 win over Ramona High School at home.

The win pushed their record to 8-0 on the season and with games remaining against San Pasqual High School at home Thursday, Oct. 24, and on the road against Rancho Buena Vista High School on Halloween, the young team can almost smell perfection.

“I think these boys know what their goal is,” Ryan Farish, freshman head coach, said. “We want to come out each week and play hard. At times, the focus has drifted off. Luckily we have good coaches and a good group of players that know how to get back on track.

“The support from the families this season has been tremendous. Each time we have an away game we have just as many fans in the stands as the other team, the support for the home games is even more impressive. These kids want to play well for each other, their families and their town,” he said.

Farish said the long season has taken a toll, but the young Warriors have battled through it.

“The freshmen boys are holding up pretty well,” he said. “We have a few bumps and bruises but overall we are fairly healthy. Luckily on this team, we have some good depth. When one of our players needs to come out of the game, the next player is ready to step in and do their job.”

Farish said the Warriors are playing well defensively and their top offensive playmakers trust that big plays will come.

“We are doing some things really well, and we have some areas we can work on,” Farish said. “Focus on the fundamentals is a key point each week. I think the highlight so far has been how these boys all want to fly to the ball on defense/special teams. The other teams really struggle to find plays out there and that’s a testament to how hard these boys play.”

Farish said the coaches are working hard to make sure they are in a position to win each week.

“The offensive and defensive coordinators put a lot of time in each week to make sure these boys are prepared for what they will see out there,” he said. “I’d like to thank them and the boys for giving everything they have each week.”

The coach said the team is taking each game one at a time.

“Right now we are preparing to take on San Pasqual,” Farish said. “Those players aren’t coming here to roll over and let us win. We have to be ready for a fight, and we need to set the tone early. I know these boys can get it done and I’m proud to be one of their coaches.”

Varsity Coach Troy Everhart said he was impressed with the young team’s resiliency.

“They’re doing a great job,” Everhart said. “They were challenged a couple of weeks ago – finally – and found a way to get it done. That is their biggest thing moving forward – they’ve got superior talent right now – what will their commitment be to continuing to improve?”

“Can you take what you’re doing now and continue to build on it? If you can, then that matters to the program,” he said.

Contreras steps up for Warriors cross-country team

Jeff Pack
Staff Writer

Daniel Contreras may not have been Fallbrook High’s No. 1 runner when the Warriors’ cross-country season began, but his ability to fill in as a leader of the team is why head coach Marco Arias nominated the junior for Athlete of the Week.

“When I lost my No. 1 runner to injury, he stepped in and became the No. 1 runner for our team,” Arias said. “This will make us stronger as we go on into league finals and CIF.

“He has emerged as one to watch not only this year but also next year when he returns as a senior,” he said.

Contreras is in his third year as a varsity runner for the Warriors and this year, he and the team have big plans.

“The team’s goal for this season is something we’ve been eyeing for the last couple of years, a league title,” he said. “We’ve worked very hard coming up to this point and have a great team this season. In our first league meet of the year, we were able to get second place, but feel like we can make up the points needed to win.

“At the beginning of the season, the team gained several new runners and had picked up a couple of injuries, so for our first races, we couldn’t tell where we were actually at. However, over the past few weeks, the team has been able to recoup and gain momentum. Our upperclassmen have all stepped up this season, with several also gaining some great personal records. We’ve also have gained several new runners all of which have shown a large amount of potential to become great runners.”

He said this season, he’s not focused on individual goals.

“Right now I’m focused on working with the team to win our league,” Contreras said. “With about a month left until league finals, I want to finish up with up strong and hope to get into the top five runners of our league.”

Contreras said the small Warriors team has about 15 boys on the team with a five of them being first-year runners. The team also has eight seniors.

The team will compete in the league finals Nov. 16 and at CIF Finals Nov. 23 at San Diego’s Morley Field.

“A couple of us are also planning to race at the Footlocker West Regional at Mt. SAC in the beginning of December,” Contreras said. “I put in hard training with my team over the summer resulting in me having a great season. In our invites this season, I’ve been able to place in high positions, and with each result, my confidence in myself has increased. This has allowed me to have some of my best races that I’ve had over the last three years, one of which includes my personal record for 3 miles.”

Contreras said he is considering a career in business or the medical field after he graduates high school. He said his family is his greatest inspiration.

“My brother was a great inspiration for me and is one of the main reasons I even started doing cross-country, and my sister has been there every step with her amazing support and is always helping me with any problems or questions I have,” he said. “I’ve gotten so much support from my whole family, and they are all always there after my races.”

He also gives thanks to his teammates and his coaches for his successes thus far.

“One of the most influential people that I’ve had is my teammate, Josh Hernandez,” Contreras said. “Every day he puts in so much effort into everything he does. He is always right there as a person to talk to and someone to push you into becoming the best you can be. Two of my largest Junior Daniel Contreras has stepped up as the No. 1 runner on the Fallbrook High School boys' cross-country team due to a teammate's injury and is helping to lead the Warriors.

thanks I must give are to my coaches, Joel and Arias, both of them show so much care to every single runner they get. Joel makes it to every day that he possibly can, while working another job, and inspires every runner that comes onto the team and is always right there next to me and the other runners whenever we go onto the road.

“Arias has always seen something in me and he continues to push me to become the best runner I can, whenever there was something bringing me down I knew that I could come to him and he would be there to listen and give support,” he said.

Bonsall girls win cross-country league cluster

Joe Naiman
Village News Correspondent

The first Frontier Conference cross-country cluster meet of the 2019 season took place Sept. 18, and Bonsall High School did not have the necessary five girls to obtain a team score. The second cluster meet was held Oct. 10 on the NTC Park at Liberty Station course, and the Bonsall girls took first place not only among Summit League teams but among all Frontier Conference teams.

Team cross-country scores are derived by adding the positions of a school’s first five finishers; the sixth and seventh runners are not scored but can add points to other school’s totals. Bonsall had 50 points when all 11 Frontier Conference teams with at least five runners are factored into the team scoring. Liberty Charter High School was second with 75 points and Mountain Empire High School was third with 87 points.

“To come out the first time this season in a cluster meet with a scoring team and win not only against the Summit League teams but also all Frontier Conference teams by a 25-point margin shows the top five girls’ determination to prove that Bonsall is the team to beat,” Bonsall coach Tamara Miller said.

The Frontier Conference has 20 schools and is divided into the Summit, Patriot and Pioneer leagues. The Summit League includes Liberty Christian, Mountain Empire, Julian, Victory Christian and High Tech High North County high schools as well as Bonsall.

The Legionnaires now have 10 girls on the team, although only nine of them ran Oct. 10. Only four Bonsall girls ran in the Sept. 18 league cluster meet and Miller, who is also the Sullivan Middle School cross-country coach, desired to bring some of her Sullivan runners to the Bonsall program.

“When seeing the four girls practice after school, my instinct as Sullivan’s cross-country coach was to seek out and convince some of my old runners that are attending Bonsall High School to join the team,” Miller said.

Milana Collier ran for Miller on the 2016 and 2017 Sullivan teams and was on Bonsall’s team as a freshman in 2018. She did not start this year with the Legionnaires.

“Milana Collier was a given for me due to her success on my cross-country team at Sullivan. She is a top competitor and competed on Bonsall High’s team her freshman year. I knew if she returned and put swimming to the side for a bit Bonsall’s top five girls would have a real shot at a league championship,” Miller said.

The Frontier Conference formula for the league championship and the other final standings positions utilizes a points system. For each of the four league cluster meets the first-place team receives four points, the second-place school is given three points, third place is worth two points and fourth place earns the team one point. The league championship meet Nov. 14 at NTC Park, whose name reflects the site’s former use as the Naval Training Center in San Diego, will provide eight points for first place, six points for second, four points for third and two points for fourth.

Miller also recruited former Sullivan runners Samantha Amador and Aidan Miller to the Bonsall team. Amador’s sister, Elizabeth and Aidan Miller’s friend Jordan Whaley also joined the team as did Dani Cruz.

“It is the old saying: the more the merrier. It will inspire more to join,” Tamara Miller said.

Collier was the first Bonsall girl across the finish line Oct. 10 and the sixth overall finisher among the 91 Frontier Conference girls. Her time on the 3-mile course was 22 minutes 18 seconds. A time of 22:21.5 gave Bonsall freshman Mikayla Gioia seventh place; senior Isabella Ford completed the course in 23:21.6 for 14th place; senior Abigayle Ford had the 16th-place time of 23:22.9 and senior Faith Gioia took 17th place with a time of 23:46.3.

Those finishes not only gave Bonsall the winning score but also gave the Legionnaires a 68-second split between the first and fifth finishers.

“As soon as I took on coaching Bonsall High, the first thing I did was hypothetically place Milana into where I knew her three-mile time would fall, which was right near Mikayla Gioia’s as they are very similar in their performances. I then looked at the time of the Ford twins who always finish with one another and our fifth runner, Faith Gioia. I knew if I could work on the twins pushing one another to a faster pace where they could visually see Mikayla and Milana in a race as well as get Faith Gioia to stick with the twins that we could close the gap on one through five and have a real shot at winning the league,” Miller said. “I started to push them in workouts to stick with one another and execute that plan in the meet. They listened well, pushed themselves and raced exactly as we planned, leading to the tight gap between one through five and securing first place by 25 points.”

Samantha Amador was Bonsall’s sixth runner and had the 36th-place time of 26:17.8.

Last year Julian, Mountain Empire and Victory Christian were in the Southern Conference. This year they were the only three schools in the Southern Conference with cross-country programs, so they were placed in the Frontier Conference for cross-country only. Mountain Empire won the Citrus League championship in 2015, 2016, 2017 and 2018 and Julian was the 2014 Citrus League champion. Mountain Empire also won the CIF Division V girls championship in 2017 and Julian was the Division V girls champion in 2001, 2002, 2006 and 2007.

“It is an honor to compete against schools that have a proven history of taking home CIF division championships,” Miller said. “It shows that Bonsall is in a competitive league and CIF division and doing extremely well by taking home the victory at the league cluster meet. Cross-country is about who you have running on your team in any given year and are those top five girls going to be clustered together with low enough times to take home a win.”

The boys’ varsity race included six scored teams and 86 harriers competed. Bonsall placed fourth among the six Frontier Conference teams and third among the five Summit League schools.

“I am proud of the boys for their performance and placing. They are such a great group of boys who have all listened, adapted and trusted the training, form changes and strategy I gave them,” Miller said. “Finishing with a higher rank would be awesome, of course, but all a coach really ever wants from a team is the athletes to continue to PR (set personal records), and that they are doing.”

High Tech High Chula Vista had both the premier team score and the first two runners across the finish line. They were followed by senior Austin Alanis, whose third-place time was 16:35.0.

“Austin Alanis is an outstanding runner, one who knows his pace extremely well and will execute it perfectly every race,” Miller said. “He is strong, committed and a natural runner who has a competitive fire. His goal is to place first or second in the league at championship and I am confident he will achieve just that.”

A second Bonsall runner finished among the top 10; sophomore Ethan McFarland was 10th at 17:39.7.

“My goal for Ethan has been to narrow the gap to his teammate Austin and to use him to pull him into the Top 10 for the league,” Miller said. “Ethan McFarland is one of the most dedicated, determined, hardest working, most positive runners I have ever coached, and it’s showing in his races. He and I are so happy to be back together as coach and runner.”

Bonsall had six runners in the varsity race. A time of 20:21.6 gave junior Henrik Nylund 38th place; sophomore Lucas Lopez finished 40th and completed the course in 20:37.8; sophomore Adam Tamimi had a time of 22:25.3 for 60th place and junior Charlie Hoffman had the 70th-place time of 23:56.6.

“My goal for the boys is to continue to push each runner with a similar teammate in practice so that in the races they can push one another,” Miller said. “My three and four runners, Henrik Nylund and Lucas Lopez, work well with one another and switch off in races like a cat and mouse game which will only support their desire to close the gap to my one and two runners.”

Miller will also be utilizing a similar strategy for her fifth through seventh runners.

“They will continue to work with one another in a pack to push closer to my three and four Henrik and Lucas,” Miller said. “All three to seven runners are responding to changes I am making in their running form and their race strategy. I expect them to move up closer to Austin and Ethan each race and to finish out the season with a four-minute gap.”

Vikings win both boys and girls championships at Pauma Volleyball Tournament

Joe Naiman

Seven small elementary schools in northern San Diego County and southern Riverside County participate in sports tournaments with each school hosting a different sport each month. The 2019-2020 tournaments began Oct. 10 with the Pauma Volleyball Tournament at Pauma Elementary School. Vallecitos Elementary School won both the girls' championship and the boys' championship.

The Pauma Volleyball Tournament consisted of round-robin play. All matches were one game to 20 points, although a team had to win by two points. The Vallecitos girls won all six of their matches while the Viking boys won five of their six competitions.

"I'm just pretty happy that we were able to get first place for both boys and girls," Vallecitos coach Ray Hanbeck said.

Hanbeck coached the Vallecitos boys during the matches and also coached both the boys and girls during practice. The boys and girls matches were played simultaneously, and Erin Eulberd coached the Vallecitos girls.

Six players from each team were on the court at one time. Vallecitos had 19 girls and 14 boys participating in the Pauma Volleyball Tournament. The core group of six girls consisted of three eighth-graders and three sixth-graders while the six core boys were comprised of three eighth-graders, a seventh-grader and two sixth-graders.

The Vallecitos girls opened play with a 20-3 victory over Hamilton Elementary School from Anza and defeated Pauma Elementary School in a 20-9 contest.

"We beat them pretty handily," Hanbeck said.

A Vikings win over Borrego Springs Elementary School was followed by a 20-5 triumph against Cottonwood Elementary School from Aguanga. Vallecitos then defeated Warner Elementary School in a 20-12 match.

That set up a finale between Vallecitos and Julian Elementary School.

"Julian was our toughest opponent. We were both undefeated going into that game," Hanbeck said.

The requirement to win by at least two points extended the game until Vallecitos obtained a 25-23 victory.

"It was well played by both teams," Hanbeck said. "It was a hard-fought game. A lot of volleys."

Whichever team won had to score at least two consecutive points, and Vallecitos did that while preventing Julian from such a streak to end the game.

"When it came down to it we were able to keep the scoring going," Hanbeck said.

Hanbeck added that the Vikings did so in the sixth game of the day.

"It showed that they had stamina," he said.

"They played very well together," Hanbeck said of the Vallecitos girls. "Everyone was equal in their participation and their competitiveness as well as being able to play very well."

When Vallecitos had a safe lead, substitutes were used. The team consisted of seven eighth-grade girls, so the eighth-graders who will be at another school next year were the first substitutes to appear on the court.

The positions were based on win-loss record, and in the case of teams with identical records, points scored was used as the tiebreaker. Julian's girls took second place while Warner was the third-place team.

The Vallecitos boys began with a 20-3 win against Hamilton and a 20-11 triumph over Pauma. The victory over Borrego was followed by a 20-9 win in the match with Cottonwood.

Warner handed the Vikings their only loss, but the match required a 21-19 overscore. Julian had previously defeated Warner as well as every other opponent, so the match between Julian and Vallecitos had championship implications.

"They had to be resilient," Hanbeck said of his players. "They had to overcome a really tough opponent. The game testifies to that."

Vallecitos was on the winning end of the 23-21 final score.

"That was a hard-fought game," Hanbeck said. "It came down to the last point."

The result gave Vallecitos and Julian identical 5-1 records. The tiebreaker of points scored gave Vallecitos first place and Julian second place. Pauma took third place.

"They were competitive even in the toughest game that they lost," Hanbeck said. "They did a really good job of overcoming the really tough games as well as winning the other games pretty handily."

The Vallecitos volleyball players had been practicing for the tournament since the last week of August. The school's next tournament will be the Vallecitos Soccer Tournament which will take place Nov. 14 contingent upon favorable weather.

Warriors start slow in loss to Ramona

The Ramona High School Bulldogs scored early and often to get their homecoming festivities off to a good start Friday, Oct. 18, then cruised to a 48-8 win over the still-winless Fallbrook High School Warriors.

After returning the opening kickoff for a touchdown, the Bulldogs never looked back, scoring four more times in the first quarter and tacking on 10 more in the second quarter to take a 45-0 lead at the half.

The Bulldogs (1-7, 1-3) scored on one of the two punts they blocked on the night and racked up almost 250 rushing yards on the ground.

The Warriors their touchdown in the final 30 seconds of the game.

Head coach Troy Everhart said he can't be anything but proud of the way his team continues to fight week after week.

"I couldn't be more proud and pleased to be their head coach with their resilience," Everhart said. "Anybody could come out for football, give half an effort and these guys choose to come out there and give everything. I love these kids, they are awesome. They have been true Warriors, and they keep sticking their bodies out there and giving us all they got."

Everhart said he's looking forward to getting to work right after the season ends on building the program and building up the kids in the weight room.

"I don't know if I got all the answers, but I am going to search for them if I don't," he said. "We gotta change our body types in the weight room as soon as the season is over, and it would be nice to have an opportunity to install a system from scratch." The coach said the difference between their opponents and the Warriors physically is clear week in and week out.

Brady Hoff holds off the defense making way for Dru Calloway to gain ground for the Fallbrook High School Warriors.

"What we all deserve here at Fallbrook is a greater commitment on everybody's part — players, coaches, parents — to building it back to where it's always been," Everhart said. "Hopefully when we have some consistency year after year after year we will see the results."

He said this year's team will fight in its final two games; that's for sure.

"These kids are in it for the right reason; they want to restore Fallbrook football," Everhart said. "I really feel we're close, not just because of the young kids, but the effort that they give week in and week out. The score doesn't reflect the effort that they're giving."

"It's just amazing. They could shut it down, but what they're doing is serving a greater purpose in getting this program back to where it belongs," he said.

The Warriors will take on the 7-1 (3-0) San Pasqual High School Eagles on the road before coming home to take on the winless Rancho Buena Vista High School Longhorns Friday, Nov. 1, to close out the season.

OBITUARIES

Fallbrook Rotary loses one of its own

Dave Breeding was a 20-year member of Rotary.

FALLBROOK – Fallbrook Rotary mourns the passing of Dave Breeding Oct. 5 at the age of 76. Dave joined the Fallbrook Rotary Club in July 1999. He was Club President during 2002-2003. At the Rotary District level, Dave served as Governor of District 5340 in 2010-2011. He has served on numerous district committees and teams, chairing many. He also served as the District Rotary Foundation Committee Chair. At the Rotary Zone level, Dave had participated three times on the SoCal/Nevada Multi-district President-Elect Training Seminars and five times on Rotary Institute Planning committees. Dave retired as the vice president of Information Systems and chief information officer of Guidant Corporation, a major manufacturer of medical devices. He had a degree in engineering from the University of Illinois and a master’s degree from Purdue University. He served as an officer aboard a ship in the U.S. Navy. Dave and his wife, Marilee (also a member of the Rotary Club of Fallbrook), traveled on two occasions to South Africa to establish relationships with Rotarians there and work together on relief projects for AIDS orphans in the Zulu tribe. Dave participated in a Polio National Immunization Day in India. Dave and Marilee lived in Fallbrook and were active in marriage enrichment ministries in their church. Dave was a dedicated husband and grandfather. He enjoyed family time with his two daughters, two sons-in-law and six grandchildren. Dave was an inspiration to all who knew him and truly lived up to the Rotary motto “Service Above Self.” He will be sorely missed by his family and Rotary members throughout Southern California. Fallbrook Rotary salutes and celebrates the life of Dave Breeding, Rotarian personified.

Duane S. Hunter died Oct. 9, at Palomar Health Center in Escondido. He was born in Minneapolis Sept. 30, 1944, to Simon and Margaret “Peggy” Hunter. In the late 40s, Simon Hunter moved his young family to Glendale to better his employment opportunities, and in 1953 Duane’s sister, Patricia, was born. With the new addition to the family and a homesick wife, the decision was soon made to pick up stakes and move the family back home to Minnesota, where they remained until 1956, when they moved back to Glendale. They remained in Glendale until 1982 when they retired to the “Friendly Village” in Fallbrook. Duane Hunter excelled as a student and basketball player and graduated from Glendale High School in 1963, earning a four-year scholastic scholarship to Occidental College. He majored in biology, but his real love was basketball. He was captain of the Occidental basketball team. He graduated from Occidental in 1967 and took a job in his chosen career. He was unhappy working in that field and decided to enlist in the army in 1968 rather than wait to be drafted. He was commissioned a second lieutenant, graduating in the Top 10 of his class from Army Officer Candidate School. He served two years at Fort Baker in Sausalito and, advancing in rank to captain, was later put in charge of the U.S. missile base in Korea. Upon returning home he worked at various jobs and eventually enrolled at the University of Southern California and graduated with a master’s degree in finance. He passed the Certified Public Accountant Examination and spent the remainder of his working career as a CPA. He met Christina Speros in Long Beach. The couple moved to Fallbrook in January 1992, where they bought their first and only home. They made a wonderful life together. He is survived by his life partner, Christina, and his sister, Patricia Hunter. His family is grateful to the North County Fire Protection services, Scripps Hospital and Palomar Health Center for their care and dedication. Service will be held Oct. 26, at 11 a.m. at The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, 621 S. Stage Coach Lane, in Fallbrook. Duane will be laid to rest at the Riverside National Cemetery.

Unusual pies take top honors

This Bourbon Apple Bonanza pie made by Scott and Lori Anders is the winner of the sweet category in the Pie Bake-off at the Fallbrook Chamber of Commerce.

A record number of pies were entered in the Harvest Faire Pie Bake-off at this year’s Harvest Faire. While the pies of four entrants did not show up, 15 sweet and five savory pies were presented for the six judges in the Fallbrook Chamber of Commerce board room.

Veteran and newbie judges alike agreed that the looks of a pie didn’t always match the taste. However, “anytime I get to eat pie on duty is a good day,” San Diego County Sheriff’s Cpl. Brendan Campbell said.

Campbell has judged many other contests, but it was his first pie contest.

It was also the first pie contest for California Highway Patrol Officer Kevin Smale who said he loves eating pies. He had a hard time narrowing his favorites down to two pies in each division, he said.

There were several apple pies in the sweet division, including Bourbon Apple Bonanza which won first place for Scott and Lori Anders and the Cheesecake Apple Pie which took second place for Chester Paul.

There were also some unique recipes such as the Bourbon Bacon Pecan Pie with earned an Honorable Mention for Ally Mulroy, a Peanut Butter Pie, German Chocolate Pie, Caramel Peach Pear Pie and an Impossible Coconut Pie.

In the savory division, first place went to the Lamb Pie made by Dianna Branche followed by second place winning Chicken Potpie by Marti Sonniksen and the Honorable Mention, Curried Roasted Vegetable Galette by Julie Hardesty.

Other first time judges included chamber volunteer Ann Klentz and Chamber Ambassador of the Year Deb Bottomley, while the veteran judges were chamber CEO Lila MacDonald and Village News photographer Shane Gibson.

The contest was organized by Chamber Ambassador Miriam Key who ensures that the judges do not know who made the pies. She did not plan on giving Honorable Mention honors but the judges had such a hard time picking just two top choices, Key added the extra recognition.

The judges said they liked the more unusual pies which provided surprisingly good flavors that stood out. Pie bakers take note, and start planning and experimenting with new recipes for next year’s contest.

The winner of the savory category in the Pie Bake-off is a Lamb Pie made by Dianna Branche. The pie, topped with cilantro, was one of five entered in the savory category.

The German beer was flowing and the bratwurst sizzling during Bel Vino's Oktoberfest Friday, Oct. 18.

Attendees dressed in their finest lederhosen and dirndls to win prizes and battled each other during stein holding contests.

Music was provided by the Kalifornia Krauts, providing authentic and Oktoberfest-popular tunes throughout the night.

Refuge Brewery provided German Kolsch for attendees and they waited patiently for authentic German bratwurst, hot off the grill. Bel Vino wine was available all evening long inside the tasting room.

It was the first-ever Oktoberfest event to held at the winery.

Gourmet Italia in Temecula turns 20

Charity Prestifilippo owns Gourmet Italia in Temecula with her husband Alex, where they met in 2000 and married two years later. Will Fritz photos Gourmet Italia celebrated 20 years of serving up Italian food in Temecula’s Tower Plaza, Wednesday, Oct. 16.

Patrons were treated to the restaurant’s original menu prices and entertainment from some of the same live bands that have played music for guests for the last two decades.

The Italian restaurant was founded by Alex Prestifilippo in 1999 and has expanded the 1,000-square-foot eatery to a more than 7,000-square-foot establishment today.

Prestifilippo, who is originally from Sicily said he immigrated to the United States in 1996, first ending up in Orange County and starting out as a busboy.

“Three and a half years later, I had a chance to discover this beautiful town,” he said.

He opened Gourmet Italia next to a bar.

Today, it has grown to eventually take over the bar next door.

“In 20 years, I have expanded and moved things around,” Prestifilippo said. “When we started, it was only on one side, and then we opened up on the right and then the wine bar.”

and his family – it’s the place where he and his wife met.

“I met him here as a customer. I ordered the clams with linguini and I asked for Parmesan cheese, and he said ‘No, signora. We don’t put Parmesan on the seafood’ and I said, ‘Yeah, we do,’” Charity Prestifilippo said. “We kind of argued about that and I got my way, and so then I fell in love with the food and him, and I found my way back here and the rest, as they say, is history.”

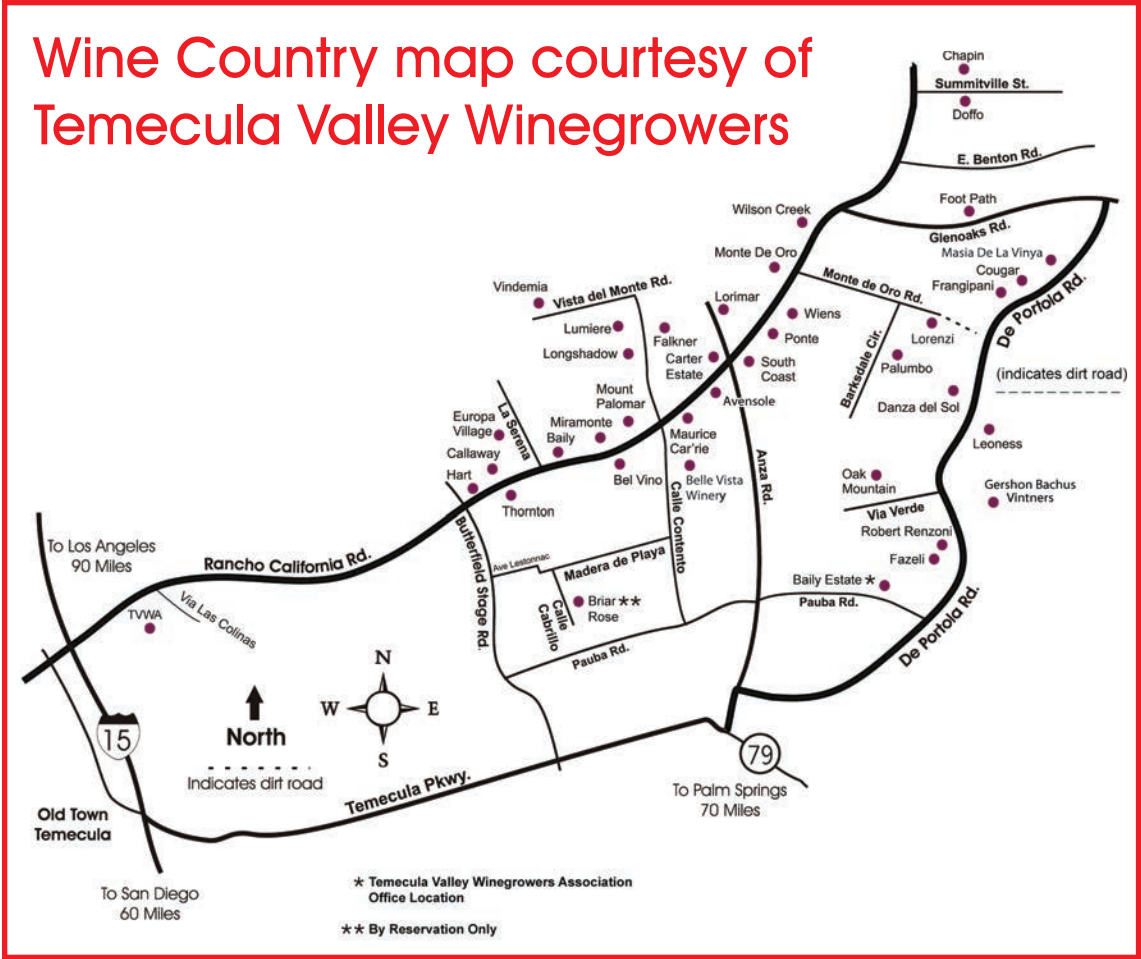

The Prestifilippos married in 2002, creating a blended family of two sons and a daughter.

Gourmet Italia isn’t the Prestifilippos’ only business venture – they also own Spuntino’s Pizzeria Italia on Rancho California Road. And “because I don’t stop working,” Alex Prestifilippo said; they are opening up a new business in Old Town called Bottega Italia, which will serve coffee, pizza, wine and “everything you love about Italy,” he said. That store is scheduled to open sometime in spring 2020.
