Chase Merrit found guilty!

Jury finds Merritt guilty of murdering McStay family

Jeff Pack Writer

After more than six months of testimony and deliberation and more than nine years since Joseph and Summer McStay and their two young sons disappeared from their Fallbrook home, Charles "Chase" Ray Merritt was found guilty of murdering the family Monday, June 10, by a jury in San Bernardino.

After 22 hours of deliberation following a 22-week trial that began Jan. 7, the jury of 12 people announced Friday, June 7, they had reached a verdict in the case, eliminating the chance of a hung jury in the trial.

Because the court was generally not in session on Fridays over the course of the trial, the jury's findings weren't read until Monday morning.

A packed courtroom stood and waited for Superior Court Judge Michael A. Smith and jury as they entered the building. As Judge Smith unsealed the verdicts and briefly read the report, Merritt closed his eyes and fiddled with something on the desk in front of him.

Judge Smith handed the verdicts to the courtroom clerk to read.

When she was done, the jury had found Merritt guilty of firstdegree murder of all four McStay family members and found true the multiple-murder special circumstances charges.

Charles "Chase" Ray Merritt is found guilty Monday, June 10, by a San Courtesy of Law & Crime Network Bernardino County jury of murdering all four members of the McStay family of Fallbrook. The jury will next decide whether Merritt should be put to death or spend life in prison after the penalty phase of the trial is completed.

There were audible gasps from the courtroom gallery, Merritt appeared stunned by the decision, closed his eyes and lowered his head, shaking it slightly. His eyelids appeared red.

Several of Merritt's supporters walked out of the courtroom when the verdict was read.

Because of the finding of special circumstances in all of the murders, the jury will be tasked with deciding between the two options for sentencing.

"We are going to proceed to the second phase of the trial," Judge Smith told the jury. "Where you will be asked to decide the appropriate penalty of two possible penalties. That will be much shorter than the first phase."

Prosecutors have said they would seek the death penalty if Merritt was convicted. The jury could also choose to sentence Merritt to life without parole.

San Bernardino County Supervising Deputy District Attorney Britt Imes said the state's portion of the testimony should last about three days. Lead defense attorney James McGee said their side should take two to three days.

A court official reportedly told the media that the Merritt family said they didn't want to speak to the media and Merritt's defense team also refused comment.

The McStay family and friends also refused comment, saying they would speak after the sentence was handed down.

Merritt's defense team held a short news conference after the verdict.

"Obviously we're devastated, disappointed," said defense attorney Rajan Maline. "We're kind of shell-shocked actually. Based on the evidence, we did not expect this. From our standpoint, our client is innocent. That fight doesn't stop. We will continue to fight for our client because we believe in his innocence.

"Although we respect the process, we disagree with the jury's verdict."

Lead defense attorney James McGee also spoke.

"It's kinda shocking based on the evidence presented and the law in the state," he said. "We're going forward, that is where we are."

McGee said the defense team spent a couple of hours with Merritt after the conviction and said he was "in about the same state we are right now."

"He's disappointed as we are, but he is ready to continue fighting for his innocence and his freedom, as are we," McGee said.

When asked if it was a fair trial, McGee hedged on answering directly.

"I think everybody saw the trial we had and everybody is going to have their own opinion of it," he said. "I will let everybody get their own opinion."

Asked whether the defense still believes someone else may be responsible for the crimes, Maline answered.

"The evidence was that there were three profiles that we were able to identify, our expert was able to identify, that were retrieved from the gravesite," he said. "Those are potential suspects, and since we're not allowed to run that through CODIS, which is the national databank of DNA profiles, only the prosecution, law enforcement can do that. Those three profiles still lay with the DA's office today.

Man accused of causing pileup on I-15 that killed woman charged with murder

City News Service Special to Valley News

A man accused of driving under the influence of drugs and causing a multi-vehicle crash on Interstate 15 in Temecula, killing a woman and seriously injuring another motorist, was charged Thursday, June 6, with second-degree murder and DUI and was ordered held Javier Caldera, 25, of Auburn, Washington, could face life in prison if convicted of the charges stemming from the death of Janet Genao, 44, of Murrieta who died at the scene of the Tuesday collision on the southbound I-15, south of Rancho California Road, according to the Riverside County District Attorney's Office.

Caldera has previous convictions in Washington state, including driving under the influence and felony attempt to elude, according to prosecutors.

Caldera was behind the wheel of a Chevrolet Silverado pickup truck that was traveling over 100 mph when it slammed into the back of Genao's Nissan Altima at 7:28 a.m., causing a chainreaction crash involving four other vehicles, said District Attorney's Office spokesman John Hall.

The force of the impact also sent a Chevrolet S-10 pickup off the road and into the side of the Temecula City Hall parking structure just west of the freeway, mangling the pickup and rendering it nearly unrecognizable. The driver suffered serious injuries, according to California Highway Patrol Officer Mike Lassig.

Drivers of two of the other vehicles had minor injuries, and another driver was unhurt, he said. All the injured parties were taken to Inland Valley Medical Center

Riverside County District Attorney's Office photo Javier Caldera is seen during his arraignment Thursday, June 6, in Murrieta. in Wildomar.

Caldera, who is being held at the Larry D. Smith Correctional Center in Banning, made his initial court appearance at the Southwest Justice Center in Murrieta but did not enter a plea. A judge granted the defense's request to reschedule Caldera's arraignment for June 18 and revoked Caldera's $ 1 million bail at the request of prosecutors, who argued he was a flight risk and a danger to the public.

County supervisors approve fire safety programs

Joe Naiman

Village News Correspondent

Various fire safety programs were approved by the San Diego County Board of Supervisors during the supervisors' June 4 meeting.

The supervisors' 4-0 vote, with Greg Cox at the National Association of Counties conference, directed the county's chief administrative officer to develop amendments for consideration to strengthen the county's Fire Code and Building Code, directed the chief administrative officer to provide a budget change letter to add $1,570,119 of costs and five staff positions for vegetation management programs, amended the county's Legislative Program to add support for legislation to facilitate environmental review of fire fuel management projects and authorized a sole-source contract with Knox Company to allow emergency personnel to access gates.

"The goal of today's action is to build communities that are more wildfire resistant," Supervisor Dianne Jacob said.

"It is imperative that we continue to enhance our firefighting capability," Supervisor Jim Desmond said.

The county has invested more than $500 million in fire and emergency services capabilities since the October 2003

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Free talk will be on creating an Earth-friendly garden

Master gardener Marsha Cook will talk about creating an Earthfriendly garden.

FALLBROOK - Master gardener Marsha Cook will speak Tuesday, June 25, 6:30 p.m., at the Fallbrook Public Library. In this free public talk, the audience will be invited to create earth friendly gardens using eight principals: selection of climate appropriate plants, caring for the soil, responsible pest management, protecting wildlife, conserving water and energy, protecting air quality, reducing waste and growing food.

This talk is the next in the series of monthly talks sponsored by the Fallbrook Climate Action Team.

FRHD will present draft district maps

FALLBROOK - Fallbrook Regional Health District is voluntarily moving away from an at-large election system for its board makeup and is instead shifting to a five zone-based election system for the 2020 election to help strengthen community representation.

The district will host its seventh public forum as part of the process of transitioning to zone-based elections, Wednesday, June 19, at 6 p.m. The public is invited to a second review of the draft zone maps, created by National Demographics Corporation.

After the public hearings on proposed zone maps, the district board of directors will vote on a final map that divides the district into five new zones, which will go into effect for the 2020 elections. The public is encouraged to attend these public hearings as the zonebased election system will be a representation of the communities they serve.

The public hearing will be held at 138 South Brandon Road in Fallbrook. For more information, visit www.fallbrookhealth.org or call (760) 731-9187.

REINS therapeutic horsemanship program honored on California Nonprofits Day

REINS Executive Director Debbie Shinner, right, and Program Director Shauna Jopes attend the California Nonprofits Day luncheon in Sacramento where REINS was recognized as a 2019 California Nonprofit of the Year.

REINS Executive Director Debbie Shinner, right, and Program Director Shauna Jopes, left, pose with Assemblymember Marie Waldron while in Sacramento to attend the California Nonprofits Day luncheon.

FALLBROOK - REINS Therapeutic Horsemanship Program was selected as a 2019 California Nonprofit of the Year by Assemblymember Marie Waldron of Escondido.

Executive Director Debbie Shinner and Program Director Shauna Jopes traveled to Sacramento June 5, to join 100 other nonprofit leaders being honored by their state senators and assembly members at a celebration luncheon marking California Nonprofits Day. REINS was selected as the honoree for the 75th Assembly District.

It was such an honor to be in Sacramento at our State Capital representing REINS. Assemblymember Marie Waldron made us feel so special and welcome as she recognized REINS for our many years of service and accomplishments"

Shinner said. "Nonprofits are often hidden in plain sight," Jan Masaoka, CEO of the California Association of Nonprofits or CalNonprofits, said. "California Nonprofits Day is an opportunity for our elected officials to celebrate the good work they see nonprofits doing in their districts, and for everyone to appreciate the collective impact of nonprofits in our communities." California Nonprofits Day, now in its fourth year, was formally recognized by Assembly Concurrent Resolution 62, written by the chair of the Assembly Select Committee on the Nonprofit Sector, Assemblywoman Monique Limón of Santa Barbara, who spoke at the celebration luncheon. Sen. Holly Mitchell of Los Angeles was the keynote speaker at the luncheon. The day was organized by Limón and CalNonprofits. According to "Causes Count," a 2016 report commissioned by CalNonprofits, the nonprofit sector is the fourth largest industry in the state, employing nearly 1 million people. Each year, California nonprofits generate over $200 billion in revenue and bring in $40 billion in revenue from outside of California. The unpaid labor contributed by volunteers at nonprofits is equivalent to 450,000 full-time jobs every year. REINS, which stands for Riding Emphasizing Individual Needs and Strengths, is a nonprofit therapeutic riding program in Fallbrook. Their mission is to provide physical and emotional therapy to a wide range of disabled children and adults through the use of carefully supervised horseback riding. The benefits of this therapy are both mental and physical and include normalization of muscle tone, increased balance and coordination, speech and language development and improvements in body awareness and self-esteem. The current enrollment is nearly 200 weekly students who come from all over Orange, Riverside and San Diego counties. REINS has 100 weekly volunteers who assist in all aspects of the program. OPINION

Help for youth addiction

Assemblymember Marie Waldron

Special to Village News

Every two days a young person in California dies from an opioid overdose. More and more opioid dependent children are treated in emergency departments than ever before - increasing by 54% over the past 10 years.

While there is no single treatment or remedy for substance abuse, it is clear that early intervention programs aimed at youthful abusers are comprehensive and effective. That's why I have joined with Assemblymember Adrin Nazarian, D-Van Nuys, to co-author Assembly Bill 1031.

The bill establishes the Youth Substance Use Disorder Treatment and Recovery Program, which requires the Department of Health to establish community-based initiatives aimed at intervention and treatment for underage alcohol and drug abusers.

In collaboration with counties and providers of SUD services, regulations will be established for treatment and recovery, along with program requirements and standards. Medi-Cal billing codes will be updated to include screening, counseling and other

AB 1031 will also enable community-based providers of youth SUD treatments to be reimbursed appropriately, so that the current gap in services in many parts of California can be reduced or eliminated.

As we all know, the individual and societal costs of drug abuse are huge. Crime, deaths, homelessness, broken families, dropout rates, the related costs of law enforcement and incarceration, suffering - all can be prevented through early intervention and treatment. Most important of all, lives can be saved.

AB 1031 enjoys wide bipartisan support, and passed the Assembly without opposition, May 28. The bill has been forwarded to the Senate, where hearings are

As your Assembly representative, I will continue working to break the cycle of substance use disorder that costs taxpayers millions, devastates families and cuts short far too many lives.

Assembly Republican Leader Marie Waldron, R-Escondido, represents the 75th Assembly District in the California Legislature, which includes the communities of Bonsall, Escondido, Fallbrook, Hidden Meadows, Pala, Palomar Mountain, Pauma Valley, Rainbow, San Marcos, Temecula, Valley Center and Vista.

Re: 'Affordable Care Act — revisit ad absurdum' [Village News Miller Letter, 6/6/19]

It's funny how some people bristle at the mention of socialized medicine but have no problem with socialized militarism, a big ticket item in the federal budget. That's right: it's run entirely by the government.

Currently, we spend more on national defense than China, Saudi Arabia, India, France, Russia, United Kingdom and Germany, combined. Admittedly, we now have, after a $1.5 trillion product development, F-35's available in the $1 million price range with minimum purchase of 10.

Currently, we spend approximately twice as much on health care as other developed countries do: annual average US at $10,224 versus developed country average at $5,280, according to 2017 figures. Medicare for all could reduce our figure by at least 15% by reducing administrative costs, and that's largely health insurance's cut of the take. And like current Medicare, it would be able to negotiate medication

Oh, and for people who need something to take umbrage about, did you know the federal government is taking advantage of California and about a dozen other profitable states? California sends more money to the federal government than it receives back in subsidies, grants and other

And what does the federal government do with that money? It gives it to states that need help. Now is that redistribution of wealth or what? And it's been going on for years.

Re: In reply to "We need freeways and roads" [Village News letter, 6/6/19]

I absolutely agree with San Diego Supervisor Jim Desmond that we need improvements to freeways and roads. I absolutely disagree with Alan Geraci who proposes mass transit and "multimodal streets." Having just watched the D-Day 75th anniversary ceremonies, I heard many of the survivors say, "Freedom is not free." This statement was made with the backdrop of the graves of more than 9,000 American soldiers in Normandy who gave their lives for our freedom.

In my opinion, Geraci's ideas take away from my individual freedom. To maintain my freedom, I feel compelled to fight against bad ideas when I see them.

I desire to live where I want to live and work where I want to

I like freeways. "Free" is a powerful word. Freeways in San Diego are important to our economic success and individual freedoms. Let's hope we all continue to be able to use them - without paying tolls, without blackout times or days and without bureaucratic interference.

I enjoy going where I want to go, when I want to go in the privacy of my car. Mass transit uses buses, trains and trams, which are the exact opposite of my car, taking large groups to fixed destinations. Mass transit is more attuned to a socialist society where everyone is supposedly equal and the state tells you where you can go, when you go and who you go with. From history, we know that Stalin, Lenin and Mao were proponents of mass transit and fierce opponents of individual freedom.

Car culture is just right for spread-out Southern California, and freeways and roads should be our first priority.

Intermodal streets means that some part of Fallbrook Main Street could be blocked off from cars and only bicycles allowed to travel in that lane. Is this what we want in Fallbrook? I think it is a ridiculous idea. It was tried in Los Angeles to disastrous results and later removed after an outcry from motorists there.

Senate bill to decide medical exemptions

LOS ANGELES – The Vaccine Injury Awareness League's mission is to ignite compassion, understanding and respect in the area of vaccine injuries.

We believe vaccine-injuries are real and becoming more prevalent. We aim to inspire independent research and awareness such that parents make fully informed decisions.

Proposed California Senate Bill 276 will change the doctor-patient relationship. The state will decide if a child is eligible for a medical exemption to attend school, effectively removing the doctors' roll of making professional decisions based on patient history.

Channel 4 news segments aired Tuesday, June 4, on NBC San Diego News, Rory Divine's Investigative Report, and in the article below, it links to Josh Colman's story of his son permanently in a wheelchair after vaccination, www.nbcsandiego. com/investigations/What-is-the-Vaccination-Rate-at-Your-Childs-San-Diego-School-510778201.

Joshua Coleman's Oppose SB276 Speech can be found at www.youtube.com/ watch?v=7EJqpzhDgOk.

Summer Bolger, who was interviewed in the NBC News Report added, "We need to honor and respect those individuals and families who have been harmed from vaccination the same way we should honor and respect those who have been harmed by the disease.

"At the Senate Health Committee Hearing there were doctors both in Opposition and Support of SB 276. It is crazy to me to see doctors raise their hands in essence saying, 'Yes, please take away my rights as a doctor.' Instead, the doctors should be marching in the streets demanding better education that teaches them how to recognize who shouldn't be vaccinated and how to recognize and report vaccine injury. When a doctor administers a vaccine, they need to be well-informed of the harm listed in the vaccine insert and follow up with the patient afterward," Bolger said.

The Medical Board of California refuses to give full support to medical exemption bill. View the video at https://youtu.be/ jItwZh4dajY for more information.

Chase Merritt reacts as four guilty verdicts were handed down by a San Bernardino County jury Monday, June 10, for the murders of all four McStay family members in 2010.

Courtesy of Law & Crime Network Joseph and Summer McStay and the couple's young sons — 4-year-old Gianni and 3-year-old Joseph Jr. — disappeared in 2010 and their bodies were discovered in shallow graves three and a half years later in a San Bernardino desert.

Superior Court Judge Michael A. Smith confirms with the jury about their verdict.

"Stay tuned and you'll see," he said.

The penalty phase of the trial was scheduled to begin at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday, June 11, after press

Merritt was found guilty of bludgeoning to death Joseph and Summer McStay and the couple's young sons — 4-year-old Gianni and 3-year-old Joseph Jr. — in 2010 and burying their bodies in a San Bernardino desert.

Prosecutors built their case around the theory that greed was the basis for why Merritt subsequently killed the Fallbrook family, who lived in the Lake Rancho Viejo housing development east of Interstate 15 in Fallbrook, was last seen alive Feb. 4, 2010.

Prior to the family going missing, Merritt was a subcontractor for McStay and the two were good friends by most accounts. Merritt designed and built custom fountains for Joseph McStay's business, Earth Inspired Products, but, according to prosecutors, he was in debt to the tune of more than $40,000 to McStay at the time of the murders.

Prosecutors said Merritt feared being cut out of the business or having charges filed against him by McStay.

Detectives testified that Merritt deposited checks worth thousands of dollars from McStay after the family went missing, using QuickBooks and even called QuickBooks from his cell phone, identifying himself as Joseph McStay and asking to transfer the money in the account.

After the family went missing, relatives contacted the authorities and detectives thought initially that the family had gone on a trip to Mexico. Boosting that theory was the discovery of the family's Isuzu Trooper was found parked in a strip mall near the Mexican border.

At that point, the San Diego County sheriff's investigators then turned the case over to the FBI.

Over the course of the next two years, the case gained national attention with tips coming in from all over the United States and the world.

Then, in November 2013, the skeletal remains of the four family members were discovered in shallow graves by a motorcyclist in the Mojave desert.

According to the prosecution, the evidence showed that all four were beaten to death, most likely with a sledgehammer owned by Joseph McStay. On Nov. 7, 2014, investigators announced the arrest of Merritt and charged him with four counts of murder.

After years of delays, the trial began on Jan. 7, 2019. Merritt's defense attorneys argued that investigators zeroed in on Merritt early on the case and never looked at anyone else. The defense repeatedly attempted to point the finger at another McStay business associate, Dan Kavanaugh, who they said was overlooked by investigators.

True crime author discusses the trial of Chase Merritt

ID Crighton has been Courtesy photo covering the murder trial of Chase Merritt, who is accused of killing the McStay family of Fallbrook in 2010, for a true crime book she is writing.

Jeff Pack

True crime author JD Crighton couldn't have known how long it would take for the state of California to prove that Charles "Chase" Merritt is guilty of murdering the McStay family.

'When I dedicated myself to this case, I never imagined the trial would take five months," Crighton said.

But it did. In fact, it took six months.

Merritt was convicted of murder in the first degree of Joseph and Summer McStay and the couple's young sons – including 4-year-old Gianni and 3-year-old Joseph Jr. by a jury of 12 people Monday, June 10.

It is a verdict that Crighton agreed with, she said.

Initially, she said she was drawn to the case by her compassion for the family.

"I was first drawn to write about this case when the beautiful McStay family was reported missing in 2010 and attended the preliminary hearing held four years ago, where I watched the state present a strong circumstantial case against Charles Merritt," Crighton said. "Judge (Michael A.) Smith agreed, and it was decided Merritt would face a jury of his peers. What I didn't expect was delays that pushed the trial so far out, the family must have felt it would never happen."

Village News has followed the trial via live and recorded videos published by the Law and Crime Network, and Crighton was there them with the network when Law and Crime couldn't attend.

Village News reached out to her on Twitter as closing arguments in the case were set to begin to ask her opinion on the trial.

"Prosecution presented an overwhelming amount of circumstantial evidence which led me to believe beyond a reasonable doubt that Charles 'Chase' Merritt is guilty," Crighton said. "First, after the McStay family went missing, Chase Merritt told detectives, 'He was my best friend,' but he did not act like a best friend would. The defendant said he talked to Joseph multiple times per day, yet when he went missing, there were 25 voicemails on Joseph's cellphone and 31 voicemails on Summer's phone, and not one of those was from Chase."

Crighton became more convinced when Merritt referred to individuals in the family in the past tense during interviews.

"Not only did Merritt say Joseph was his best friend but when he described to detectives about Joseph's height, he said, 'He was 5-foot-8, I guess. He was definitely shorter than me," Crighton said. "And his response when questioned about the children, he said, 'His boys were ...' and, 'They were'

"As his best friend who talks to Joseph multiple times a day, you would expect Merritt to raise the red flag and alert family and police, but it was actually Dan Kavanaugh who alerted family by emailing Patrick McStay, and it was Dan Kavanaugh, from Hawaii, who called San Diego Police to ask for a welfare check, not once, but according to San Diego dispatch, he made four calls."

Crighton said that when Joseph's mother, Susan Blake testified, she said that when she asked Merritt to hand out missing person flyers, he declined to do so. Crighton also pointed to a CNN interview with Merritt in which he said, "Yeah, 'I'm definitely the last person who saw him.'

"How does he know he was the last person to see Joseph?" Crighton asked. "And then there was Merritt's coaching of his alibi witness, girlfriend Catherine Jarvis. On cross-examination, prosecutor Melissa Rodriguez played a tape recording of Catherine's visit with Merritt and he tells her, 'Raj (defense attorney Maline) went over stuff about you ... wanted me to tell you about what to remember ... We need to fill the gaps by recording audio you to remember it. That's the prosecution was trying to make Rodriquez followed up the recording by asking Jarvis whether she spent eight hours with him "at a Super Bowl party."

"It's odd that defense would risk accusations of inappropriate behavior by spending eight hours with a capital murder trial witness at a party," Crighton said.

Crighton backed up her opinion of guilt with the fact that Merritt's hand was injured when he was interviewed by detectives and witnesses couldn't corroborate his injury happening where he said it had.

Crighton also was convinced by the DNA found on the steering wheel of the family's Isuzu Trooper, "though he claims never to have driven it," she said.

'The 'aha' moment for me in regards to QuickBooks was that a few days after the McStay family went missing, a phone call was placed to QuickBooks from Chase Merritt's cellphone from a man who identified himself as Joseph McStay," Crighton said. "Per witness Ryan Baker, anti-money laundering investigator for Intuit, the male caller gave Joseph's master administrator email for verification and directed him to cancel the account.

"Baker sent two separate email confirmations to the master admin email to verify it was not an unauthorized request and never received a response. Chase Merritt was not an authorized user on Joseph's QuickBooks account, nor was he a user on Joseph's QuickBooks master administrator email, so he was unable to click on the verification email to complete the request."

Crighton said she has a "great deal of respect" for Judge Smith who was "exponentially patient and accommodating during the

She said she felt the prosecution missed an opportunity to press on a table in the McStay residence that appeared to have blood on it. She said she was surprised that cadaver dog handlers were not directed to search inside the McStav's home. "The dogs were already at the site so it seems logical to have them search inside the home to rule that out," Crighton said. "There were times I thought prosecution sped by key points where a pause was needed. If it was hard for me to take notes during this time, and I type fast, can you imagine what it was like for jurors?"

She said she thought the files and sharing more than 60 of only way we can get a picture to up for the fact that she believed the defense team was stalling the trial.

"Overall, the prosecution did an outstanding job presenting evidence, questioning witnesses and overcoming the constant barrage of theatrical defense tactics, character attacks and false allegations of misconduct in front of the jurors," Crighton said. "I stopped counting how many times (defense attorney James) McGee said this is a 'trial by ambush,' when in fact, they themselves tried to ambush prosecution by not providing information until the morning of testimony."

Crighton said the defense spent too much energy on pointing at Daniel Kavanaugh as the real culprit.

'Defense overdid the use of the 'SODDI' - Some Other Dude Did It – defense and stretched the bounds of third-party culpability," Crighton said. "At times, I honestly felt it was 'People vs. Daniel Kavanaugh' instead of Charles 'Chase' Merritt."

Kavanaugh was never called to testify at the trial as the defense couldn't locate him.

"Defense pointed fingers at Kavanaugh in the press and right from the get-go at trial," Crighton said. "If he was found, he would have most likely invoked the 5th (Amendment)."

Crighton said there was much more circumstantial evidence she could share from the trial that she believes overwhelmingly proves

Merritt was guilty of the murders.

"He had the motive; he had the means and he had the time to cover up his crime," Crighton said.

Crighton said in covering a trial like this one, she feels for the family of the victims.

"I develop a great deal of empathy towards the victims' loved ones and friends," she said. 'When they cry, I cry.

"In writing a book such as this, I feel a desire to right the wrongs the family suffered and to focus instead on the perpetrator in hopes that others like him would think twice before committing a horrific crime like this, knowing that ultimately justice would prevail. I hope for the families' sake, justice prevails in this case," she said.

As an author, Crighton has written "Detective in the White City," about the investigation of the serial killer, H. H. Holmes, and the horrific discovery of the missing Pitezel children; "Holmes" Own Story: Confessed 27 Murders - Lied Then Died;" and "Nobody's Hero: The Shocking Story of Chris Watts, the Sociopathic Monster Who Killed His Family," which will be published soon.

Public Forum: Presentation of Draft Maps

Wednesday, June 19, 2019 at 6:00 p.m.

138 South Brandon Road, Fallbrook CA 92028

Fallbrook Regional Health District (FRHD) is voluntarily moving away from an at large election system for its board makeup and is instead shifting to a five zone-based election system for the 2020 election to help strengthen community representation.

This is the seventh Public Forum the FRHD will host as part of the process of transitioning to zone-based elections. Join us for a second review of the draft zone maps, created by National Demographics Corporation. After the public hearings on proposed zone maps, the District Board of Directors will vote on a final map that divides the District into the five new zones, which will go into effect for the 2020 elections. The public is encouraged to attend these Public Hearings as the zonebased election system will be a representation of the communities we serve.

Foro público: presentación de mapas redactados

miércoles, 19 de junio del 2019 a las 6:00pm

138 South Brandon Road, Fallbrook CA 92028

La mesa directiva de Fallbrook Regional Health District (FRHD) esta voluntariamente alejándose de un sistema electoral en general y cambiará a un sistema electoral de cinco zonas para la elección del año 2020, para así ayudar a fortalecer la representación de la comunidad.

Como parte del proceso de transición a las elecciones basadas en la zona, FRHD tendrá el séptimo foro público. Acompáñenos para la segunda revisión de los mapas redactados por National Demographics Corporation. Después de las audiencias públicas de los propuestos mapas, la mesa directiva de FRHD votara por un mapa final que divide el distrito en 5 nuevas zonas, que tomaran efecto en las elecciones del año 2020. Animamos al público asistir a estas audiencias y foros públicos, ya que el sistema electoral basado en la zona será una representación de las comunidades que servimos.

wildfires, and in 2008, the board of supervisors and San Diego County's Local Agency Formation Commission created the San Diego County Regional Fire Authority.

'We're getting better and better at preparing for fires and fighting the fires," Desmond said.

"Disaster readiness is part of our culture," Ron Lane, the county's deputy chief administrative officer who oversees the county's Public Safety Group, said.

The county supervisors voted 5-0, March 12, to direct the chief administrative officer to work with the San Diego County Regional Fire Authority, the Sheriff's Department, other county departments and outside agencies to develop a plan to enhance protection against wildfires in existing and future communities and to return to the board within 90 days with recommendations.

The chief administrative officer was directed to focus on five objectives: developing and implementing a more cohesive pre-fire strategy including expansion and increased support to fire safe councils, enhancing pre-fire vegetation management including the expansion of community chipping programs and working with agencies at all levels of government to develop a cooperative vegetation management plan including potential legislative changes to reduce or eliminate burdensome regulations for controlled burns and fire breaks, improving pre-fire emergency planning including enhancing existing technology and geographic information system mapping for better protection of at-risk communities, strengthening fire safety measures in new construction including stricter building requirements in the Fire Code for buildings in high-risk areas and reducing wildfire loss in existing structures including increased frequency of defensible space inspections and the development of a grant program to encourage fire-resistant building improvements.

Some of those are long-term projects while others will be completed in phases. The June 4 action expands the SDCRFA's Community Risk Reduction Division to assist up to 20,000 existing homeowners to achieve defensible space fire protection through community education and inspections, to work with industry and other stakeholders on a Building Code revision to require vents with resistance to flames and embers for new construction.

Other projects are planned to implement a communitylevel preparedness strategy for communities most at risk including protecting evacuation corridors and hardening existing structures as well as fuel management projects and public outreach, to provide a coordinated and comprehensive approach to vegetation management and to improve pre-fire emergency planning through a multi-year effort to develop wildfire preplans for each community in unincorporated San Diego County.

The vegetation management approach will include expanding fuel breaks and prescribed burns as well as brush clearing along roadways, so environmental review and Air Pollution Control District approval will likely be required. The SDCRFA will also work with federal, state and other agencies on joint plans. Community chipping programs will not require support from other agencies.

The community pre-fire prevention strategy will focus on four communities each year. The SDCRFA will start with Crest and Guatay, and the first-year efforts will also include Palomar Mountain and the Lawson Valley area of Jamul. The communities will be prioritized based on the potential fire hazard, potential for loss, evacuation options and community interest in preparedness.

"This approach will be done at a micro level person by person, home by home and community by community," SDCRFA fire chief Tony Mecham said.

The cohesive pre-fire strategy elements will include holding community meetings and training through fire safe councils and the provision of educational materials, inspecting parcels, providing information on structure hardening including ember-resistant vents and ignition-resistant siding materials through in-person meetings as well as with written materials and online guidance.

Other elements include establishing a network of fuel breaks around communities to improve defensibility and tactical firefighting options as well as to reduce the risk of spreading the fire - 72 acres around Guatay and 158 acres around Crest will be cleared; specific fuel breaks for the other communities are to be determined - working with the county's Department of Public Works and the California Department of Transportation to remove hazardous vegetation along roadways and collaborating with community groups to enhance mapping of corridors in and out of neighborhoods.

"The county's going to be improving our firefighting capabilities community by community, neighborhood by neighborhood," Desmond said.

During the first year of the program more than 2,500 parcels will be inspected in the four communities of focus. Approximately 10,000 defensible space inspections in the unincorporated county were performed last year, and this year the county has a goal of 20,000 inspections. "We're doubling down on this inspection effort," Jacob said.

At least 40 miles of county roads each year will be treated to ensure that evacuation is not impaired by vegetation.

Wildfire pre-plans will be prepared for each of the four communities addressed during the first year as well as for each community of focus during subsequent years.

The plans will provide responders with situational awareness on elements such as building designs, the location of water sources and fuel breaks.

The information will include the location of fire hydrants and which homes have cleared defensible space. The information will be included in the SDCRFA's expanded GIS mapping. The SDCRFA will also work with the Sheriff's Department, the county's Office of Emergency Services and other agencies so that all fire and law enforcement personnel in the region are trained on the most current evacuation procedures.

The county's Department of Planning and Development Services updates the building code every three years. The department is currently drafting revisions which will cover attic and foundation ventilation and require vents with greater resistance to flames and embers. The revisions may also require additional roof eave protection and more protection for exterior siding materials.

The fire code is also updated every three years, and a requirement for a 5-foot fuel modification zone around structures is being considered. The building code and fire code updates are expected to be considered by the board of supervisors in winter 2020.

Doffo Winery hosting vet-supporting STEM Guitar Building Workshop

The members of the American Patriot Band serve as the executive board for the American Patriot Music Project.

Jeff Pack

Thanks in part to a selfie taken by Mayor Pro Tem James Stewart at the ribbon-cutting ceremony for the Naval Branch Health Clinic Temecula, four men, and one woman, veterans and a first-responder California highway patrolman will participate in American Patriot Music Project's STEM Guitar Building Project, June 27-30, at Doffo Winery.

The five participants will build their own electric guitars during the four-day instructional program led by Tom Singer of the STEM Guitar NSF Project with a team of three to four instructors from Sinclair College and Edmonds Community College.

"We were formally the California Chapter for Phoenix Patriot Foundation, a national veterans services organization and our music programs have become so successful that we decided to create our own 501(c)(3) in October of last year," American Patriot Music Project's Tony "T-Bone" Villegas Jr. said. "We are the first veteran service organization that the STEM Guitar Building Project, funded by the National Science Foundation, has worked with as part of their guitar building projects that have been at the college instructional level for about 10 years."

The American Patriot Music Project is sponsoring the participants with money donated to the local group by Temecula.

"In December of 2018, the city of Temecula was notified about a Twitter sweepstakes held by Utility Service Partners to show support for the military in your city," Brandi Bemoll, social media specialist for the city, said. "USP asked local, state and federal government employees to post a selfie on Twitter using hashtag #HeroesInMyCity and hashtag #USP-SweepsEntry to enter a sweepstakes for $4,000 to be donated to the winning entries' veteran nonprofit of choice. The city of Temecula won the sweepstakes with our entry of Mayor Pro Tem James Stewart's selfie at the ribbon cutting for the Naval Branch Health Clinic Temecula.'

Though the city had a relationship with American Patriot Music Project, according to Bernoli, the decision was made by Stewart after reviewing all nonprofit veteran organizations in the city of Temecula.

"I love that they work with veterans in something totally different, music," Stewart said. "And the fact that they are a local band helping veterans build guitars was a very unique concept."

"Temecula's slogan is 'Old Traditions, New Opportunities,' and American Patriot Music Project embodies that same idea with the tradition of supporting our military while offering help in a new and exciting way," Bernoli said.

Once the funding was available to host a local guitar build project, Villegas Jr. had to find a place to host the four-day event.

We are partnered with an allwomen veterans group called 'Veteran Sisters, She Served Too' for a fundraiser," he said. "Samantha Doffo is on the planning committee, and Doffo Winery is one of the poker run stops. I quickly realized how supportive of veterans that winery is. I asked her about allowing us the use her facility, and she did not hesitate."

During the project, former STEM Guitar Building participants will build a guitar for the city of Temecula, and Villegas Jr. will work on a guitar using wood from a wine barrel that Doffo Winery donated for the project.

The veterans and the first re-

Veterans and first-responders will participate in the American Patriot Music Project's STEM Guitar Building Project, June 27-30, at Doffo Winery, like they made last year at the last guitar building project the group held in the Midwest.

you for letting us use their facility," he said.

Villegas Jr. is also part of the American Patriot Band, which recently performed at the Temecula State of the City event and will perform again at the city's Fourth of July event.

"I lost my wife of 35 years to cancer back in 2014," Villegas Jr. said. "I've been a semi-pro musician all my life and after I got my life back in order, I was about to join a disco band or Phoenix Patriot Band – now American Patriot Band. Because of this band, I became the executive director for American Patriot Music Project.'

After this active duty tours, he joined the California National Guard and served as a chaplain's assistant toward the end of his run.

"It was then that I started to see the effects of war from a totally different perspective," Villegas Jr. said. "Since I've been working with veterans through these VSOs, I have also realized that deep inside I still have PTSD and it has been a healing process for me as well.

"I am honored to be part of this mission and helping our veterans and first responders is a never-ending mission," he said.

According to Bernoli, Temecula recognizes the values that veteran service organizations possess are similar to those of the city.

"In 2007, city council reaffirmed the special relationship between the city and the military community and since that time, the city has worked closely with public, private and nonprofit organizations to welcome veterans into Temecula," she said. "Temecula loves our military fami-

Ham radio operators to hold Field Day

FALLBROOK – The Fallbrook Amateur Radio Club will be participating in Field Day 2019, an emergency preparedness exercise, Saturday, June 22, at 11 a.m. until Sunday, June 23, at 11 a.m.

The public and ham radio operators are invited to visit the site at Frazier Elementary School's athletic field, 1835 Gum Tree Lane, in Fallbrook. Map and latest information are available at www. fallbrookarc.org.

The premise of Field Day is to prove that emergency amateur radio operators or "hams" are capable of setting up radio stations in the field, and by using portable antennas and emergency power via generators, batteries or solar, they are able to contact as many other groups around North America doing the same thing.

There are expected to be over 40,000 participants at Field Day this year. Field Day has been an annual event since 1933.

During emergencies and natural disasters normal modes of communication such as telephones, cell phones and the internet usually become overloaded and fail. Amateur radio has been called into action again and again to provide communications in crises when it really matters. Amateur radio is well-known for providing communications support in real disaster and post-disaster situations.

The club also assists in community events such as the Fallbrook Avocado Festival and parades.

During the Lilac fire, the Fallbrook Amateur Radio Club's repeaters – repeaters re-transmit radio signals to extend range – were used by local radio operators with vantage points from home or mobile, observing the fire and road conditions, to provide supplementary information to North County Fire and to provide verified information from North County Fire from a radio operator stationed at headquarters.

The radio transmissions could have been heard with a radio scanner or with a smartphone app or computer, from audio streamed via the internet. Information at www.fallbrookarc.org/index.php/gener/listen.

Amateur radio operators must pass exams that test their knowledge of electronics and communication procedures in order to get licensed by the Federal Communications Commission. Once licensed they are issued a unique call sign and have earned the privilege to use frequencies in the radio spectrum that are allocated for the amateur radio

Some of these frequencies are for short-range communications while others are capable of contacts over distances of thousands of miles.

There are over 757,602 licensed hams in the United States.

Even those who are not licensed amateurs are welcome to come on out to Field Day and see what it's all about. There will be plenty of experienced and friendly people to show visitors around and perhaps guide them through an on air contact.

Fallbrook High School provides free meals to children over the summer

FALLBROOK – Summer meals kick off June 10, at Fallbrook and Ivy high schools. Parents whose children who receive free or reduced-priced lunch in school can still make sure their children eat healthy while school is out. Fallbrook Union High School District provides free meals to children during the month of June.

From Monday through Friday, June 10-28, meals will be served. At Fallbrook High School, breakfast will be served from 7:40-8 a.m., and lunch will be served from 10:10-10:30 a.m.

At Ivy High School, breakfast will be served from 7:40-8 a.m., and lunch will be served from 11-11:15 a.m.

Each year, the U.S. Department of Agriculture partners with local organizations like Fallbrook High School to provide free meals to children when school is out for the summer. Anyone age 18 or younger may come and eat.

Three girls take top honors at FHS

Christine Eastman

Special to the Village News

Varsity swim captain, President's Service Award, American Sign Language Biliteracy Seal, Most Improved Swimmer, Principal's Honor Roll, Prom Queen, Warrior Head Pin Award, San Diego Union-Tribune All-Academic Team, National High School Honor Society. And the list goes on...

Fallbrook's top three scholars are all girls and they are unapologetically rockin' the STEM scene – biology, physics, science, biochemistry, math, engineering – and carrying the torch for the next generation of Fallbrook's female Warriors

Audrey Petersen (Valedictorian), Kaitlyn Callagher (Valedictorian) and Alex Jeppesen (Salutatorian) are not only the upper echelon of Fallbrook High School's students, they are Fallbrook natives and have grown up together. They've supported each other along this path that hasn't always been a yellow brick road, lent each other a helping hand when the going got tough and cheered each other on at the countless tournaments and events it took to get that coveted 'Female Athlete of the Year,' 'World Champion' title or 'Sportsmanship Award.' And for that reason, we thought it'd be fun to sit down and talk to them together and see what's behind these uber-smart girls with big GPAs...

OK, of course everyone wants to know...what did your GPAs end up being?

Kaitlyn: Audrey and I tied at 4.439. There are about 5 different calculations and reported scores... it's gotten a little crazy. It depends on not only academics but volunteerism, job experience, club activities and sports.

Alex: I think mine was about 4.35.

Did all you guys have your own little battle raging for the Valedictorian title?

Kaitlyn: No, we wanted to tie! Neither one of us wanted to beat the other because we're friends!

Audrey: Yeah, we wanted to see if we could actually get the same GPA – and we did!

Were you always good students, or was there something that really triggered you and got you excited to learn?

Kaitlyn: My mom is an AP math teacher here at FHS so we're a pretty academic house.

Alex: I was actually a horrible math student in elementary school, but I didn't really know it, so I just kept doing it and now I love math!

Audrey: I guess I'm a peoplepleaser and I want to do well. It's like you get this dopamine reward for getting a good grade, so it makes me want to keep doing it over and over again.

You mentioned you've known each other a long time. Are you all Fallbrook born and bred?

Kaitlyn: Pretty much. We live in Temecula now, but I've always gone to Fallbrook schools and wanted to stay with my friends so didn't switch districts.

Alex: My dad came here from Denmark in his twenties to make a life for himself and met my mom. Me and my brother were born here so we have dual citizenship and we've been here ever since.

Audrey: Yup! My dad's been a doctor at Graybill Medical in town

Sounds like you're all legit Fallbrookians. Are your family members all legit brainiacs, too?

Kaitlyn: Well, with my mombeing an AP math teacher here at FHS, I'd say yes. Also, my grandma was a teacher and my grandpa and uncles were engineers, so there's definitely lots of brainpower in the family.

Alex: I come from a long line of doctors and engineers so I guess science is in our blood!

Audrey: My grandma was also a teacher and as I said, my dad's a doctor. But he's always said, "Mom's the brains of the family!"

Your Dad sounds like a smart man, Audrey! So, where are you going to college and what are you majoring in?

Audrey: I'm going to UCLA and majoring in Biology. I come from a long line of USC grads, so now we have a sign that says "House divided!"

Kaitlyn: I'm going to UCSD and studying Structural Engineering.

Alex: I'm headed to Aalborg University in Denmark. It's in a small port city near some of my family and I'll be studying Biotechnology and Chemical Engineering.

*Interesting fact. All three girls' first choice was California Polytechnic University, San Luis Obispo – and NONE of them got in. They were all wait-listed and then denied. Talk about a cosmic universe...no amount of math can figure that one out.

Do you girls have a "dream job" in mind?

Kaitlyn: I'd really love to be a residential architect at some point.

Alex: Not sure yet, but I see myself working in a lab...I've toured several already and could really see myself doing that.

Audrey: I'm going to be an ER doctor.

What do each of you feel your greatest victory has been in high Kaitlyn: Definitely the Sportsmanship Award I got at our final CIF (water polo) game. That was pretty special.

Alex: I was a competitive saddle seat rider (horse riding style) and won 'World Champion, Show Pleasure for 13 and Under' my freshman year. School had literally just started so not only was I new to high school as an incoming freshman, I was already a week behind with multiple AP classes! But that's a unique accomplishment that I'm super proud of.

Audrey: Being a Valedictorian again! I was Valedictorian in middle school, so it was sort of a personal mission to get that title again in high school.

You girls are so busy...you must have pretty structured routines?

Kaitlyn: I play sports year-round but homework is always #1. I just have to fit it in in-between whatever else is happening that day, so I have to be organized. And I always get in 30 minutes of reading before bed.

Alex: I'm pretty routine – home, snack, homework, shower, bed usually around 8:30. But that's all me...my parents don't enforce any particular bedtime or curfews.

Audrey: Yeah, like Kaitlyn and Alex, schoolwork is always priority. Going to bed without it all done is not an option.

What do you love to do in your free time?

Kaitlyn: I love to go camping in the desert with my family.

Alex: I like gardening, hanging with my family and working summer camps at the barn I ride at. And even though it was a school activity, swim was an incredible experience that never felt like a responsibility. I was a late bloomer, but I love to swim.

Audrey: I just enjoy being outside – the beach in particular. I go surfing as much as I can and I love hiking and running, too.

What kind of music/TV/movies are you girls into?

Kaitlyn: I'm a country girl! I love a good rom-com, 'The 100' and anything sci-fi.

Alex: I like pop and 2000s flashbacks – all the feels! And 'Brooklyn 99' and comedies.

Audrey: Country for sure! (flashes her cowboy boots) Far as TV goes, my family loves to sit down and watch 'This is Us' together – that's our jam and we're trying to figure out how to keep it going when I'm gone!

Have you had moments when you thought, "This is all too much, I give up?"

All: Of course!

Kaitlyn: Freshman year I was in Honors Algebra II with 2 other underclassmen and all the rest were seniors – it was intimidating!

And this year, with all the college applications, I'd just go in my room and curl into the fetal position on my bed. But my mom would come remind me there's always a solution – my mom's the best!

Alex: As I mentioned before, that freshman year when I started a week behind – what a knock in the jaw that was. I cried a lot. And junior year I had multiple AP classes and tests jammed together...it was nuts.

Audrey: My junior year I pretty much started out with an 'F' in physics. I was like, what's going on? I just don't get physics! And the teacher, who was a new teacher that year, actually told me I'd probably never be able to get an A in that class. I was like, uh, no. My parents got me a tutor and I got an A.

Are you total techies or do you still do some of your work old school, like writing it out on Kaitlyn: Oh yeah! I do research on computers and stuff, but I do notes on paper.

Alex: Ditto. If I did everything on computers, I'd go crazy...all those pop-ups like, "Need to update," "Click here to install." Ugh.

Audrey: Yup, old school a lot of times...I'm all about the handwritten flashcards!

On that note, high school's rough. What are you NOT going to miss?

Kaitlyn: I kind of loved all of it with my mom being on campus! I love my mom. I guess I'm looking forward to a more lax schedule, being able to have real breaks inbetween classes.

Alex: The bathrooms! Eww! There's always a line, people doing their makeup, blocking the sinks and those gross hand dryers that blow germs everywhere!

Audrey: Having a curfew! It'll also be nice not to have a full day of classes back-to-back every day. I'm really looking forward to a more staggered class schedule.

What teachers/administrators at FHS are you going to miss the most and why?

Kaitlyn: (wait for it...) My mom! She was my favorite teacher (big smile)...I loved going into her classroom at lunchtime because she was there and had a microwave and a fridge and my friends would come in and hang.

Alex: Mr. Lenaway and Kaitlyn's mom!

Audrey: Ms. Nava really instilled my love for science. And Mr. Lenaway for sure, he's such a fatherly figure – and Kaitlyn's MOM! And hey, what about Dr. Morrow, right!?

All: YES! Dr. Morrow's the best! And Mrs. Cain!

Certainly, coming of age is an exciting adventure, but it also tends to bring out fear and anxiety in a lot of kids. What are you afraid of?

Kaitlyn: Leaving my mom!

Alex: Driving. I cry when I get behind the wheel...the thought of all that responsibility. I mean, what if I kill someone?

Audrey: I'm actually not really afraid of anything in particular or to leave home. I feel prepared to leave home; my parents have done a great job!

Finally, what are you going to do this summer – work or play? All: PLAY!!!

Kaitlyn: I'm doing a camping trip up and down the California coast with Alex here and a few other friends. I can't wait to just Alex: I'll be getting ready to move to Denmark, so that's pretty big but I'm excited and it'll be fun to do this trip with Kaitlyn.

Audrey: I'm just going to try and relax. I'm doing a mission trip to Mexico with my church, summer camp with my church, a few tutoring jobs, a trip to Big Bear and a family reunion.

So much for relaxing. At the end of the day, Alex, Kaitlyn and Audrey are 'normal' girls in that they like to listen to music, watch TV and play around on social media like all teenagers, but they have this crazy self-motivation gene that you have or you don't. Their skill sets are more nature than nurture, but the ying doesn't exist without the yang - their families. What outstanding role models these girls are for this generation, those who will follow them and those who will have the honor of befriending them in the Fall. Farewell and best of luck to Kaitlyn, Alex and Audrey as well as the entire FHS 2019 graduating class!

Streich leads the way as Valedictorian of Bonsall High

On June 5, Bonsall High School celebrated its graduating class of 2019, which was just the second time that the school's seniors have walked across the stage to receive their diplomas. At the top of his class, Gunnar Streich, valedictorian and beloved friend of his peers, was among the students that graduated.

Attending SDSU, the graduate plans to major in criminal justice and hopes to pursue a career in government work or contracting. 'I would say persistence, determination, integrity, and a good work ethic contributed to my becoming valedictorian. It was a process of hard work and persistence; it doesn't just come from intelligence, but your willingness to put in time and effort, which is what makes it worth it in the end," said Streich.

As a role model at Bonsall High, Streich is looked up to as a prime example of academic achievement, both taking his coursework seriously and managing to find the time for fun memories along the way. "Being valedictorian entails that I set a good example for others and work to be the best version of myself."

In providing advice to his fellow high school students, Streich said, "Just work hard and be yourself. As long as you push yourself to be the best you can be, you are setting yourself up to succeed. When you feel like you want to quit, that is when you are almost there. Push a little bit further and you'll do great."

The senior continued to motivate and inspire the other graduating students in the crowd with his speech as they all prepared to officially enter the real world, sending them off with ambitions and hope for the future upon which they'll leave their mark.

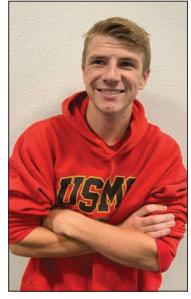

Teachers at Bonsall High, such as Daniel Costa and Karina Calderon, have enjoyed being able to watch Streich grow throughout the past four years, educating, supporting, and shaping the fine young man he's become today. "Having worked with Gunnar over the previous four years, I continue to be impressed by his tremendous work ethic and desire for academic success," said Costa. The student has continued to grow and learn, using what his education has given him to care for the world around him.

"I had Gunnar in ninth grade GeoLit and I had him again in Senior Advisory this year. I am proud of his growth, especially his work with our community. His Senior Project, a T-shirt fundraiser for the Fallbrook Smiles Project, is the perfect example of his commitment to improving our community," Calderon said about the college-bound graduate.

"I would just like to thank everyone that has been a good example in my life and has supported me all the way there. My parents are a huge part of this, always being there for support when I need it. I would like to thank all of the staff and teachers I have had throughout the years for everything I learned from them and for being a family away from home. I'd lastly like to thank all of my friends who have supported me and everyone else that was there when I needed them the most. I couldn't have done this without everyone," said Streich, honored by the praise he has received.

The BHS graduating class of 2019 looks forward to beginning a new chapter of their lives, as they head off to college, trade school or into the workforce.

BHS students commit to higher education

BONSALL - Bonsall High School's College Signing and Senior Scholarships and Awards Ceremony took place May 16. Many students were recognized for various achievements and honors before those headed for college in the fall ceremonially committed to their choice destinations. Over two-thirds of BHS graduates will immediately continue with higher learning, 11% higher than the California state average, according to www.higheredinfo.org.

The University of Californiabound include Calvin Hamilton at University of California Los Angeles, Phoebe Anderson at University of California Berkeley, Daniel Bertschy at University of California Irvine and Joshua Santiago at University of California San Diego. Attending California State Universities are valedictorian Gunnar Streich and salutatorian Cheyenne Laurance, who will both attend San Diego State University, Antonio Garcia at California State Polytechnic San Luis Obispo, Tanner Dugas and Caitlyn Eckert at California State Polytechnic Pomona, Leslie Aguilar-Diaz, Mariana Ayala-Ortiz, Sophia Blount, Daniela Ibara, Christopher Kawakara, Elmer Libed, and Erick Montejo at California State University San Marcos and Sara LaRussa at California State University Maritime.

Joseph Contreras will attend Providence Christian College in Pasadena on a golf scholarship. Those heading out-of-state include Julia Anderson at Utah Valley University, MiaCai Meluat at University of Hawaii Manoa, Ethan Gates at University of Nevada Las Vegas, Christopher Gagnon and Claudia Herrera at Arizona State University.

Many graduates will take advantage of the free higher education available through the Palomar Promise, and most plan to transfer to a four-year university upon completion of general requirements. Representatives from California State Universities and Palomar College attended the event to personally welcome the Besides college, some Bonsall High School seniors have decided to pursue missionary work, trade programs and employment following graduation. There are students who are strategically building their resumes before enrolling in universities in the spring of 2020.

County receives state grant to help whack invasive weed

Gig Conaughton

County of San Diego Communications Office

San Diego County has received a $53,966 state grant to continue efforts to corral a native plantthreatening, fire hazard-creating invasive weed that even Australian cows don't like.

Ward's weed has taken over rangelands in Australia and is threatening to invade North America starting in San Diego County, which is home to fragile ecological habitats like coastal sage scrub.

County Agriculture, Weights and Measures officials hope the two-year $53,966 grant from the California Department of Food and Agriculture will supplement existing funding and possibly push efforts forward - from suppressing the weed to eradicating it.

Ward's weed made local news recently because groups are working to control the largest infestation in Carlsbad; however, the county and other agencies have been working to contain the weed for a few years.

Two areas in Carlsbad, one at Crest Canyon in Del Mar, one in Otay Mesa and one on Camp Pendleton are the only known infestations in North America. Agriculture, Weights and Measures has been working since 2015 to control dozens of acres where the weed has taken root and threatens native habitat, using funding from the San Diego Association of Governments.

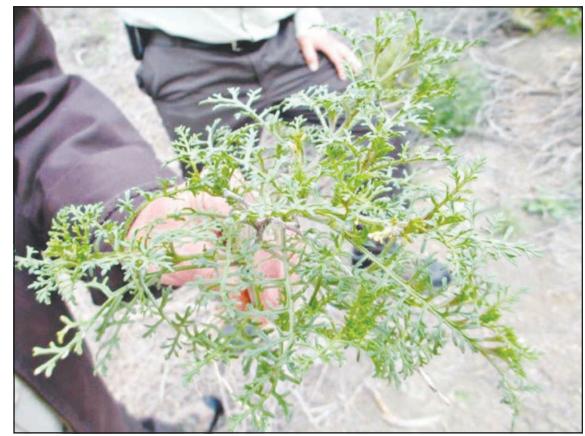

Native to the Mediterranean and southwest Asia. Ward's weed is bristly haired with yellow or white flowers. It can grow vertically like a tumbleweed in rainy years or flat like a mat in dry ones. It spits out tens of thousands of seeds, and it grows and dies each year, sucking up space from native plants, then leaving a dry, brittle carcass as a fire hazard.

The weed has become a serious invasive threat in Australia, where it's damaged rangelands. According to the Australian state of Victoria's agriculture department, livestock won't eat the weed unless there's nothing else to eat and they are put off by the weed's "hairiness and pungent, penetrating odor."

The worry in San Diego County is that if Ward's weed becomes permanently established, it could crowd out native habitats. Jason Giessow is the principal ecologist of Dendra Inc., the contractor working for Agriculture, Weights and Measures on invasive weed abatement.

"These plants add a lot of pressure on native habitats," Giessow said, "displacing or crowding out other plants and affecting the fitness of the habitat."

is difficult. Mark Martinez, a supervising pest management technician with Agriculture, Weights and Measures, said the weed likes to grow up intertwined with other plants. Giessow said each weed not only sets thousands of seeds, it withholds some seeds to spread out germination.

"It sprouts and sets seeds in multiple rounds in a given year," Giessow said. "It's almost impossible to stay on top of it. It grows and sets seeds too quickly."

Giessow said the public can help, by knowing what Ward's weed looks like and then, if they find it, snapping a picture and reporting it to Agriculture, Weights and Measures at ipc. awm@sdcounty.ca.gov or at (858) 614-7750 or at www.inaturalist. org or www.calflora.org.

Summer community cleanups announced

FALLBROOK - The Fallbrook Beautification Alliance has announced its schedule for summer group cleanups, in and around Fallbrook. FBA's program Keeping Fallbrook Litter Free encourages all residents to get involved in some way in keeping Fallbrook's roadways and riverbed free of trash.

The KFLF program challenges participants to pick up at least one 5-gallon bucket of trash, in and around their neighborhood, place of business or workout area, each

In addition to individual trash pickups, KFLF also sponsors monthly group cleanups in particularly trash-filled areas.

The group cleanup schedule for this summer includes Don Dassault Park, 832 Alturas Road, from 9-11 a.m., Saturday, June 29; Margarita River Trail, which will meet at the small parking lot at Sandia Creek, from 9-11 a.m.,

Saturday, July 27; Ingold Sports Park, 2551 Olive Hill Road, from 9-11 a.m., Saturday, Aug. 24.

To get to Santa Margarita River Trail from Fallbrook, take DeLuz Road north to Sandia Creek and continue on Sandia Creek. The small parking lot is on the right, before Rock Mountain Road.

All ages of volunteers are welcome, and they should bring their own reusable buckets, gloves, pickers and water to help minimize the accumulation of added waste.

Anyone interested in this program or any of FBA's efforts to help clean Fallbrook can visit www.fallbrookbeautification.org or attend the next quarterly meeting of KFLF which will be held at the Fallbrook Public Utilities District boardroom, Monday, Aug. 12, from 6:30-7:30 p.m. at 990 E Mission Road in Fallbrook.

Real Estate Round-up: The nuts and bolts of ADU's

Kim Murphy Murphy & Murphy Southern California Realty

An ADU is an accessory dwelling unit that real estate professionals commonly refer to as granny flats or mother-in-law units. In the wake of California's severe housing crisis, they have become a highly desirable entity which has earned them the official name, ADU. They are additional living spaces on single-family lots that have a separate kitchen, bathroom and exterior access independent of the primary residence. These spaces can either be attached to, or detached from, the primary

The creation of these ADU's is a foundation in the creation of additional housing units to alleviate the shortage in permanent or residential housing. It is viewed as so important that Senate Bill 13 was written by Sen. Bob Wieckowski, D-Fremont, passed by the Senate (34-2) and is currently in the Assembly waiting approval. Once passed and signed by the governor, it will become law, effective Jan. 1, 2020.

ADU's are inherently affordable; they cost less to build than a regular unit, are financed and managed by the homeowner and require no public subsidy. In January 2019, the San Diego County Board of Supervisors voted to approve an ordinance creating the five-year program to waive fees to build accessory dwelling units in the unincorporated communities.

The program immediately waives building permit fees as well as development impact fees, which include transportation fees to add roads and infrastructure, fees to build parks and drainage fees, for homeowners who want to build ADUs. The county can offer these waivers because the program includes $11 million in funding over the trial period of five years, to offset revenue lost by waiving the permit and development fees.

San Diego County will still be able to take care of its roads and infrastructure, still be able to maintain and build parks and take care of drainage needs, while providing a path to provide the much-needed housing for the ADUs are allowed "by-right," which means they do not require the usual public input process, and instead allow units to be approved through an administrative process. There is a standard criteria that must be followed, but once met, the buildings are approved. There are 25 guidelines that apply.

The legal lot must be in a residential zone and must have an existing single-family residence on it or the ADU can be constructed at the same time as the primary single family residence is being built.

The ADU may be rented but cannot be sold separately from the primary residence.

The legal lot may not have an existing guest house on it, so residents can't build their own little town.

The total floor area of an attached ADU shall not exceed 50% of the primary residence or exceed 1,200 square feet.

Main building setbacks are required for all newly constructed ADUs. A detached ADU is limited to 24 feet in height. A new ADU must provide one parking space, but it does not need to be a garage.

Proof of evidence of adequate sewer or septic service and water available is required with all fees

Fire and other codes, and the Zoning Ordinance of the parcel, shall apply.

The ADU cannot be used or rented for less than 30 days.

So why would you want to build an ADU? It can provide a second dwelling for your extended family or friends. It can become a source of passive income, if you rent it out. It can become your personal home and allow you to rent your primary residence to help you pay off your current mortgage or provide a larger source of rental income from your larger primary residence.

If you decide to move into the ADU, your children would have a possible path to home ownership by moving into and ultimately "buying" your home from you. With California affordability at only 29%, it could be the one way for your children to own a home and remain in California. There is also the bigger picture to consider; you would be providing your personal solution to the housing crisis, one ADU at a time.

Now may be the perfect time to consider adding an ADU to your property. Many Fallbrook properties will qualify and with the added benefit of no building permit fees or impact fees, there is a definite financial incentive. If you're interested and have more questions, contact me. I'd be happy to help you decide if an ADU is right for you.

Kim Murphy can be reached at kim@murphy-realty.com or (760) 415-9292 or at 130 N. Main Avenue, in Fallbrook. Her broker license is #01229921, and she is on the board of directors for the California Association of Realtors.

Realtor Chris Hasvold loves Fallbrook's small-town feeling

Rick Monroe Special to the Village News

What Chris Hasvold loves most about Fallbrook is its small-town atmosphere.

"I didn't think it existed in Southern California, but Fallbrook is special," the longtime local Realtor said. "You walk into the grocery store and there are always people who you know who say since he moved here in 1987 as young, successful real estate professional.

Fallbrook has been his home

Hasvold, 58, said he grew up in the Torrance area and played basketball in high school. He was recruited to play at University of California Santa Barbara but didn't like the experience and left, planning to transfer to Chico State University or California State Polytechnic San Luis Obispo. Instead, he decided to sit out a year and worked in construction.

"Real estate was just a fluke," he said. "A friend suggested I try it back in 1980 — and I just loved it.

"I've done it all - residential, development, industrial and business. I love the creativity and that every deal is different," Hasvold said.

His real estate business started in his hometown - while he was still a teenager - initially in the residential arena. However, as a 25-year-old he created a partnership with investors to develop an 8,000 square foot strip mall in Lomita.

"I had no money, but was able to line up an architect and contractor and went to the bank for a $650,000 loan. The center was built, and it's still standing," he said.

After the birth of their first child, he and wife Lisa realized that Torrance wasn't the same community as it was when they were growing up. The open fields were gone and buildings were wall-to-wall, he said.

"We were looking at Valencia or Temecula-Fallbrook, but when we visited here, we knew this would be home," Hasvold said.

The Hasvolds, who will celebrate their 35th anniversary in September, built their Fallbrook home in 1988. Four years ago, they downsized after their two sons moved on with their lives. One son stayed in the real estate business in San Diego, and the other works for Google in Orange County.

Hasvold's real estate practice in Fallbrook began with a private office, but in 1993 he owned an ERA franchise for three years. Since 1996, he has owned Coldwell Banker Village Properties.

"CB is the most trusted name and it's the best of both worlds because you have their brand and it's locally owned," Hasvold said.

CB Village Properties has about 30 agents, which Hasvold said is a perfect amount because they can be properly mentored and trained. Those agents represent more than 700 years of local real estate experience, he said.

"That's so important, because Fallbrook and Bonsall are unique," he said. "We encourage people to use Realtors who live in the area because you run into so many different things – like easements, septic tanks, groves and such. It's frustrating that more than half the transactions in our area are done by brokers who don't live here and that's not good. Some of them don't know what they don't

"There's not an office in the county that is better trained," he said. "The public perception of real estate agents is not positive. I think it should be more difficult to get a license and easier to lose it. Then only true professionals

Real estate is still a good profession to enter into, Hasvold said. "Definitely," he said. "There will always be a human needed in the transaction. For most people, buying a home is the biggest transaction in their life. They need a person they can trust."

Hasvold is a highly recognized local, county and statewide professional in his field. He is president-elect for 2020 of the North San Diego County Association of Realtors, representing 5,000 real estate professionals. He is also a director of the California Regional Multiple Listing Service, the nation's largest multiple-listing Hasvold and his Coldwell Banker real estate office are involved in community events and organizations.

"We established a Community Support Fund in the 1980s, and since then it has donated more than $500,000 to local charities and organizations. Most of us give individually as well," he said.

Camino Del Rey drainage improvements move up funding list

loe Naiman

Village News Correspondent

The annual update of San Diego County's TransNet Local Street Improvement Program modified the TransNet funding for the Camino Del Rey drainage project.

A 5-0 San Diego County Board of Supervisors vote May 22 approved the updated list of projects which will be funded by TransNet local streets and road revenue over the next five years. The plan also includes fiscal year 2018-2019 closeout funding for intersection improvements at Stage Coach Lane and Reche Road and at East Vista Way and Gopher Canyon Road.

In 2004, the county's voters passed an extension of the halfcent TransNet sales tax which is divided between highways, transit and local streets and roads. The county expects to receive $98.7 million of TransNet revenues during the five-year period from fiscal year 2018-2019 to fiscal year 2022-2023.

The Regional Transportation Improvement Plan is coordinated by the San Diego Association of Governments, which administers the TransNet funding, and the RTIP includes the Local Street Improvement Program. The RTIP is updated every other year - the most recent SANDAG update was approved in September 2018 – but amended on a quarterly basis. The county updates its Local Street Improvement Program annually.

In 2015, the county amended its Local Street Improvement Program to add the Camino Del Rey drainage improvements which will upgrade the existing drainage system to accommodate a 100year flood.

In the county's 2018 update, the planned TransNet money was $1,000,000 during 2018-2019, $504,000 in 2019-2020, $10,000 during 2020-2021, $10,000 for 2021-2022, and $1,000,000 in 2022-2023. The amounts for those five fiscal years didn't include funding for future years, and the project was scheduled for completion during fiscal year

Due to schedule and revenue changes within the TransNet program, the county's Department of Public Works now believes that the construction can be completed earlier and that the project could be complete by the end of the current five-year cycle.

The updated plan retains the $1,000,000 for 2018-2019 and the $504,000 during 2019-2020 but increases the TransNet funding to $1,000,000 in 2020-2021, $3,000,000 for 2021-2022 and $1,356,000 during 2022-2023. The changes increase the total funding amount during the five-year period from $2,524,000 to $6,860,000.

The improvements to the intersection of Stage Coach Lane and Reche Road widened the approach to the intersection to allow for additional turn lanes and also accommodated bicycle and pedestrian improvements. The plan utilized $200,000 of TransNet revenue during fiscal year 2018-2019 for project closeout tasks. The 2018-2019 expenditures of TransNet revenue also included $160,000 for the intersection improvements at East Vista Way and Gopher Canyon Road which added turn lanes.

The county is now including road maintenance in its Local Street Improvement Program appropriations, and a five-year total of $25 million for roadway maintenance and overlay will fund road sealing, asphalt concrete overlays, sidewalk repairs and other pavement resurfacing or rehabilitation.

The total amount includes $9,172,920 for roads in the Fifth Supervisorial District which will cover $876,000 during 2018-2019 and $2,074,230 each year from 2019-2020 to 2022-2023.

The county's annual cost share of $12,500 for the regional traffic signal management program is also included in the Local Street Improvement Program.

DINING

Pechanga festival boasts beer, chili and philanthropy

Jeff Pack Writer

Where else besides the Pechanga Microbrew and Chili Cookoff can people taste nearly 50 craft beers, devour more than a dozen chili offerings and contribute to social good at the same time?

The 11th annual event returns to the casino resort's Summit event center Saturday, June 15, and once again, it will benefit local charity, Habitat for Humanity Inland Valley.

"We are honored to have Pechanga allow us to participate in this great event every year," Tammy Marine, executive director for Habitat for Humanity Inland Valley, said. "Pechanga has been a wonderful partner for Habitat for Humanity Inland Valley and we truly appreciate everything they do to help us make sure that everyone has a decent place to live in the Temecula Valley.

"Pechanga is such a huge part of our community and they continue to provide great economic opportunities, tourism and recognition for the region. We look forward to continuing to partner with Pechanga for this event, and many others," she said.

Ticket-holding beer enthusiasts are afforded the opportunity to taste unlimited samples of craft and small production brews from San Diego, Riverside, San Bernardino, Los Angeles and Orange counties, as well as selections from Northern California, the Midwest and the East Coast.

Scheduled to appear so far are Breckenridge Brewery, Golden Road Brewing, Kona Brewing, Elysian Brewing, Saint Archer Brewing Company, Belching Beaver Brewery, Ballast Point, The Boston Beer Company, Anchor Brewing, Sierra Nevada Brewing Co., Santa Monica Brew Works, Firestone Walker Brewing Co., Stone Brewing, Refuge Brewery, Galway Spirits Distillery, Garage Brewery, Inland Wharf Brewing, Indian Joe Brewing and Speakeasy Ales & Lagers. More breweries could be added.

"We've added more and more microbreweries every year," Duane Owen, Pechanga Resort Casino's executive chef said. "This year I believe we're at 20-something breweries, and at last count, there's going to be 48 different varieties of beer and possibly even more once we get to next Saturday.'

Tasting all those beers requires a healthy amount of sustenance in between sips - and the chili cookoff will provide just that for

All of Pechanga's restaurants participate in the judged competition, and each year, the stakes are raised higher and higher. Guests will be asked to pick their favorites.

This year, resort chefs will try to unseat Chef Hunter Gonzalez of the Pechanga Banquets and Catering department. Gonzalez and his team won the popular vote for the best bean melange with his Pork Four Ways chili.

'Now we have 14 different chilis competing, whereas five years ago we had seven or eight," Owen said. "The restaurants are those lines to kind of enhance actually adding something to complement the chili, so many of them are doing a different cornbread. They're adding in a frozen dessert, something along their station."

For an idea of what to expect from the chili-making chefs, Owen gave a preview of what's on the menu from a few of the restaurants.

Blends will present coffee smoked brisket chili on cornbread mini waffles with a signature blended drink; Bamboo will offer lamb and beef chili; Great Oak Steakhouse is bringing steak chili with spicy tomatillo-lime foam; Paisano's will make chili with spicy Italian sausage and risotto cracker; Journey's End is going with chili mac 'n' cheese with chipotle and smoked Gouda cheese sauce; and Coveside Grill, new to the competition, will present an island-style steak chili with pork belly, Portuguese sausage corn

Some of the more unusual flavors that are promised include the Lobby Bar's Beef cheek and pork chorizo chili with beer cheese wiz and malt chicharron, with Mexican elote with mayo, Parmesan cheese and hot Cheetos dust and watermelon and cucumber Popsicle with Tajin and lime.

Like it hot? Check out Kelsey's smoked beef chili with habanero and wasabi, and Blazing Noodles blazin' chili.

"It's a friendly competition with the chefs, but they are looking to step it up every year," Owen said. "It's kind of a badge of honor here at Pechanga, which chef wins the competition. We have a good time

There will be live music during the event, as well as an extensive silent auction with valuable items on which to bid, with the proceeds going to Habitat for Humanity Inland Valley, which will be at the event as well.

"Our team will be at a table at the event to share information about our programs, volunteer opportunities," Marine said. "We'd love for everyone to stop by and learn more about Habitat for Humanity. We will also be hosting a raffle for a variety of wonderful items. Proceeds from the raffle will go toward building and repairing homes for deserving residents in the region."

Owen said the event has improved year after year.

"It's an exciting event, the entertainment, the band, you get a lot of energy in the room," he said. "It's something we've built into quite the event. Once it gets rolling it's a lot of fun, people taste the beers, there's a lot of interacting with the chefs It's hard to get people to leave at the end of the event. Once they turn the lights up, people are still having a great time and don't want to leave. It's a great time."

Marine agreed.

"The event is a great way to kick off the summer," she said. "It is truly a culinary experience and social event you don't want to miss."

The 11th annual Pechanga Microbrew Fest and Chili Cookoff is from noon to 5 p.m. for VIP pass $\,$ holders and 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. for general admission ticket holders.

Tickets are $65 for VIP, $50 for general admission and $40 for designated drivers and can be purchased by calling (888) 810-8871, by visiting www.pechanga. com or in person at the Pechanga box office.

Pechanga Resort Casino is at 45000 Pechanga Parkway in Temecula.

Jeff Pack can be reached by email at jpack@reedermedia.com.

More than 48 beers will be available for tasting at the Pechanga Microbrew and Chili Cookoff, benefiting Habitat for Humanity Inland Valley Saturday, June 15.

Ticket holders can visit the more than 20 local, regional and national brewers that will be in attendance.

More than 14 different varieties of chili will Pechanga Resort Casino photos be prepared and served at the Pechanga Microbrew and Chili Cookoff, and attendees will have an opportunity to judge which is

Contract approved for Alta Vista Drive guardrail replacement

Joe Naiman

Village News Correspondent

The San Diego County Board of Supervisors authorized a construction contract which will include replacing a guardrail along Alta Vista Drive.

The supervisors' 4-0 vote, June 5, with Greg Cox at the National Association of Counties conference, authorized the advertisement for bid and subsequent award of a construction contract to replace existing guardrails and provide end treatments throughout the unincorporated portion of the county. The bid package is structured with a base bid consisting of the minimum number of locations and a group of additive alternatives, or locations which can be added to the contract should funding permit. The Alta Vista Drive guardrail 400 feet west of Greenhill Drive is on the base bid list. "I'm happy to report that we are maintaining guardrails along our roads to enhance driver safety in the county," Supervisor Jim Desmond said.

Each year the county's Department of Public Works repairs, installs and replaces guardrails and end sections along roads where guardrails have been damaged or where DPW has determined the greatest need to upgrade existing guardrails to current design standards. The base list has five locations while two locations are on the additive alternative list. The contractor will replace the existing railing and provide end treatments for the 100foot Alta Vista Drive guardrail.

A prior year balance in the county's Road Fund will provide the $300,000 to cover the estimated costs including contingency to replace the guardrails.

The design for the guardrail replacements is complete. During the construction period traffic control measures will be in place to limit impacts to travelers and the community, and before the construction work road signs will notify the public of the location and the approximate dates of the work. The construction is scheduled to begin in fall 2019 and be complete by the end of calendar year 2019.

Bertschy, La Russa named Senior Athlete of the Year at Bonsall High

Sara La Russa and Daniel Bertschy were named Senior Athlete of the Year at Bonsall High School this year.

Jeff Pack Writer

Bonsall High School's Sara La Russa and Daniel Bertschy have been named Senior Athlete of the Year at the school.

You couldn't ask for better leaders with both a go-getter competitive attitude balanced with even-keeled, supportive temperaments with caring hearts," Eric Hendy, athletic director at Bonsall High School, said.

La Russa began competing as a cross country runner in her freshman year earning Most Valuable Player awards that year and each year since.

"I was also in the competitive swim team through FAST at the time and wanted to build endurance and stamina through running to perform better in swimming," La Russa said about going out for the cross country team initially. "I also thought it would be a great way to make new friends as a freshman in high school."

Bertschy starred as a center on the basketball team and sprinter on the track and field team, he capped off his career with a first-team all league naming this past spring.

"I started playing basketball with my friends after school and during lunch and really enjoyed it," Bertschy said about getting started in high school athletics. "I thought I'd like to grow my basketball skills on the court with an official team. I started track because all my friends were doing it, and I saw it as a way to help me stay in shape."

Once she caught the running bug, La Russa embraced it, she

"I love running because you can do it anytime, anywhere," she said. "You don't need any special equipment or a certain number of people to play, you just have to have the motivation to want to get out there and run.

"Competing has allowed me to build determination and diligence. Running also allows me to create personal goals to work toward in the future," LaRussa said.

Bertschy said he enjoys being part of the team.

"I love playing basketball because everyone plays a role in success in the game and I liked my role," he said. "I also like the team connections I've made with the players. I love doing track because it was a way to test myself physically and mentally as I had to push myself to the limit. Also, getting dinner after each meet was a nice bonus."

And he also enjoys conquering the challenges and competition required.

"I love the challenge it brings," Bertschy said. "One of my favorite things I did in basketball was getting rebounds which helped the team out a bunch both offensively and defensively. My favorite thing about track was trying to challenge myself to beat the next guy every single time.

"It was important for me to compete as an athlete because I like the challenge of facing others. I want to do my best in every part of life and doing sports was a way

I can push myself more. I feel it makes people a better person as they learn diligence, responsibility, and teamwork which is what I feel I've gained from this experience," he said.

La Russa is a member of the school's Associated Student Body and served as the senior class president. She was also on the track and field team and competed on the swim team and played on the basketball team. She said she plans on running cross country and playing water polo in college.

She thanked her friends and parents for helping her through all of the sports she participated in and said she is proud of her academic performance while competing.

"I met three of my best friends my freshman year by joining cross country, and we've been running together ever since," La Russa said. "My parents have always been very supportive of all that I do and encourage me to keep going."

Bertschy plans on attending the University of California Irvine in the fall to pursue a bachelor's degree in business administration. He said he also played soccer and golf in his freshman year and doesn't plan to play basketball in college unless he joins a club team.

He said attending summer club at Brengle Terrace Park in Vista taught him the fundamentals of every sport he knows and also taught him to love sports in general.

He had plenty of people to thank as well.

"Calvin Hamilton helped make both the sports I did manageable when the teammates were annoying or when we were in a game," Bertschy said when asked who inspired him. "I'd also like to shoutout all the basketball coaches I've had who taught me different things and helped me become the player I am."

La Russa also thanked her

"Coach Greene has always been the cross country and track and field coach for Bonsall High School," she said. "He has always pushed me to try harder every practice and every race. I cannot thank him enough for the support he has given me throughout these past four years.

"Coach Nunn was also the cross country and track & field coach during my freshman and sophomore year. He taught us all how to fight through the pain and struggles you face while running.

"My basketball coach, Coach Carell has also been a big influence on my life. He believed in every player and was determined to help us become strong, competitive players.

"Our athletic director, Coach Hendy has also been a big part of my high school athletic career. He would always come to our meets to cheer us on and was always very open-minded," La Russa said.

Get to know La Russa and Bertschy

Favorite subject:

La Russa: "My favorite subject is environmental engineering because I have the opportunity to construct different machines as well as experiment with different chemicals. I love engineering and hope to study mechanical engineering in college."

Bertschy: "My favorite subject in school is economics because I love learning about businesses and how to have a productive system."

Favorite teacher:

La Russa: "My favorite teacher is my former history teacher, Mr. Costa, because he was always a very open-minded person and very hands-on. My favorite project we got to do in his class was building a Rube Goldberg machine and base it off events in World War II."

Bertschy: "My favorite teacher is Dan Long who taught computer technology courses at Bonsall High School because he makes learning the very boring topics fun."

Favorite Band/Musical Artist? La Russa: "I really like The Growlers and anything surfer

Losses in key matches keep Warriors from volleyball playoff berth

Joe Naiman Village News Correspondent

Fallbrook High School's boys volleyball team completed the 2019 regular season with a 17-15 overall record, but losses in key matches deprived the Warriors of a berth in the CIF Division II

"It was disheartening," Fallbrook coach Chip Patterson

Last year the Warriors reached the CIF Division III final. The playoff divisions are based on competitive balance, and Fallbrook was moved up to Division II for this year.

We still played well, but at times we didn't finish," Patterson said. "That just hurts you when you don't finish games and take unnecessary losses."

Power rankings which have win-loss record and strength of schedule as factors are the primary criteria for playoff selection and seeding, but head-to-head competition is also considered when selecting playoff teams and seeds.

The tournament matches are won by the team which wins two sets. Fallbrook played Santana High School during the March 15-16 Del Lago Varsity Tournament. The Warriors defeated Maranatha Christian High School and Madison High School March 15, to start the tournament but concluded the first day with a 25-16, 21-25, 15-13 loss to San Pasqual High School.

The match between Fallbrook and Santana opened March 16 play for the Warriors. Fallbrook won the first game by a 30-28 overscore and took an 11-3 lead in the second set. A Santana player who went under the net on a play landed on Dominik Torrescano, who had to leave the match with an ankle injury.

"Dominik, they couldn't stop him," Patterson said.

Another Santana player who ended up under the net during a play landed on Eric Leon, who also had to be removed due to an ankle injury.

"Three or four plays later, there was Eric lying on the floor," Patterson said.

Santana won the second game by a 26-24 over score to send the match to a third set. The Sultans took a 15-11 victory in the deciding game.

"We should have beat them," Patterson said.

Santana was given the 12th seed in the CIF Division II playoffs.

"It is what it is," Patterson said. Non-tournament matches are won by the team victorious in three sets. Patterson said that the Warriors had other matches they should have won.

'We weren't closing out teams like we should," he said.

The match between Fallbrook and Escondido, which was in Division III, took place March 4. The Cougars began with a 25-22 victory, the Warriors evened the match with a 25-22 triumph, Escondido won the third game by a 25-15 score, the Warriors staved off defeat with a 25-21 win in game four and the Cougars prevailed by a 15-5 margin in the

"We just couldn't pass. We broke down on passing," Patterson

The North County Conference league alignments differ from most sports in part because the Vista Unified School District does not have boys volleyball and in part to base the leagues more on level of competition for that sport. This year the Valley League consisted of Fallbrook, Mission Vista, Sage Creek, San Dieguito Academy and Valley Center high school. Sage Creek won all eight league matches to give the Bobcats the league championship. San Dieguito had a 6-2 record. Fallbrook took third place with a 4-4 league mark.

"It's disappointing," Patterson said of the season.

The Warriors had six seniors, including four starters on this year's team. Patterson said he expects that four players including three starters will return for the

"We've really got to do better," Patterson said. "I'm confident that next year they will do well."

Bonsall High School held its annual BHS Olympics May 23, an event in which the school's teacher-led advisory classes compete against one another in various activities to determine which team can rise above the rest.

This year, such activities included tug-o-war, dodgeball, an obstacle course, a game of Kahoot, a food-eating contest, a game of Mario Kart, Google Feud and inflatable island jousting.

To wrap up the day, the entire school took part in a water fight, throwing an abundance of wet sponges at each other and reloading at strategically placed children's pools filled with water.

Daniel Costa's advisory "Team Caution" came in first place;

Karina Calderon's advisory "Team T.E.A.M" came in second place and Eric Hendy's advisory "Team X" came in third place.

After the scores were tallied, Team Caution was awarded with a pizza party for their valiant victory in the schoolwide competition.

"I was very proud of my team's effort. We represented one another and the school very well and had a lot of fun with everybody on the day," Costa said.

Of the three BHS Olympics held at the school, Costa's advisory team has won each one.

"I believe in my team, and credit our success to encouragement and high team morale, which only grew stronger after each win when we performed our Team Caution chant," Costa said.

Johnson shares PCC women's swimmer of

Joe Naiman

School Gym.

Village News Correspondent

Madalyn Johnson followed her Fallbrook High School swim career with two seasons on the Palomar College team. This year she shared Pacific Coast Conference women's swimmer of the year honors.

Johnson, who graduated from Fallbrook High School in 2017, shared the conference swimmer of the year award with secondyear Mesa College swimmer Julie Parsons, who is a 2017 Otay Ranch High School graduate.

"It was a lot of work, a lot of practices, a lot of early mornings," Johnson said.

Those hours were summarized in 25 minutes and 14 seconds over three races during the PCC championship meet, April 18-20, at Southwestern College. Johnson won the 200-yard freestyle and 500-yard freestyle races and finished second in the 1,650-yard freestyle.

Johnson needed 1 minute 56.13 seconds to win the 200-yard freestyle event.

"That's not my best event. I just kind of swam it," she said.

She swam it well enough to defeat the other competitors in that race.

"It was a good race. There were some very fast girls there," Johnson said.

The winning time Johnson had in the 500-yard freestyle was 5:12.90.

"I swam my best race. I was actually surprised how much time I dropped," she said.

Johnson dropped approximately 15 seconds off her previous best time in that event.

Palomar also took second place in the 200-yard freestyle. The Comets had the first three finishers in the 500-yard freestyle.

Despite those finishes Palomar did not win the league championship; the Comets placed second among the conference's

"We did pretty good. We didn't have a very big team this year," Johnson said.

The Comets' swimmers consisted of nine men and nine women. Two of the men, Matthew Kuhn and Bryce Sammons, are 2018 Fallbrook High School graduates. Kuhn was second in the 200-yard backstroke, third in the 100-yard backstroke and fourth in the 500-yard freestyle, and he swam the backstroke on Palomar's 400-yard medley relay team which finished second and was also on the Comets' 800-yard freestyle relay team, which took second place. Sammons, who is primarily a water polo player rather than a swimmer, did not advance past the preliminaries.

Allyson Hansen from Mesa College won the 1,650-yard race in a time of 17:51.

"She's very good," Johnson

Johnson's second-place time at the league championship meet was 18:05.

"I was happy with my time,"

The longest high school race is 500 yards. Johnson swam the 1,650-yard freestyle race at other meets during the season.

"It was long. It was painful. I like the 1,650 a lot. It's definitely a very challenging event," she said.

Johnson dropped nearly a minute off her previous best time in the 1,650-yard event.

The performances at the conference championship meet qualified Johnson for the state meet May 2-4 in Cupertino. Johnson placed fifth in the 1,650-yard freestyle, sixth in the 200-yard freestyle, and sixth in the 500-yard freestyle.

"It was pretty exciting," Johnson said of the state meet. "It was a lot of very fast kids there."

The Palomar swimmers tapered for the conference meet but could not match that training technique to prepare for the state meet.

"I didn't drop any more time," Johnson said of her state meet races. "It wasn't my fastest swim, but I was pretty happy with it."

Johnson was also on the Palomar College swim team in 2018. During last year's conference championship meet she was second in the 500-yard freestyle, third in the 100-yard backstroke and third in the 200-yard backstroke.

Last year she swam the 500yard freestyle at the state meet and placed 16th.

"It's a different environment,: Johnson said of the state meet.

Johnson swam in four Valley League meets for Fallbrook High School. Her only league championships were in 2016, when the then-junior won the 50yard freestyle final and was also on the winning 200-yard freestyle relay team. Johnson also played water polo for the Warriors.

Locals honored for contributions to Fallbrook

FALLBROOK - The Fallbrook Historical Society announced the winners of its annual awards, including 2019 Pioneer of the Year Award winner Vince Ross; The Vintage Business of the Year Award winner David Mahr and the Member of the Year Award winner Marianne Dickey. They were honored at the group's annual Open House, following its annual general meeting, June 8. Submitted by Fallbrook Historical Society.

Vince Ross Pioneer of the Year Award, 2019

Vince Ross and his wife, Joy, moved to Fallbrook in 1964. They were looking for a place with a rural character and great schools for their four children, and that is just what Fallbrook had to offer.

Ross opened a real estate office on Main Street and continued his real estate and volunteer career.

"I have been fortunate in my life and have always felt that it was my duty to do things that will benefit others and my community," Ross said.

A partial list of his community involvement includes: founder and first president of the Fallbrook Village Rotary; founder, board member and vice chair of the Fallbrook Revitalization Advisory Council, which is now named the Fallbrook Community Forum; founding president and current vice president of the Fallbrook Village Association; co-founder and vice president of the Fallbrook Land Conservancy; Fallbrook Elementary School Board member, president of the 1967 Fallbrook Young Republicans and more.

"The question for me is, 'How can I help my community?" Ross

Some of the lasting results of his efforts that have improved the quality of life in Fallbrook can be seen with the formation of the Fallbrook Revitalization Advisory Council in 1988, which is still meeting; the formation of the Fallbrook Village Association in 1992 that created the Fallbrook

Art Center, School of the Arts, Art in Public Places, the Vince Ross Square, Jackie Heyneman Park; co-founder of the Fallbrook Land Conservancy and partnership contributor for the donation of the Palomares House and Park and the Monserate Preserve and Trail. The Fallbrook Land Conservancy has grown to now own 2300 acres composed of 14 preserves and 900 environmental easements and many trails.

Ross is something of a Renaissance man to Fallbrook residents. His pioneering legacy will endure, but he always gives credit to the many deserving people who have worked hard with him to make good things happen in Fallbrook.

Mostly Windows, David Mahr Vintage Business Award 2019

David Mahr's father, Bill, opened a carpet store called, "The Carpet Company," on South Mission in 1984. David Mahr worked with his father in the store from the first day.

Three years later, his mother, Diana, and her business partner, Charleen Sharp, rented another storefront in the same building and began selling window coverings under the name, "Mostly Windows."

In 1998, The Mahrs bought the building at 110 N. Main and combined both businesses at that

"They chose to keep the name 'Mostly Windows' because that was my mother's preference," David Mahr said. "And the store has been here on Main ever since."

Charleen Sharp is no longer part of Mostly Windows, but she continues to consult closely with

"Mom and Pop" shops come and go in Fallbrook just like everywhere else, so it is heartening when a family business is successful in town for decades and across generations. David Mahr has been running the store since his father's death and his mother's retirement.

"In a small town, it doesn't take long for word to get around about a business. We keep our doors open by making sure we have good prices, good installers and good service," David Mahr said.

The Mahr family roots in Fallbrook date back to 1919 when grandfather Harold moved here. Generations of Mahrs have been business owners in Fallbrook over the last 100 years.

In the early 1930s David Mahr's grandfather ran Mahr's Texaco and Auto Supply in the building that is now the Main St. Cafe. A great-uncle started Mahr Ranch off Live Oak Park in 1948. Uncle Eddie Mahr opened Texaco and Foodmart on East Mission. There was Texaco and Towing, Mahrs Tire and Auto and a cousin owned Sheri's Flowers on East Mission

The Mahr family owned the property where the emblematic fig tree grows on Ammunition Road near Albertsons next to the Carl's Jr. Planted more than 100 years ago, the tree was already large in the 1920s when the Mahr boys and the neighboring Clemmens boys played marbles in the shade under the canopy. A century ago, the tree was protected as a condition of any sale. An icon of that fig tree was the logo on the original business card for The Carpet Company.

"I love Fallbrook for the a teenager though, all you want peacefulness," David Mahr said. "When you are young, there is plenty to do here. It is a great place to be a kid. When you are to do is leave, and I did. I lived lots of places and commuted back to Fallbrook every day for the store. But, one day I realized that Fallbrook is a special place. It is our own little bubble and that is when I moved back."

Marianne Dickey Member of the Year 2019

Marianne Dickey and her husband Bob moved to Fallbrook from Orange County when Bob

Dickey retired in 2008. "Fallbrook had just what we were looking for," she said. "We liked the small town feel, the trees and the open spaces."

Marianne Dickey continued working for several more years and commuted by train to White Memorial Hospital in East Los Angeles, boarding at 4:30 a.m. every morning for the long trip.

"I have always been a history buff, even in high school,' Marianne Dickey said.

When she finally retired, she visited the Fallbrook Historical Society Museum. She enjoyed the experience and decided to become a docent at the museum to share Fallbrook history with visitors. Before long, she was elected to the Historical Society Board of Directors. In that capacity,

Marianne Dickey is secretary and

"I really enjoy meeting and talking with folks in the community," she said. When the caboose came to town, she volunteered to design and install the display inside. "I rode trains a lot, but I didn't know that the caboose on historic trains was actually a home for the

I did that display," she said. It has proven to be popular with the community, she said. Over 4,000 visitors toured the caboose conductor and rear brakeman until during the 2019 Avocado Festival. Marianne Dickey helps Fallbrook in another, more unusual way: she raises monarch butterflies in her home. She watches a butterfly until it lays eggs. Then, she collects the eggs, brings them inside, hatches the caterpillars and feeds them milkweed until the chrysalis stage. When the adult butterflies emerge, she sets them free and again watches for them to lay eggs.

"Last year I released about 400 healthy monarch butterflies," she said. "Although they are most active in summer and fall, I am hatching monarchs 12 months a year."

Her willingness to help out in any situation and the professional quality of her efforts have earned her the Member of the Year award.

"I think that a historical society is important for every town," she said. "A lot of people today do not have a sense of community. We are so lucky to live in a small town where we can know our neighbors and work together to make things better for all of us."

Playing Scrabble gives the brain a workout

Maggie Schmutz

Writer Intern

Scrabble may just seem like a fun board game to play with the family, but for seniors it can be an important part of maintaining and strengthening cognitive function. For most people, playing word games stimulates the part of the brain that deals with language; however, research has shown that for more seasoned Scrabble players a completely different part of the brain is utilized.

A study done by the University of Calgary found that expert Scrabble players are more likely to use the areas of their brains associated with working memory and visual processing. This distinction is important when thinking about how playing Scrabble can help seniors, especially those who have suffered brain injuries or are recovering from a stroke.

Dennis Day, who plays Scrabble weekly at the Fallbrook Senior Center, said that the game helped him recover from his stroke.

"It helps my brain work," Day said.

He said that sometimes the game helps him to remember words he had forgotten. Scrabble helps him to exercise the parts of his brain that are related to language and can be damaged by stroke, improving recovery.

Companionship is also a health benefit. According to the National Institute on Aging, "social isolation constitutes a major risk factor for morbidity and mortality, especially in older Kathy Jolowicz, who plays Scrabble with Day every week at the Senior Center, said that companionship is one the big parts of the game.

Kathy Jolowic, left, and Dennis Day play Scrabble every Thursday, 10 a.m., at the Fallbrook Senior Center.

"(It's) the social aspect of it as well as the mental aspect," Jolowicz said.

Research has also shown that social well-being may be associated with lower levels of interleukin-6. Interleukin-6 is implicated in age-related disorders like Alzheimer's disease, osteoporosis, rheumatoid arthritis, cardiovascular disease and some forms of cancer.

Lack of social interaction may have an impact physically as well as emotionally. Studies suggested that people who are lonely frequently have elevated systolic blood pressure.

The Fallbrook Senior Center said they hold a weekly Scrabble game Thursdays at 10 a.m. Jolowicz and Day both said they encourage seniors to come out and play.

More information about Fallbrook Senior Center and the Scrabble group can be found at www.fallbrookseniorcenter.com.

Don't let summer just happen

The American Counseling Association

Special to Village News

Most people, from young children to senior citizens, look forward to the opportunities of summer. While they may complain some days about the heat and humidity, the warmer weather and slower pace offers a chance to relax, to take advantage of more outdoor activities and perhaps to even enjoy a well-earned vacation.

But sometimes the temptation is just to sit back and let summer happen. It might sound tempting, but it often means time suddenly flies by, the children are bored and cranky and the family has missed many good things summer had to offer.

The solution is to do some simple presummer planning to maximize the more-relaxed time that this season allows.

An important starting point is with the children. While their summer plans may revolve around staying up late every night and sleeping until noon the next day, experts advised that life goes more smoothly if a family has a set schedule and sticks to it. When mealtimes and bedtimes are on a consistent schedule, children feel more comfortable and usually are more cooperative.

Take time to make plans with the children for summer activities. For teenagers, it might mean encouraging them to seek that summer job now or to enroll in a summer enrichment program. For younger children, it can mean organizing play dates or setting up a regular schedule for playground or pool visits.

Whether there are children in the family or not, this time of year make some clear plans for a summer vacation, if that hasn't already been discussed. Lastminute vacation planning usually means increased stress and that's not the point of a vacation. A real vacation means leaving behind the responsibilities and demands of home and work that really reduce stress levels. Recent studies have shown that the majority of people are living overly stressful lives, and high levels of stress, over prolonged periods of time, can negatively affect both our mental and physical health.

So plan now for a summer that will bring you relaxation and revitalization. Whether it's a long beach vacation, or just a drive to visit relatives in another state, taking the time to enjoy the season can bring many benefits and can keep families from waking up in mid-September wondering how the summer disappeared.

High-risk pregnancy care now available at LLUMC-Murrieta

Women who encounter unexpected complications during pregnancy can receive comprehensive Courtesy photo care at Loma Linda University Medical Center – Murrieta's new maternal fetal medicine program.

LOMA LINDA – Loma Linda complications during pregnancy. University Medical Center -Murrieta announced the launch of its new maternal fetal medicine program, which provides comprehensive prenatal care to

The new program rounds out a full range of mother and baby care services offered at LLUMC -

The maternal fetal medicine women experiencing unexpected program provides more advanced care for expectant mothers who have been diagnosed with a high-risk pregnancy. High-risk pregnancies can occur for a variety of reasons, including advanced maternal age, chronic medical conditions such as diabetes or high blood pressure, multiple pregnancy with twins or more and a history of preterm labor. Each condition may necessitate closer monitoring and the medical need to see a specialist.

Doctors have said a high-risk pregnancy does not necessarily mean that it will be more difficult than a lowrisk pregnancy. However, depending on the specifics surrounding the pregnancy, it can mean a range of advanced care is needed such as comprehensive prenatal screening, pregnancy monitoring and advanced diagnostics. To appropriately address high-risk concerns, the maternal fetal medicine program works closely with the patient's obstetrician and provides access to a specialist physician.

The maternal fetal medicine physician is an obstetriciangynecologist who has undergone three additional years of education specializing in high-risk pregnancy. These physicians work with mothers from pregnancy through delivery, managing their risks and developing labor and delivery plans.

"This has been a two-year quest to completing the prenatal service care line," Rene Tovar, executive director of specialty services at LLUMC -Murrieta, said. "We have created the ideal environment for patients with high-risk pregnancy needs to receive exceptional care."

LLUMC - Murrieta offers a multitude of prenatal services, including calming birthing suites, skin-to-skin bonding program, lactation services and support groups. In addition to these programs, LLUMC – Murrieta is dedicated to providing robust care to expectant moms by expanding new services to include a state-ofthe-art Level II NICU and an OB Hospitalist program.

"Providing exceptional maternal fetal care is vital to the health of our community," Peter Baker, senior vice president and administrator at LLUMC-Murrieta, said. "This additional service provides women in Murrieta and surrounding communities the ability to receive expert high-risk pregnancy care alongside our established maternity and OB/GYN services."

Learn about new advancements in Parkinson's disease medications

FALLBROOK – The Fallbrook Parkinson's Support group will hold their monthly meeting Friday, June 28, from 10 a.m. to noon at the fellowship hall of Christ the King Lutheran Church, 1620 S. Stage Coach Lane, in Fallbrook.

This month's speaker, Sherrie Gould, a nurse practitioner with the Family and Neurology Scripps Clinic, will talk about "New Advancements in Parkinson's Medications, Duopa" with Dustin Ubrun of Abbvie Pharmaceutical.

Gould will focus on Parkinson's disease and other movement disorders. In 2009, she founded a research project to transplant dopamine-producing neurons made from patients own skin cells, potentially eliminating the motor symptoms of Parkinson's disease. The project continues, to learn more about empowering the Parkinson's disease community worldwide, visit http://sherriegould.com.

She said her passion is empowering people with Parkinson's disease to reach lofty goals, and as a consequence she has lead trips around the globe with people with Parkinson's disease and their loved ones to Mt. Kilimanjaro in Tanzania, base camp of Everest in Nepal, Machu Picchu in Peru and more recently the Camino de Santiago in Spain.

She was awarded the Health Hero Award in both 2011 and 2013 for her commitment to the Parkinson's disease community. Gould was recognized by CANP for her commitment to Parkinson's disease research in 2014. She was given the Nurse Practitioner Award of Distinction by the California Association of Nurse Practitioners Break out groups held for a time of sharing, coffee and refreshments will follow the program. The meeting is held in support of persons with Parkinson's disease, care partners and people interested in improving the world of those affected by Parkinson's disease.

Two unusual exhibitions on view at Z Cafe

FALLBROOK - New artwork was hung on the walls of the Z Cafe June 3, and it will be there until Sept. 2, including views of Turkish marbling from Lisa and Rick Mayer and photographic portraits from far away places from Jordan Verdin.

A reception will be held in the artists' honor Saturday, June 15, from 3 to 5 p.m. at the lower gallery at the Z Cafe. Everyone is invited to come for a drink and a bite.

Lisa and Rick Mayer created The Mayer Collection: original acrylic art on silk, stretched over gallery-wrapped canvas. They also offer original photographic giclees on canvas in limited editions.

The Mayers had separate careers in business after college, and both said they had always had an interest in design. Lisa Mayer had a creative interest in clothing design and production, so she became a stay-at-home mother and entrepreneur. Rick Mayer, with courses in design, spent decades in construction design and business.

Both artists became interested in the ancient art of Turkish marbling, and after training and research, they joined their creative talents to produce their artwork on silk. The Mayers work to create each original piece after brainstorming their choice of colors and design.

photographer for the past 10 years working with non-governmental organizations which provide clean water to communities in African countries, the Dominican Republic and Haiti and who provide education and housing to human trafficking survivors in Nepal.

After Verdin obtained his degree in negotiation, conflict resolution and peace building, he decided to intersect his passion for photography and storytelling as a way to dismantle stereotypes and stigmas. Verdin has worked for years with the homeless community, capturing their portraits and also their stories.

He currently has a photographic exhibit in Oceanside featuring the portraits and stores of that community's homeless. Recently, his work has extended to refugee camps in Tijuana, Mexico.

'We Are Fallbrook' show is up

FALLBROOK – The Fallbrook Art Association will host the "We are Fallbrook" art show at The Gallery, 127 N. Main Street, in Fallbrook. The show runs through June 16 and was judged by Richard Stergulz.

This show includes a special photo competition of "Life in Fallbrook" judged by the public. Residents can stop by the gallery to place their vote.

The show judge, Richard Stergulz, is an Illinois native who by age of eight knew he wanted to be an artist. He graduated from the American Academy of Art in Chicago in 1983 which began his commercial art career.

After 12 years of doing commercial art, Stergulz said he felt it was time to fine tune his fine art style. He moved to California in 1995 and started painting in a realistic style with a touch of Russian impressionism.

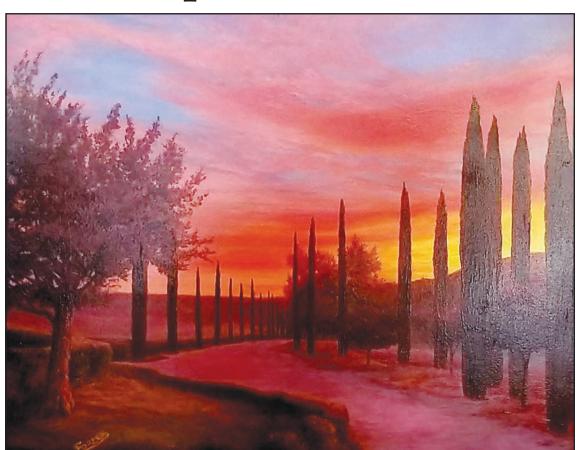

His paintings have won numerous awards from Best of Show to People's Choice. He teaches class four days a week at his art school and artist retreat, The Green Art House. Find more information at www. thegreenarthouse.org.

The "We Are Fallbrook" show winners are first place "Wine Country Winter Wonder" by Debbie Forbes; second place "Forlorn in Fallbrook" by Penny Fedorchak; third place "Said the Raven to the Crow" by Bonnie Rinier; Best of Show "October in the Wasatch" by Lynda Thorne and Special Theme award "The Bird-Friendly Village of Fallbrook" by Hajime Ohno.

The public is invited to the art association's monthly meetings. They will hold a Summer Potluck Saturday, June 15, from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Fallbrook Women's Club, 238 W. Mission Road, in Fallbrook. Attendees are asked to bring a dish, an appetizer, salad, main dish, side dish or dessert.

Gala tickets will be available at the meeting at a reduced price. FAA's 50 Year Gala Celebration and Fundraiser is Sept. 28, at Pala Mesa Resort, from 3-6 p.m. There will be live music, hors d'oeuvres, a photo booth, a silent auction and a raffle.

Theatre Royale's 'Newsies' is fun for the whole family

Crutchie, Jack and other newsies pose, ready for the Shane Gibson photos strike in Theatre Royale's "Newsies" at Pechanga Resort Casino.

Maggie Schmutz

Writer Intern

Summer is the perfect time to see a musical. What better way to escape the hot afternoons and evenings than with an exciting story that is sure to capture hearts? Theatre Royale's "Newsies," with its energetic dance numbers and uplifting spirit, is sure to do just Playing at Pechanga Resort Casino, "Newsies" tells the story of the 1899 newsboy strike, which was an attempt to force Joseph Pulitzer and William Randolph Hearst to change the way they compensated their newsboys, otherwise known as newsies. Dillon Klena, who plays the charismatic Jack Kelly in this production, explained the plot.

"Joseph Pulitzer, the main antagonist in the show, he raises the price of papes, so that makes us not able to get enough money for our lives. I hat's the reason why the strike happens. We're not getting treated fair, so we're going to strike. Because if we won't work, how are they going to sell papers? So Jack and his friends Davey and Crutchie, we all go on strike, and along the way, there are some trials and tribulations that happen,"

The show has a little bit of something for everyone with ballads alongside tap numbers, and between the splits, flips and kicks of the newsboys, there's a love story.

"I fall in love with a girl named Katherine, spoiler alert," Klena said of Kelly's love interest in the show, Katherine Plumber.

Plumber is a journalist who covers the strike and helps to draw attention to the issue the newsies are facing.

"It's very important for society then, because these boys that were living on the streets, they didn't have any families, and they were basically just struggling to provide for themselves," Klena said. "They wanted to be treated as equals, and not be treated as just kids, not be treated as the vermin on the streets."

Watching the boys rally around Kelly shows the power of the movement; however, Kelly, who is later described in the musical as "the face of the strike," longs for the far away land of Santa Fe, New Mexico, where he's heard that life is much more simple than it is in New York City.

"He's basically the leader of the newsies, and the brother and father figure for all the newsboys," Klena said about his character. "I live by a quote in my life, 'Be somebody that makes everybody feel like a somebody,' and that's what I feel like Jack encompasses ... Through every single time he interacts with one of the other boys, he has a personal connection to each and every one of them, and that's what makes him the perfect hero and the perfect protagonist for this story."

The strong sense of conflict that Kelly feels, torn between the family he has built in New York and the promise of a fulfilling life far away, climaxes in one of the most powerful songs of the show, "Santa Fe." When asked about his favorite part of the show, Klena was quick to name "Santa Fe" as a top contender.

"Obvious answer could be 'Santa Fe," Klena said. "Because that's amazing, but also I think all the group numbers with the boys, 'World Will Know,' 'Seize the Day,' all the songs that really show the camaraderie, 'Carrying the Banner,' they really show the life of these kids, and that's what's important."

However, theater goers don't need to be a newsboy to relate to the themes of the show, Klena said.

"Everyone has a Santa Fe. Santa Fe is not just a place, it's a dream, it's like a safe haven, a light at the end of the tunnel. That's what Santa Fe means to me," Klena said. "The themes of the show are just family and brotherhood, and if you have a goal, don't be afraid to reach for it and don't let anything stand in your way because no matter what, the only person who can stop you from reaching your goal is yourself."

"Newsies' is fun for all ages, and it lets everybody know that no matter where they are in their life, no matter what problems may come about, or what things may stand in their way, to never stop trying to reach for your goals. It makes people believe that anything is possible if you just try and if you just go the extra mile, anything can happen," Klena said.

See Dillon Klena as Jack Kelly in "Newsies" June 22, at 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. and June 23, at 2 p.m. at Pechanga Resort Casino, 45000 Pechanga Parkway, in Temecula. For tickets, visit www.pechanga. com/entertain/newsies.

ACTION TO PROTECT YOUR PROPERTY, IT MAY BE SOLD AT A PUBLIC SALE. IF YOU NEED AN EXPLANATION OF THE NATURE OF THE PROCEEDING AGAINST YOU, YOU SHOULD CONTACT A LAWYER. A public auction sale to the highest bidder for cash, cashier's check drawn on a state or national bank, check drawn by state or federal credit union, or a check drawn by a state or federal savings and loan association, or savings association, or savings bank specified in Section 5102 to the Financial Code and authorized to do business in this state will be held by duly appointed trustee. The sale will be made, but without covenant or warranty, expressed or implied, regarding title, possession, or encumbrances, to pay the remaining principal sum of the note(s) secured by the Deed of Trust, with interest and late charges thereon, as provided in the note(s), advances, under the terms of the Deed of Trust, interest thereon, fees, charges and expenses of the Trustee for the total amount (at the time of the initial publication of the Notice of Sale) reasonably estimated to be set forth below. The amount may be greater on the day of sale. BENEFICIARY MAY ELECT TO BID LESS THAN THE TOTAL AMOUNT DUE. Trustor (s): Danny E Ratigan, a single man Recorded: 2/27/2006 as Instrument No. 2006-0140919 and re-recorded on 7/8/2011 as Instrument Number 2011-0345572 of Official Records in the office of the Recorder of SAN DIEGO County, California; Date of Sale: 6/21/2019 at 9:00 AM Place of Sale: At the Entrance of the East County Regional Center, 250 E. Main Street, El Cajon, CA 92020 Amount of unpaid balance and other charges: $408,220.61 The purported property address is: 827 BARSBY ST, VISTA, CA 92084 Assessor's Parcel No.: 171-180-08-00 Legal Description: Please be advised that the legal description set forth on the Deed of Trust is in error. The legal description of the property secured by the Deed of Trust is more properly set forth and made part of Exhibit "A" as attached hereto. That portion of Lot 67 in Block 3 of Vista Acres, in the County of San Diego, State of California, according to Map thereof No. 2187, filed in the Office of the County Recorder of San Diego County, September 15, 1930, described as follows: Beginning at a point on the Northerly line of said Lot 67, distant thereon South 89° 32' 00" East, 129.00 feet from the Northwesterly corner thereof, said point being the Northeasterly comer of land conveyed to Arthur Eiben, et ux, by deed recorded July 12, 1965 as File No. 124058, Official Records; thence along the boundary of said Eiben's Land South 00° 24' 40" West, 129.60 feet and North 89° 32' 00" West, 131.65 feet to a point in the West line of said Lot 67; thence South 01° 34' 32" West along said West line 193.34 feet to the Northwest corner of land conveyed to Lucile M. NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call 800-280-2832 for information regarding the trustee's sale or visit this Internet Web site http://www.qualityloan.com, using the file number assigned to this foreclosure by the Trustee CA-18-847694-CL. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. The undersigned Trustee disclaims any liability for any incorrectness of the property address or other common designation, if any, shown herein. If no street address or other common designation is shown, directions to the location of the property may be obtained by sending a written request to the beneficiary within 10 days of the date of first publication of this Notice of Sale. If the sale is set aside for any reason, including if the Trustee is unable to convey title, the Purchaser at the sale shall be entitled only to a return of the monies paid to the Trustee. This shall be the Purchaser's sole and exclusive remedy. The purchaser shall have no further recourse against the Trustor, the Trustee, the Beneficiary, the Beneficiary's Agent or the Beneficiary's Attorney. If you have previously been discharged through bankruptcy, you may have been released of personal liability for this loan in which case this letter is intended to exercise the note holders right's against the real property only. Main Street, El Cajon, CA 92020 Amount of unpaid balance and other charges: $1,188,076.78 The purported property address is: 445 HIGHLAND OAKS LANE, FALLBROOK, CA 92028 Assessor's Parcel No.: 121-352-09-00 NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call 855 238-5118 for information regarding the trustee's sale or visit this Internet Web site http://www.qualityloan. com, using the file number assigned to this foreclosure by the Trustee: CA-18-843298-AB. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. The undersigned Trustee disclaims any liability for any incorrectness of the property address or other common designation, if any, shown herein. If no street address or other common designation is shown, directions to the location of the property may be obtained by sending a written request to the beneficiary within 10 days of the date of first publication of this Notice of Sale. If the sale is set aside for any reason, including if the Trustee is unable to convey title, the Purchaser at the sale shall be entitled only to a return of the monies paid to the Trustee. This shall be the Purchaser's sole and exclusive remedy. The purchaser shall have no further recourse against the Trustor, the Trustee, the Beneficiary, the Beneficiary's Agent, or the Beneficiary's Attorney. If you have previously been discharged through bankruptcy, you may have been released of personal liability for this loan in which case this letter is intended to exercise the note holders right's against the real property only.
